We have provided an evaluation sheet at the end of this publication. It will assist us in improving future reports if you complete and return it at your convenience.

This project was supported by Federal Grant No. 83-BJ-CX-K018 awarded to the National Center for State Courts, Williamsburg, Virginia, by the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS), U.S. Department of Justice, under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, as amended. The Court Statistics and Information Management Project is directed by Victor E. Flango for the National Center for State Courts and monitored by Carla K. Gaskins for BJS. This State Court Caseload Statistics: Annual Report, 1979 is the fifth in a series containing statistical caseload data compiled from the annual reports of each state court system and from other available data. This volume results from a cooperative effort between the National Center for State Courts and the Conference of State Court Administrators (COSCA), to develop within the Center a national database of state court caseload statistics. The effort is funded by the Bureau of Justice Statistics.

For the first time, the data reported in this volume are available on computer tape. This will be a major asset to those conducting research on state court management. The Center hopes to continue this automation in future years.

The Court Statistics and Information Management Project (CSIM) continues to expand the scope of its activities and capabilities, shifting its focus from data collection and publication to the analysis of these data for the benefit of the courts community. This Annual Report series, however, will continue to be the principal project publication. From year to year the reported data demonstrate gradual improvement in the quantity and quality of court data.

The National Center has been assisted in data gathering for the production of the Annual Report by state and local-level court personnel from across the country. The leadership of COSCA and especially the COSCA-CSIS Committee, now chaired by Walter Kane, have helped guide project staff in their search for ways to present these data in a way that is both comprehensive and comprehensible.

management data, and facilitate the project's goal of disseminating statistical information in a form conducive to research.

As always, we must caution the reader of this report to pay close attention to all indications of the completeness and comparability of data, and to read the introduction to the report where the methodology used to construct the report is discussed. This year, staff has developed face sheets for the summary tables which further outline the sources of data, the rationale behind some of the summary statistics, and minimum limitations that should be considered in interpreting the data. An inspection of the current edition and the four previous editions of the report should demonstrate to the reader that the quality and quantity of court-related data continue to improve.

Acknowledgments

The preparation of State Court Caseload Statistics: Annual Report, 1979 has been supervised and greatly assisted by the Court Statistics and Information Systems (CSIS) Committee appointed from the membership of the Conference of State Court Administrators (COSCA). The CSIS Committee members have given generously of their time, talent, and experience, and their participation has been invaluable to the project staff. The positive control exerted by COSCA through this committee, using a review and approval process, has greatly enhanced the quality of this report.

The COSCA CSIS Committee members, however, are not the only COSCA members whose assistance has been vital to the production of this document. The administrators and their staff in all the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico have provided the Court Statistics and Information Management Project with whatever research materials they had available, both published and unpublished, and they have been consistently patient and helpful in answering written and telephoned inquiries for more data or for explanations of the data provided. Their continuing support of the development of a national data base of state court statistics within the National Center for State Courts is the crucial element in determining the quality of the statistics that are being gathered.

The members of the National Conference of Appellate Court Clerks are another indispensable source of much-needed data. The clerks volunteered to provide and verify appellate court data that in many states are unavailable from any other source. Their assistance has been invaluable in increasing both the quantity and the quality of appellate court data available to the project.

The Court Statistics and Information Management Project staff would like to recognize and thank all these many individuals who have contributed to this fifth in the series of annual reports on state court caseload statistics.

Highlights

Production of the Annual Report series is an evolutionary process with the long-term goal of improving the statistical series playing an important role for the Court Statistics and Information Management Project. This process is further discussed in the introduction.

Data availability has improved greatly from the first half of this century, when the first national compilation of caseload data was attempted. This improvement in the quantity of available data has continued with significantly more data being reported for 1979 and 1978 than for previous years. Some gross volume data are displayed in this report for all appellate courts, for most of the trial courts of general jurisdiction, and for many of the trial courts of limited or special jurisdiction. However, the validity and reliability of much of the data reported has not been ascertained.

Substantial effort by the Court Statistics and Information Management Project (CSIM) staff and the Conference of State Court Administrators CSIS Committee was required to develop a methodology for displaying nationwide state court caseload for the first annual report, published in 1979 to cover the 1975 court year. During preliminary attempts to aggregate available statistics into specific groupings, it became obvious that any realistic compilation must have a structure derived from, not superimposed upon, the data reported by the states. The second annual report (i.e., 1976), published in 1980, reflected that orientation and emphasis, with augmentations made to improve the presentation of the data and to accommodate the addition of limited jurisdiction data. In the third edition of the Annual Report series, the summary tables were extensively revised to reflect recommendations made by members of the Methodological Review Panel. The summary statistics as presented in this fifth annual report reflect the existing situation in state court statistics and are presented in a format designed to increase their usefulness.

For the reader of this document, cautionary notes necessarily abound. Because of many state-to-state variations in the kinds of data reported, the summary tables in this annual report do not permit extensive, valid, direct comparisons of caseload among states without careful examination of all the factors involved in assuring that the data are comparable. Variations in data availability, court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, definitions of case types and units of count, reporting periods, and the degrees of completeness and accuracy of data all combine to make cross-jurisdictional comparisons extremely complex. These variations are discussed in general terms in the introduction to the report. The limitations on analysis section can be found in the face sheets accompanying each summary table.

Comparisons among the 1979 data contained in this report and the 1975, 1976, 1977 and 1978 data contained in the first four reports in this series should be made only after careful examination of the factors mentioned above to ascertain that these factors have not changed for the courts of interest.

The report is divided into two parts, each with its own purpose. The summary statistical tables in Part I were constructed from the individual court profiles for all the states found in Part II.

Depending on the interest of the user, he can proceed from the general to the specific or vice versa. Users of the report may locate a summary table of interest in Part I, for example, one containing caseload inventory data for domestic relations cases. An examination of the data contained in the table may stimulate questions that are answered in part by reference to either the court organization charts or individual court profiles contained in Part II. Another approach is to first examine a court profile in Part II of the document, and then turn to the appropriate summary tables in Part I to compare caseload volume of other courts with similar jurisdiction to that of the court of interest.

This two-part structure for the document required its preparation to proceed in stages. First an overview court organization chart and an individual statistical profile was prepared for each state's appellate and trial courts. The resulting documentation makes up Part II of this report. Data were then compiled into nationwide inventory statistics (begin pending, filed, disposed, and end pending). The inventory statistics were separated where possible into broad case category classifications, chosen to reflect the kinds of data being reported by the states.

Several general observations can be made about the 1979 state court caseload data. First, in addition to the increase in available data, the number of cases filed in the courts has also increased from 1978 to 1979. The caseload estimates indicate that the number of cases filed per judge has increased. Most trial courts also reported increases in the number of filings from 1978 to 1979. Second, the courts have managed to handle this increase in filings fairly well with most courts disposing between 90 and 100 percent of the number of cases filed. A few courts disposed more cases than were filed. The disposition rates of less than 100 percent, however, mean that most courts are adding to their pending caseload. For courts reporting pending caseload, most had increases of less than 20 percent. Finally, for courts reporting pending and filed data, the number of cases pending at the end of the year as a percent of the number of cases filed was less than 60 percent for most courts of last resort, less than 90 percent for most intermediate appellate courts and for civil caseload in most trial courts, less than 50 percent for criminal caseload in most trial courts, and less than 50 percent for juvenile caseload in most trial courts.

The composition of the caseload of the courts is also of interest. In the appellate courts, the data available indicate that approximately 55 percent of the appeals filed in 1979 were civil appeals. For the trial courts in 1979 the caseload estimates indicate that of the 80.5 million cases filed, approximately 14 million were civil cases, 10.6 million were criminal cases, 54.4 million were traffic cases, and 1.8 million were juvenile cases.

The court organization charts and statistical profiles in Part II are helpful references because they indicate not only the organization and subject matter jurisdiction of the courts in each state, but also the differences in reporting periods, units of count, and variations in case categories and classifications. They show at a glance how much data were available for comparison purposes.

Introduction

Introduction

Courts Statistics and Information Management Project

The Annual Report series of state court caseload statistics is the product of the continuing cooperative relationship between the Conference of State Court Administrators (COSCA) and the National Center for State Courts (NCSC). Financial management, project management, and project staffing responsibility are assumed by the Court Statistics and Information Management (CSIM) Project, formerly called the National Court Statistics Project (NCSP) of the NCSC. COSCA, through its Court Statistics and Information Systems Committee, provides general policy review, guidance, and control over all project activities. The series is funded by the Bureau of Justice Statistics.

The twin goals of the Court Statistics and Information Management Project are to collect, compile, analyze, and disseminate state court caseload statistics and to help states improve the quality of the data they report by assisting them in resolving their statistical problems. The Annual Report series responds directly to the first goal by compiling all available state court caseload data from the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico.¹

Uses of court statistical data

The four major uses of court statistical data, as identified in the NCSP publications, State Court Caseload Statistics: The State of the Art and Court Case Management Information Systems Manual², are (1) operational (aiding in the execution of routine day-to-day activities at the local level); (2) management (decision making at the state or local level concerned with improvement of the court process and system-wide efficiency in the use of court resources); (3) internal planning and research (goal setting and policy planning to establish long-term programs and identify evolving problems); and (4) indirect court uses (decision making by those outside the courts concerned with policymaking or research about court operations). The various uses of court statistics require different levels of detail and analysis, but the availability of detailed statistics is dependent upon the statistical reporting system used at the state or local level. This annual report has restricted its scope to the level of detail currently available from state-level reporting systems.

Operational decisions are made at the local level and require detailed information on a case-by-case basis. These decisions must be made daily and cannot be based upon year-end summary statistics such as those contained in this 1979 report.

¹Repetition of "50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico" becomes very cumbersome. Throughout the rest of this report, "states" and "court systems" will be used for the reporting units that include the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico.

²National Court Statistics Project, National Center for State Courts, State Court Caseload Statistics: The State of the Art (Washington, D.C.: U.S. Government Printing Office, 1978). Clifford and Jensen, Court Case Management Information Systems Manual (Williamsburg, National Center for State Courts, 1983).

Management decisions can be made at either the state or local level and require aggregation of detailed information used for operational decisions. Caseload management data such as that needed to determine the status of the preparation of the record for appeal or to generate exception reports are gathered by some state reporting systems, but this kind of information is also case specific and too detailed to be compiled and used for nationwide comparisons. In contrast, state-level summary statistics are useful for management purposes in areas such as comparisons of time lapses in case processing to establish norms or guides; analyses to determine assignments of judges needed to relieve backlog; analyses to determine the need for additional judges, support personnel, or facilities; and analyses to determine the impact of an intermediate appellate court on the state system.

In response to the recognized need for certain management data nationally, the 1979 Annual Report has concentrated on uniformly classifying caseload data and on compiling available case processing time data. Caseload and case processing are major components of court workload, which the NCSP has defined to mean all court-related matters that consume time and effort (hence, purely administrative and ministerial functions are also included as workload). Measurement of court workload per se is not directly addressed in this report, but caseload inventory data and data regarding the number of trials do provide partial indications of the extent of judicial activity. The data presented in this report reflect the quantity of management data now available from each state's reporting system in published and unpublished reports.

Internal planning and research, as well as planning and research by those outside the court system, require a much wider range of data and analysis than operational and management decisions. The information necessary for these purposes often includes not only an aggregation of data on caseload and caseload but also specific data regarding status of cases, as well as information on court operations, judicial budgets, actions prior to filing a case, and actions after disposition of a case. Of interest to some individuals within and outside the court system are studies on a wide range of other subjects, such as the effect and cost of litigation, bail availability and uniformity including recognizance/10% bail programs, the validity of case weighting techniques, sentence disparity patterns, the effects of plea negotiation on caseloads, and the impact of legislation. To answer these questions is, however, beyond the capabilities of most state or even local court information systems. Basic information on caseload and caseload is adequate for many other planning and research issues where the level of needed detail is not as high. These latter kinds of issues include, for example, case filing and disposition trend analysis, caseload composition analysis, analysis of reversal rates, time lapse analysis to establish norms and guides, and forecasting of caseload volumes to determine resource and facilities needs.

Scope of the data in the annual report series

The first annual report (1975) presented available caseload data for state appellate courts and trial courts of general jurisdiction, and for selected categories (juvenile, domestic relations, probate, and mental health) in limited jurisdiction courts. The second annual report (1976) again presented available data for appellate courts and courts of general jurisdiction, and also included all available caseload data for all limited jurisdiction courts. As data from each court level become more complete, future aggregation of trial court caseloads should become more meaningful.

The 1976 report was expanded to include Puerto Rico. Data from Guam were added for the 1977 court year. The scope of future reports will be broadened to include American Samoa and the Virgin Islands when these data become available.

This report reflects court organization and jurisdiction as it existed in 1979, but the reader should keep in mind that court systems are not static entities. For example, in 1979, Connecticut consolidated its trial courts, eliminating its Juvenile Court and Court of Common Pleas and shifting this jurisdiction to its Superior Court. Massachusetts unified all its trial courts into a new Trial Court of the Commonwealth; all the former courts became divisions of the new unified court. The dollar amount limits of civil jurisdiction have changed in many courts. Because court organizational or jurisdictional characteristics change over time, caution should be exercised in attempting to compare the data in this 1979 report with earlier data or with more current data.

Data collection

Data sources. The sources of data for the tables presented in this series are published annual reports provided by the states and unpublished statistical material requested of and supplied by state court administrators and appellate court clerks. (Appendix B of this report identifies the sources of data from each state.) Additional relevant information was secured from appropriate personnel in each state. Telephone contact and follow-up correspondence were used to collect missing data, confirm the accuracy of available data, and determine the legal jurisdiction of each court. Information was collected concerning the number of judges per court or court system (from annual reports, offices of state court administrators, and appellate clerks); the state population (based on Bureau of the Census 1979 revised estimates); other 1979 demographic data (taken from the Statistical Abstract of the United States: 1980³); and special characteristics regarding subject matter jurisdiction and court structure. When explanation of a court's jurisdiction was not directly obtainable, information from the State Court Organization, 1980⁴ was used.

Verification of data. With the cooperation of the Conference of State Court Administrators, all data after CSIM classification were submitted for review and verification to the appropriate state court administrator's office. An additional check was provided through the cooperation of the National Conference of Appellate Court Clerks (NCACC), which invited CSIM staff to submit appellate court data for review and verification to the appropriate clerk of the appellate court in each state. This process also included followup by CSIM staff through telephone or letter contact with the state personnel. Forty-nine of the 53 states and territories covered by this report verified the data for 1979. Finally, the format, content, and limitations of data tables have been reviewed and approved by the COSCA CSIS Committee, which guides the Court Statistics and Information Management Project.

In order to produce the statistics contained in this report, a great deal of effort was expended by CSIM Project staff in collecting missing data, whether from published or ancillary sources, in defining terminology, and in identifying categories in which cases should be placed. In other words, data contained in this report cannot be replicated solely from available published material. Yet even after this extensive data-gathering effort, large gaps remain in the data collected.

An extensive effort was required to validate CSIM classification of data provided by the states and to avoid further distortion of any data received. Although attempts to reconcile obvious discrepancies in reported data were made, the CSIM Project staff did not have the resources to assess the underlying validity or accuracy of the data received from the states. For example, the published cumulative case statistics for appellate courts or for trial courts frequently did not balance with reported totals within each category. Such discrepancies were seldom footnoted or explained in published state reports. These discrepancies are, however, footnoted in the court statistical profiles in Part II of this report.

Types of data included. Because few states report data suitable for all kinds of planning and research purposes, and because most states report only certain types of data, the NCSP initially chose to include in the national series only those kinds of data that either were already fairly widely available or could be made available without requiring undue effort. Enough states reported trend data, caseload by category, number of reversals, and time-to-disposition data to warrant inclusion of these topics in this report, and some preliminary analyses can be made. For those states not supplying basic data, gaps and "not/available" entries in the profiles draw attention to the missing data. In the past, all data supplied by a state, complete or not, were entered in the summary tables. In 1979 and following years only data that are complete (or at least 90% complete for a case category) are displayed in the summary tables because only these data are comparable. As more data become available in coming years, the annual report series can be expanded to include broader and more sophisticated compilations and analyses.

Many current variations in court data, as indicated by profile footnotes, must be considered before summary tables can be constructed to make comparisons among courts or states. Variations that limit the comparability of the 1979 data include: court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, case definition, completeness, accuracy, and reporting periods. These variations (with the exception of variations in reporting periods) are discussed on the face sheets to the summary tables.

Variations in reporting periods. As indicated on profile headings and in Figure A, most states report data by calendar year; many report by fiscal year, however, and a few report appellate court data by court term. Therefore, the time spans covered in this report are not always directly comparable.

Although data included in this report cover reporting periods of approximately uniform length, the starting and ending dates for the reporting periods vary both within and among states. Differences in reporting periods have little effect on cumulative data elements such as filing and dispositions since no matter when the reporting period began and ended, the data cover one complete year. Pending data are greatly affected, though, since they represent a "snapshot" in time and can vary greatly depending on when that snapshot was taken. Figure A displays the actual reporting periods for all courts not using the calendar year for the reporting period.

Data display

Case category classifications. CSIM case categories used for this 1979 report are those chosen by the COSCA CSIS Committee for inclusion in the State Court Model Annual Report and State Court Model Statistical Dictionary. These case categories appear as principal headings in the summary tables in Part I, and in each court's profile in Part II. Terminology used within each state is displayed on each court's profile as subheadings under the boldface CSIM main headings. The CSIM main headings are categories used uniformly for all the states. For example, a state's "application for leave to appeal" was classified under the CSIM category of request to appeal in all tables. Explanations used in source documents to clarify a state's data are included, as are explanations to clarify project staff's arrangement of those data. These appear, where appropriate, as footnotes in each court's profile and as footnotes to the summary tables.

Format used. Profiles (Part II). After the 1979 case data available from each state were classified, a profile of the courts in each state was constructed. Each state profile for 1979 contains the following:

--A chart depicting the organization of the court system within the state, the jurisdiction and route of appeal for each court, the number of judges, and information on the types of trials.

--A set of tables containing the case-related data received from each state court or court system.

Summary Tables (Part I). Complete data from each state profile were transferred into summary tables designed to display the kinds of available data that could be aggregated. The summary tables are divided into two major sections (appellate and trial) to reflect the two major levels of court.

Appellate courts include both courts of last resort (the final court or courts of appeal within a particular state) and intermediate appellate courts (the court or courts in which the primary work is the disposition of initial appeals received from trial courts of general jurisdiction or administrative agencies, and in which some decisions are subject to appeal or review by a court of last resort). For purposes of displaying data, the courts of last resort have been divided into two groups: those in states with intermediate appellate courts and those in states without intermediate appellate courts. With few exceptions, this division conveniently separates courts of last resort according to whether they have almost complete discretionary jurisdiction. Courts of last resort in states without intermediate appellate courts generally have little or no discretionary jurisdiction, although there are exceptions, such as Virginia and West Virginia.

For purposes of this report, a trial court is considered to be a court of general jurisdiction if it meets one of the following criteria:

--The individual state considers it a general jurisdiction court.

--Felony cases are tried and felony sentences given for all types of felony cases.

--The judges of the court are general jurisdiction court judges sitting on temporary assignment.

All other trial courts are classified as limited or special jurisdiction courts.

In the 1975 Annual Report, the states were arranged alphabetically in all summary tables. In 1976 the trial courts handling criminal cases were grouped according to the way in which criminal cases were counted in each court. In the 1979 report, a further evolution in the grouping of states has been added to all trial court case type tables (except juvenile) in order to place together those courts that have similar subject matter jurisdiction. Trial court case type tables are arranged in this volume as follows:

Complete state data:

1. Exclusive court jurisdiction: States where one court has exclusive case type jurisdiction.
2. Not exclusive court jurisdiction: States where two or more courts have case type jurisdiction.

Incomplete state data:

3. States where one or more courts have case type jurisdiction, but complete data are not reported by one or more courts.

Footnotes. Standard footnote headings specifying the completeness and quality of the data are used on all court profiles and will continue to be used in the Annual Report series. Footnotes that contain necessary information on the quality of the data are included on the summary tables. If more information on the data presented in the summary tables is needed, the user should consult the individual court profiles where all footnotes are given.

Data interpretation

Several devices are used in the summary tables for analyzing the caseload data. The measures selected for use vary according to the data being analyzed and are explained in the face sheets accompanying each group of summary tables under headings such as disposed cases as a percent of filed cases, end pending cases as a percent of filed cases, number and percent change in pending caseload, filed cases per unit of population, disposed and end pending cases per unit of population, and filed and disposed cases per judge.

In addition, estimates of national caseload totals are found on Tables 1 and 14. An explanation of the estimation procedure will be found in Appendix A.

Continuing development of the series

The Annual Report series is an evolving product. It is anticipated that additions and refinements will be made to successive volumes in the series. Between 1975 and 1976, the amount of data contained in the report was greatly increased by the inclusion of data from all special and limited jurisdiction courts. This trend continued in 1977 and 1978. In the 1979 report, face sheets have been added to the summary tables to explain the type and depth of analysis considered by the CSIM Project to be meaningful, given the quality and completeness of the data. In addition, over half the trial court tables have been rearranged to group those states in which case category data can be compared. This kind of rearrangement will continue in succeeding volumes. As more is learned about the quality of the data, more specific suggestions will be given for their proper use, along with warnings to help avoid their abuse. Figure B presents a helpful cross-reference to summary tables in previous editions of this series. This will assist the user to locate similar information that may have been rearranged on the summary tables over the years.

It is important to the long-term improvement of the statistical series that these early volumes in the series be circulated widely enough to encourage reader/user ideas and commentary, and that they be used as a vehicle for developing solutions to problems encountered during the statistical series production process. As each successive volume is published, the CSIM Project can consider the feedback subsequently received from users of the documents, thereby further enhancing succeeding volumes. During this process, the availability to future researchers of successive-year data compilations will preserve complete time series information. The drawbacks occasioned by limitations in data currently available are greatly outweighed by the importance of having data available for all years in the continuing statistical series.

In order to improve the quality of data contained in future volumes of the Annual Report series, the CSIM staff and COSCA CSTS Committee will consider the feasibility of conducting audits of selected data from particular courts. It is anticipated that the combination of these "mini-audits" and technical assistance by project staff to states requesting an assessment of and assistance in improving their statistical report systems will systematically improve the validity and reliability of the data contained in the Annual Report series.

It should also be pointed out that for the first time, the data contained in this report are available in computer-readable form. There are five data sets: appellate caseload, trial caseload, criminal dispositions, civil dispositions, and traffic dispositions. These data sets were used to construct 37 of the 48 summary tables. This year, Tables 10-13, 27, 37-38, 41-42, and 47-48 were still compiled by hand. This number should get smaller in future years. This automation process has spotlighted the need for more specific information on subject-matter jurisdiction. It has also mandated a reorganization of disposition types which will appear in future reports.

As states gradually increase the quantity and quality of data available to the CSIM Project, the problems presently caused by incomplete data will decrease. Progressive improvements should be apparent to the reader of successive volumes in the series.

Future analysis will not only describe court systems as they exist at the present time but will also predict where they are going. The purpose will be to identify existing or developing problems and suggest solutions. Research proposed by the CSIM Project is not anticipated to be exhaustive, but will concentrate on those questions considered to be of greatest interest and importance to the courts and research communities.

Dynamics of improvement

Ideas and suggestions for improvement of this state court caseload statistical series have come from many sources, and have provided the creative stimulus needed to assess current CSIM efforts constructively and to map future directions.

Continuation of evolutionary improvement in this statistical series rests, ultimately, upon the ability of the CSIM Project to maintain a productive dialogue and flow of ideas among the producer-compilers of the Annual Report, its data sources, and its end users. Much improvement in state court statistics has already been achieved, but much remains to be done.

Because of their importance and potential impact for improving the national statistical series on caseloads, the Model Annual Report and Model Statistical Dictionary need to be briefly described.

During compilation of the State of the Art and the 1975 Annual Report, a staggering classification problem resulted from the multitude of terms being used by the states to report their caseloads. The need for both a model annual report and a statistical dictionary of terms for court usage became obvious. These documents, published in 1980, are to be used as tools to assist the states in improving their statistics. Such improvement should eventually be reflected in future annual reports.

The State Court Model Annual Report⁵ is a flexible working outline of critically needed, basic management data that should, as a minimum, be included in state court annual reports. The model identifies the kinds of data and the types of display needed for caseload and other management. The State Court Model Statistical Dictionary⁶ is a companion document which provides common terminology, definitions, and usage for reporting civil, criminal, traffic, juvenile, and appellate caseload inventory and manner of disposition as presented in the model annual report. The classification structure and definitions serve as models of preferred terminology and meanings for purposes of statewide and national comparison. The first edition of the dictionary covers those data elements essential for classifying court caseload inventory and manner of disposition. A supplement to the dictionary, published in 1984, contains revisions of those terms that experience has demonstrated needed improvement, as well as additional data element sets for court caseload (events in case processing) which are needed to determine status of pending cases.

Both of these documents must be viewed as a logical first step in promoting comparable court statistics. They were not available to states in time to affect their reporting systems or the national Annual Reports before 1980. Nevertheless, their effect will be noticeable in each succeeding national-level Annual Report because CSIM technical assistance effort is interwoven with the Annual Report national statistical series. This is accomplished by helping states adopt the suggestions in the model annual report and model statistical dictionary and by proactive identification of particular state systems that could benefit from technical assistance directed at helping resolve existing methodological problems of classification structure, terminology, definition of local data-reporting procedures, and data handling/transformation procedures. To the extent that such technical assistance suggestions are adopted, individual states directly benefit and the Annual Report national statistical series indirectly benefits.

Future versions of the model annual report and model statistical dictionary will consider development of finer levels of detail, expansion of the classification structure, and addition of other significant information.

State Court Organization, 1980⁷ is also related to the annual report in that it contains the types of organizational information most often sought by court administrators and researchers.

The Court Case Management Information System Manual⁸ was produced jointly by the National Court Statistics Project and the State Judicial Information Systems Project to provide a methodology for building a court information system that would provide the data needed for both daily court operations and longer-term case management, resource allocation, and strategic planning.

The process of building toward meaningful statistics takes time. Concurrently with expanding and refining the Annual Report national statistical series, the CSIM effort must encourage movement toward quality and precision in state court statistics. The necessarily long-term nature of this evolutionary process will contribute greatly to year-to-year improvements and enhancements of the statistical series. Given the complexity of the problems being faced, building toward comparability, quality assurance, and appropriate detail is a necessary incremental process. It is in this light that the CSIM Project presents the data and analysis contained in the Annual Report, 1979.

Part I 1979 State court caseload summary statistics

1979 State court caseload summary statistics

Appellate court summary statistics

In this section, tables are presented to show the caseload of appellate courts in 1979. Appellate courts are subdivided into courts of last resort (the final court of appeal within a particular state) and intermediate appellate courts (courts whose primary work is the disposition of initial appeals received from trial courts of general jurisdiction or administrative agencies, and whose decisions are usually subject to appeal or review by a court of last resort within a given state). For purposes of data presentation, in some tables, the courts of last resort have been divided further into courts of last resort in states with intermediate appellate courts and courts of last resort in states without intermediate appellate courts.

Data presented in the following tables were compiled from all data that were available, both in annual reports and in unpublished data provided by individual appellate court clerks and state court administrators.

Three factors restrict comparability from state to state of these appellate court caseload data. These are variations in court jurisdiction, variations in case classification, and variations in the way cases are counted.

Major variation from state to state in court jurisdiction among appellate courts results from the kind and amount of discretionary jurisdiction over initial appeals granted to courts of last resort and to intermediate appellate courts. States having both levels of appellate courts generally direct the more difficult appeals to the court of last resort, but these are not necessarily the same types of cases in every state. Similarly, trial courts of general jurisdiction in some states have incidental appellate jurisdiction. These courts may receive a large portion of the initial appeals, while other states that do not assign appellate jurisdiction to general jurisdiction courts will have all of their appeals heard in the appellate courts. In these states the appellate courts will have a much higher filing rate, but not necessarily more workload than in those states where appeals are heard in general jurisdiction courts. Another variation in appellate court jurisdiction is in the amount of discretion in jurisdiction granted to the court.

The second major variation in appellate court data arises in the classification of cases. Some courts report only total filings with no indication as to the types of cases included or the proportion of the caseload each type accounts for. Other courts report only what they have designated as appeals. Still other courts classify all types of cases by case category. Often definitions are not given for the case categories. The types of cases classified as appeals present a difficult problem. Requests for bail pending appeal, requests for delayed appeal, and petitions to stay the lower court ruling pending appeal generally are not considered appeals, but are counted as such in some courts. The appeals caseload will be inflated in these states. Comparison of appellate caseload is difficult because of these kinds of variations in the classification of the cases being counted.

The final variation in appellate court case data results from differences in the point at which cases are counted, and how they are counted. Some courts count cases as soon as the notice of appeal is filed while others count them at a later event, such as the filing of the record or the filing of the appellant's brief. Courts may inflate or deflate their caseload by the way they count appeals of criminal convictions for two or more defendants, by whether cross appeals are counted as separate cases, and by the way they count appeals granted through discretionary jurisdiction. Courts with discretionary jurisdiction sometimes report the total number of cases filed without distinguishing between mandatory and discretionary jurisdiction cases; or they separate mandatory and discretionary cases filed but do not indicate the number of requests for discretionary review granted; or they provide separate data for mandatory cases, discretionary jurisdiction granted, and discretionary jurisdiction denied; or they combine mandatory jurisdiction cases and cases accepted for review, but report separately the total number of petitions for review filed, resulting in double counting of granted petitions for review.

In trying to deal with these many variations in case data, the Court Statistics and Information Management Project has presented as much information as possible about the caseload. The jurisdiction of each court is outlined briefly in the court system chart for each state located in Part II of this report. Also presented in each court statistical profile in Part II is any available information about case category classification or how and when cases are counted. Because the deciding of appeals is the primary function of the appellate courts, data on appeals should be separated from data on procedural matters. The significant differences in the definition and classification of cases in appellate courts have led the CSIM staff to define appellate caseload to include as 'cases' any appeal, any original proceeding, any request to appeal, or any sentence review only case.

The appellate tables that follow (Numbers 1 through 13) are sequenced from the presentation of general data to more specific analytical tables. The tables present general caseload, various analyses of caseload, civil and criminal break-downs, and time-to-disposition of appeals. The last two tables (Tables 12 and 13) present 10-year trends in filings for those states reporting total case data for 5 or more years, as well as the number and percent change in filings for these courts.

TABLE 1: Reported and estimated national caseload for courts of last resort, intermediate appellate courts, and all appellate courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization:	Estimated totals from Appendix A:
All 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico have courts of last resort. Oklahoma and Texas have two courts of last resort, one that hears civil cases and one that hears criminal cases.	These figures represent the estimated data from those states who reported less than complete data. The estimating equations can be found in Appendix A.
Thirty states have intermediate appellate courts. Four of these have two intermediate appellate courts.	Estimated national totals:
Courts of last resort in states with intermediate appellate courts generally have wide discretion in determining matters they will hear. Most appeals are heard as a matter of right by intermediate appellate courts, and by courts of last resort in states without intermediate appellate courts. (The courts of last resort in Virginia and West Virginia are exceptions.) Total case figures are not comparable from state to state without considering the mix of mandatory and discretionary appeals heard by each court, and the variety of case types included in the jurisdiction of each court.	Estimated national totals for 1979 are the cumulative totals of all reported data that were complete plus the estimated data for each state not reporting complete data. This figure for "All appellate courts" is the sum of estimated national totals from "courts of last resort" and "intermediate appellate courts." The procedure used to estimate incomplete or missing data is discussed in Appendix A of this volume.
Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:	Estimated cases per judge:
Some states report total cases processed without any indication of case type. Other states include, in their reported caseload, only appeals that were decided on the merits. Some appellate courts include all original proceedings, while others report no original proceedings. Some states do not distinguish cases, from motions or other procedural matters.	This measure is used to indicate the average number of cases filed for each appellate judge, and the number of cases in which each appellate judge participated in the disposition.
This report defines "appellate case" to include any appeal, original proceeding, request to appeal, or sentence review only case.	There were 914 judges assigned to appellate courts in 1979: 354 in courts of last resort, and 560 in intermediate appellate courts. The estimated national totals in each of the categories was divided by the number of judges serving that level of court.
Sources of data for each court are found in the individual court profiles in Part II, and in Appendix B.	Estimated cases per 100,000 population:
Reported cases:	This measure is used to indicate the frequency with which cases are filed and disposed in appellate courts.
The reported cases figures contain the reported cases that were 100% complete with no "j" footnotes. These data can be found in Tables 2, 3, and 4.	Estimated cases per 100,000 population were calculated by dividing the estimated national totals by the appropriate population figure, 2,277.32 for all appellate courts and for courts of last resort, and 1,943.05 for intermediate appellate courts.
Percent of population represented:	Examples of appropriate uses and techniques:
State population figures used for all appellate courts and courts of last resort are from the revised 1979 Bureau of Census estimates and total 227,732,000 for the 50 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. Bureau of Census estimates for the population of the 30 states with intermediate appellate courts in 1979 totaled 194,305,000. The percent of population represented for each caseload category is based on the appropriate total population figure.	The estimates of total volume can be compared to the estimates of total volume of cases filed and disposed in trial courts in Table 14 to indicate how frequently cases are appealed to appellate courts. These figures may be compared to the caseload of federal appellate courts to indicate the proportion of appellate cases that are heard in the state court systems.
Limitations on use:	Data have been aggregated in order to make rough estimates of overall national totals, but this has been done without regard to definitions of case categories and units of count. The national estimates contained in this report should be viewed only as "ball-park" estimates, and not the exact volume of cases in state courts.

Note: Reported cases for all appellate courts is less than the sum of reported cases for courts of last resort and intermediate appellate courts due to the fact that states with more than one appellate court had to report complete data for all its appellate courts in order for this table to display total state appellate caseload. A state with one court reporting complete data, and one court reporting incomplete data will not be reported in "All appellate courts" but will have the complete data from the one court reported in the appropriate section (i.e., either "Courts of last resort" or "Intermediate appellate courts").

TABLE 2: Reported appellate court caseload for all appellate courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization:

Appellate courts are subdivided into courts of last resort (the final court of appeal within a particular state) and intermediate appellate courts. This table presents data for both of these appellate court types.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

In some states, trial courts of general jurisdiction have incidental appellate jurisdiction. These courts may receive a large portion of the initial appeals, while other states that do not assign appellate jurisdiction to general jurisdiction courts will have all their appeals heard in appellate courts. In these states the appellate courts will have a much higher filing rate, but not necessarily more workload than those states hearing appeals in general jurisdiction courts.

Sources of data:

All appellate courts reported at least some caseload inventory data for 1979.

Data presented in this and the following tables were compiled from both annual reports and unpublished data provided by individual appellate court clerks and state court administrators. The sources of data for each court are shown in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Reported national totals:

The reported national totals include only data from states reporting complete data in the inventory categories for all courts in the state.

Number of states reporting:

Only those states that reported complete data for all appellate courts are included in this table. The term "state" in this and following tables includes the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

Percent of population represented:

State populations used for "all appellate courts" are the revised 1979 Bureau of Census estimates and total 227,732,000 for the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

Appropriate analyses:

Disposed as a percent of filed. The statistic indicates how well all the appellate courts in a state are disposing of cases that are filed. This figure may be somewhat dependent on the number of appellate judges, as well as the types of cases that can be appealed. A figure less than 100% indicates that the state appellate courts are not keeping up with their caseload. A statistic greater than 100% indicates that the courts are beginning to clean up their pending cases.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons should not be made among states before checking for similarities and differences among the states in the profile section in Part II. When comparing the number of appeals filed and disposed among states, also consider the percent of the appeals that are discretionary (i.e., the number of requests to appeal handled by each state); as well as the number of appellate courts in the state.

Note: For inclusion on this table, a case is defined as any appeal, original proceeding, request to appeal, or sentence review only case.
All available data are entered in the table and all appropriate calculations are included. Blank spaces indicate that either the data were unavailable or less than 90% complete, or the calculations were inappropriate.

-- = Not applicable.

¹Data are incomplete:

Alabama--Total cases in the Court of Criminal Appeals do not include petitions disposed of in the clerk's office at the direction of the court.
District of Columbia--Pending data do not include special proceedings in original jurisdiction cases.
Massachusetts--Pending and filed figures for the Supreme Judicial Court do not include cases heard in "single justice sessions."
Minnesota--Data were unavailable from the Supreme Court.
Nebraska--All figures were excluded because they did not include requests to appeal; therefore, the figures were less than 90% complete.
New York--State figures were excluded because the Court of Appeals did not report civil requests to appeal or other motions; therefore, the figures were probably less than 90% complete.
Oklahoma--Pending figures for the Court of Appeals do not include civil requests to appeal.
Wisconsin--The disposed and end pending figure for the Supreme Court do not include miscellaneous original jurisdiction cases.

Reported national totals:

The reported national totals include only data for states reporting data in the caseload category for all courts in the state. Incomplete data indicated by an "i" footnote are not included in the national totals.

Number of states reporting:

Reported cases for courts of last resort and "all appellate courts" are from the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. Reported cases for intermediate appellate courts are from the 30 states with intermediate appellate courts.

Percent of population represented:

State populations used for courts of last resort and "all appellate courts" are the revised 1979 Bureau of Census estimates and total 227,732,000 for the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

TABLE 3: Detailed caseload categories for courts of last resort, 1979.

TABLE 4: Detailed caseload categories for intermediate appellate courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization:

Table 3 contains caseload inventory by case type for the courts of last resort in the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

Table 4 contains caseload inventory by case type for the intermediate appellate courts in the 30 states that have intermediate appellate courts.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

Major variation from state to state results from the kind of discretionary jurisdiction granted to courts of last resort and to intermediate appellate courts. States having both levels of appellate courts generally direct the most difficult appeals to the courts of last resort, but these are not necessarily the same types of cases in every state.

Although most courts of last resort, have jurisdiction over original proceedings, disciplinary, advisory opinion, and request to appeal cases, intermediate appellate courts rarely hear these types of cases. The individual state profiles broadly outline the specific jurisdiction of each court.

These variations in jurisdiction make caseload comparisons among appellate courts extremely difficult.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

The classification used by each state will be found in the pertinent state profile in Part II.

This report defines "appellate case" to include any appeal, original proceeding, request to appeal, or sentence review only case, and where possible, has placed each state's case data within these case classifications.

Some states report total cases processed without any indication as to the type of proceeding. Other states include in their caseload only appeals that were decided on the merits. Some appellate courts include all original proceedings, while others report none. Some states do not distinguish cases from procedural matters such as motions for rehearing.

Classification of the same type of proceeding varies from state to state. For example, habeas corpus may be reported as a separate category, or it may be subsumed in appeals, original proceedings, or motions.

Sources of data for each court are found in the Individual state profiles in Part II, and in Appendix B.

Reported national totals:

The reported national totals for courts of last resort (i.e., Table 3) and intermediate appellate courts (i.e., Table 4) include only data for states reporting complete data in the caseload category.

The number of requests to appeal granted that appear in parentheses were not included in the totals to avoid double counting (see footnote "e").

Number of states reporting for courts of last resort:

Reported cases for appeals and total cases are from the states that reported complete appeals data. Reported cases for original proceedings and requests to appeal are from the 49 states handling original proceedings and 47 states handling requests to appeal that reported complete data for each of these categories.

The term "state" in this and following tables includes the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

Number of states reporting for intermediate appellate courts:

Reported cases for appeals and total cases are from the 30 states with intermediate appellate courts that reported complete appeals data. Reported cases for original proceedings and requests to appeal are from the 22 states handling these types of cases that reported complete data for each of these categories.

Percent of population represented for courts of last resort:

State populations used are the Bureau of Census counts for 1979 and total 227,734,000 for the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. The total population is 213,772,000 for the 49 states handling original proceedings and 216,612,000 for the 47 states handling requests to appeal.

Percent of population represented for intermediate appellate courts:

State populations used are the Bureau of Census counts for 1979 and total 194,305,000 for the 30 states with intermediate appellate courts. The total population is 149,106,000 for the 22 states handling original proceedings and 135,325,000 for the 22 states handling requests to appeal. The percent of population represented for each caseload category is based on these total population figures.

Appropriate analyses:

Although these tables are designed primarily to display total caseload data, they may also be used for some analysis. Comparisons may be made between caseload figures of courts of similar type, for example, between the number of mandatory appeals filed in courts of last resort, and those filed in intermediate appellate courts.

Limitations on use:

Note: For inclusion on this table, a case is defined as any appeal, original proceeding, request to appeal, or sentence review only case.

All available data are entered in the table. Blank spaces indicate that the data were unavailable, or less than 90% complete. Numbers in parentheses, representing the number of requests to appeal that were granted, were not included in any of the calculations.

NH = This case type is not handled in this court.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total, but were unavailable by category.

*Cases are not included in the total to avoid double counting: A request to appeal granted is not counted as a disposed request to appeal or as a filed appeal. It is counted as a disposition only when the resulting appeal is disposed. The numbers of requests to appeal granted are the figures appearing in parentheses. These numbers were not included in any of the calculations.

Data are not complete: District of Columbia--Court of Appeals--Pending data do not include some original proceedings cases. Original proceedings disposed cases do not include original jurisdiction cases.

Indiana--Supreme Court--The number of criminal petitions to transfer granted were unavailable.

Kansas--Supreme Court--Total pending cases do not include original proceedings or requests to appeal.

Massachusetts--Supreme Judicial Court--Total cases figures do not include original proceedings or requests to appeal cases. Pending and filed appeals do not include "single" cases.

Nebraska--Supreme Court--Total cases figures do not include requests to appeal.

Oklahoma--Court of Criminal Appeals--Requests to appeal do not include criminal cases.

Wisconsin--Supreme Court--The appeals filed figure includes discipline cases.

NH = This case type is not handled in this court.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

A request to appeal granted is not counted as a disposed request to appeal or as a filed appeal. It is counted as a disposition only when the resulting appeal is disposed. The numbers of requests to appeal granted are the numbers appearing in parentheses in the table. These numbers are not included in the calculated national totals.

iData in incomplete:

Alabama--Court of Criminal Appeals--Total cases do not include petitions disposed of in the clerk's office at the direction of the Court.

California--Total pending cases figures do not include original proceedings.

Wisconsin--Total begin pending cases do not include requests to appeal.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Alabama--Court of Criminal Appeals--Pending and filed appeal data include original proceedings and requests to appeal. Disposed appeal data includes requests to appeal.

Iowa--Court of Appeals--Total appeals filed and pending include sentence review only cases.

New York--Appellate Divisions of the Supreme Court--Filed and disposed appeals include an unknown number of original proceedings.

*Reported national totals:

The reported national totals include only data for states reporting data that are at least 90% complete in the caseload category for all courts in the state.

Pending data for California were not included in the totals.

*Number of states reporting:

Reported cases for appeals and total cases are from the 30 states with intermediate appellate courts. Reported cases for original proceedings and requests to appeal are from the 22 states and 22 states, respectively, handling each case type.

*Percent of population represented:

State populations used are the revised Bureau of Census estimates and total 194,305,000 for the 30 states with intermediate appellate courts. The total population is 149,106,000 for the 22 states handling original proceedings and 135,325,000 for the 22 states handling requests to appeal. The percent of population represented for each caseload category is based on these total population figures.

TABLE 5: Caseload for appeals and requests to appeal (civil and criminal) and total cases for courts of last resort, 1979.

TABLE 6: Caseload for appeals and requests to appeal (civil and criminal) and total cases for intermediate appellate courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization:

Tables 5 and 6 display a portion of the data displayed in Tables 3 and 4, and the same variations in court organization apply.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

Tables 5 and 6 display a portion of the data displayed in Tables 3 and 4, and the same variations in subject matter jurisdiction apply.

Variations in case classifications and definitions:

The total cases column in Tables 5 and 6 is the same as in Tables 3 and 4, and includes all appeals, original jurisdiction cases, requests to appeal, and sentence review only cases. Only two case types--appeals and requests to appeal--are displayed in Tables 5 and 6, both separated, where data were available, into civil and criminal categories.

These tables indicate that a significant minority of states fail to break down appeals into even the most general case types--civil and criminal.

The sum of civil and criminal cases may not add up to the figures shown for appeals and requests to appeals in Tables 3 and 4 because other types of appeals and requests to appeal may be included. (See the pertinent state profile in Part II for this information.)

The types of cases classified as appeals present a particular problem. Matters such as requests for bail pending appeal, requests for delayed appeal, and petitions to stay the lower court ruling pending appeal generally are not considered appeals, but are counted as such in some courts, inflating the appellate caseload in those states.

Courts with discretionary jurisdiction sometimes report the total number of cases filed without distinguishing between mandatory and discretionary cases; or they separate mandatory and discretionary cases filed but do not indicate the number of requests for discretionary review granted. Some provide separate data for mandatory cases, discretionary review granted, and discretionary review denied, while others combine mandatory cases and cases accepted for review, but report separately the number of petitions for review filed, resulting in double counting of granted petitions for review.

Sources of data for each court are found in the individual profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Appropriate analyses:

Although these tables are designed primarily to display the breakdown of appellate caseloads into the civil and criminal case types, they may also be used for some analysis. The ratio of civil to criminal appeals may be calculated for any court. These ratios may be compared between courts of similar type. The ratio of civil appeals to civil requests to appeal may be calculated and compared to the ratio of criminal appeals to requests to appeal.

Limitations on use:

Although cases are identified as being civil or criminal on this table, the definitions used by the courts to make this distinction may differ. One court may include juvenile appeals, and appeals of administrative agency cases in its civil appeal category. Other courts may report these cases in three separate categories, as recommended in the Model Statistical Dictionary. Before comparisons are made, one should check each court profile to determine whether there is any indication of the types of cases included in the civil or criminal category.

For those courts that report non-civil and criminal cases in separate categories and for those that have jurisdiction over original proceedings in addition to the appeals and request to appeal cases reported here, the sum of the figures reported for any case category on the table will be less than the total cases figure reported for that case category.

Note: For inclusion on this table, a case is defined as any appeal, original proceeding, request to appeal, or sentence review only case.
Total cases pending, filed, and disposed include original proceedings and sentence review only cases as well as all appeals and all requests to appeal.
All available data are entered in the table. Blank spaces indicate that the data were unavailable, or less than 90% complete.

NH = This case type is not handled in this court.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total, but were unavailable by category.

*Cases are not included in the total to avoid double counting:

A request to appeal granted is not counted as a disposed request to appeal or as a filed appeal. It is counted as a disposition only when the resulting appeal is disposed.

!Data are incomplete:

Alabama--Court of Criminal Appeals--Data do not include petitions disposed of in the clerk's office at the direction of the Court.

California--Courts of Appeal--Total pending cases do not include original jurisdiction cases.

New York--Appellate Divisions of the Supreme Court--Total cases filed do not include all original proceedings.

Oklahoma--Court of Appeals--Total pending data do not include requests to appeal.

Wisconsin--Court of Appeals--Total begin pending cases do not include requests to appeal.

JExplanation of data included in the category:

Alabama--Court of Criminal Appeals--Pending and filed appeals include original proceedings and requests to appeal. Disposed appeals included requests to appeal.

New Mexico--Court of Appeals--Criminal appeals filed includes juvenile appeals.

Wisconsin--Court of Appeals--Civil and criminal appeals include requests to appeal.

- TABLE 7: Caseload for courts of last resort in states with intermediate appellate courts, 1979.
 TABLE 8: Caseload for courts of last resort in states without intermediate appellate courts, 1979.
 TABLE 9: Caseload for intermediate appellate courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization:

In Tables 7 and 8, the courts of last resort in states with intermediate appellate courts have been separated from the states without intermediate appellate courts, while Tables 7 and 9 together show the total appellate caseload in those states with intermediate appellate courts.

These tables contain the same caseload inventory data that is shown in Table 2, and the same variations in court organization apply to these tables.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

The jurisdiction of each court is outlined briefly in the court system organization chart for each state located in Part II of this report.

Major variation from state to state results from the type of mandatory and discretionary jurisdiction over initial appeals granted to courts of last resort and to intermediate appellate courts. States having both levels of appellate courts generally direct the more difficult appeals to the court of last resort, but these are not necessarily the same types of cases in every state.

In some states trial courts of general jurisdiction have incidental appellate jurisdiction, which affects the number of appeals filed in the appellate courts.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Total case figures may not be comparable from state to state.

Some states report total cases processed without any indication as to what types of proceedings are included. Other states include in their caseload only appeals that were decided on the merits. Some appellate courts include all original proceedings, while others report none. Some states do not distinguish appeals and other cases from procedural matters.

Variations in counting cases:

The kind and amount of discretionary jurisdiction granted to courts of last resort and intermediate appellate courts vary from state to state. Courts with discretionary jurisdiction sometimes report the total number of cases filed without distinguishing between mandatory and discretionary cases; or they separate mandatory and discretionary cases filed but do not indicate the number of requests for discretionary review granted. Some provide separate data for mandatory cases, discretionary review granted, and discretionary review denied, while others combine mandatory cases and cases accepted for review, but report separately the number of petitions for review filed, resulting in double counting of granted petitions for review.

Courts may count cases at different stages in proceedings. Some courts count cases when the notice of appeal is filed. Others wait to count cases until they are argued or submitted on briefs. Courts which count cases at stages that occur later in case processing will not count those cases on which a notice of appeal is filed but later the parties decide not to pursue the subsequent stages. The manner of counting cases in each court is given in Table 11 and on each individual appellate court profile in Part II of this report.

Sources of data for each court are found in the individual profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Appropriate analyses:

Disposed cases as percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases that the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed. This measure was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten.

End pending as percent of filed. This figure gives the percent of the number of filed cases that were pending at the end of the year. This measure is computed by dividing the number of cases pending at the end of the year by the number of cases filed and then multiplying by one hundred. A value of one hundred percent indicates that the number of cases pending at the end of the year was equal to the number of cases filed during the year. A value higher than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload larger than cases filed, while a value lower than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload smaller than the number of cases filed. This percent was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten.

Number change in pending caseload. This number gives the net increase or decrease in pending caseload for the court year by subtracting the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year from the number of cases pending at the end of the year. An alternative to this calculation, subtracting the number disposed from the number filed, was used when pending data were unavailable or incomplete. When this alternate formula was used, the resulting number was enclosed in parentheses. A positive number indicates that the pending caseload increased during the year while a negative number indicates that the pending caseload was reduced in size. Thus, a large negative change in pending indicates that the court is keeping the caseload current, while a large positive change in pending would indicate that the court has not kept pace with its filings.

Percent change in pending caseload. This percentage indicates the change in pending cases relative to the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year, and is obtained by dividing the number change in pending caseload by the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year and then multiplying by one hundred. (This figure cannot be calculated if the alternative formula described above was used to calculate the number change in the pending caseload.) A high negative percent indicates that the court reduced its pending caseload significantly, while a high positive percent indicates that the pending caseload increased significantly. This measure was not computed if the number of beginning pending cases was less than ten.

Filed and disposed per judge. These measures are displayed in appellate court tables. If all other factors (court jurisdiction, discretionary jurisdiction, case definition, panels in the court, etc.) are similar, these measures permit comparison of caseload per judge. These statistics were computed by dividing the filed and disposed cases respectively, by the number of appellate judges serving that court.

The necessity for caution when making any comparisons among states must be repeated. This warning holds true especially for comparisons using any of the above measures.

Filed per 100,000 population. The unit of state population used on all court caseload charts is 100,000. This measure compensates for variations in state population and gives a more realistic basis for comparison of caseloads among states of various sizes. If all other factors (court jurisdiction, discretionary jurisdiction, case definition, etc.) are similar, the filed per 100,000 population statistic permits direct comparisons among states of the number of filed cases.

Limitations on use:

Note: For inclusion on this table, a case is defined as any appeal, original proceeding, request to appeal, or sentence review only case. All available data are entered in the table and all appropriate calculations are included. Blank spaces indicate that either the data are not available or the calculations were inappropriate. Numbers in parentheses, representing the number of requests to appeal that were granted, were not included in any of the calculations.

eCases are not included in the total to avoid double counting:
A request to appeal granted is not counted as a disposed request to appeal or as a filed appeal. It is counted as a disposition only when the resulting appeal is disposed. The numbers of requests to appeal granted are the numbers appearing in parentheses in the table. These numbers were not included in any of the calculations.

iData are not complete:
New York--Caseload data were excluded from this table due to the failure to report the number of civil requests to appeal which renders the data less than 90% complete.

kWisconsin--The disposed and end pending figures do not include miscellaneous original jurisdiction cases.

kAdditional information:
Both Oklahoma and Texas have two courts of last resort. The Supreme Court hears only civil matters; the Court of Criminal Appeals hears all criminal matters. Both also have an intermediate appellate court that hears only civil matters. Although the Court of Criminal Appeals in both states has no intermediate appellate court, data from both courts of last resort are included on this table for Texas and Oklahoma so that the entire caseload of that level of court can be presented as a unit as it is for every other state.

^aCourt jurisdiction:

The Louisiana Courts of Appeal, Oklahoma Court of Appeals, Tennessee Court of Appeals, and Texas Court of Civil Appeals have jurisdiction over civil cases only. The Commonwealth Court of Pennsylvania handles cases involving officials or officers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania only. Other intermediate appellate cases are heard in the Superior Court.

^eCases are not included in the total to avoid double counting:

A request to appeal granted is not counted as a disposed request to appeal or as a filed appeal. It is counted as a disposition only when the resulting appeal is disposed. The numbers of requests to appeal granted are the numbers appearing in parentheses in the table. These numbers are not included in the calculated figures.

ⁱData are not complete:

Alabama--Court of Criminal Appeals--Figures do not include petitions disposed of in the clerk's office at the direction of the Court.
New York--Appellate divisions of the Supreme Court--Total cases filed do not include all original proceedings.

^kAdditional information:

Iowa--The figure given as filed is the number of cases transferred to this court by the Iowa Supreme Court. All appellate cases in Iowa are initially filed with the Supreme Court. It retains some of them, and transfers some to the Court of Appeals for disposition.

TABLE 10: Opinions reported by appellate courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization:

Appellate courts in this table have been separated into courts of last resort in states without intermediate appellate courts, courts of last resort in states with intermediate appellate courts, and intermediate appellate courts. This breakdown illustrates how the number of cases disposed of by opinion may vary by appellate court organization.

The number of appellate courts in each state is shown in Table 2.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

The types of appellate cases and their complexity vary from state to state, and from appellate court to appellate court within a state. Variation in subject-matter jurisdiction may be partially explained by court organization, e.g., the presence of an intermediate appellate court, or the existence of a specialized appellate court. The number of, and time consumed by, original jurisdiction cases is also affected by several variables, including whether state statutes require that collateral attacks on criminal convictions be filed originally in the trial court or in the appellate court.

Sources of data:

These are found on the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

A case was classified as disposed of by opinion if it was so classified by the state annual report, e.g., a listing of "per curiam" would only be classified as an opinion if it was listed as "per curiam opinion." The data do not include dissenting and concurring opinions.

Courts may increase or decrease their reported caseloads by the way they count appeals of criminal convictions for two or more defendants, by whether cross appeals are counted as separate cases, and by the way they count appeals granted through discretionary jurisdiction.

Appropriate analyses:

Number of cases disposed of by opinion as percent of dispositions. This summary statistic may indicate the importance attributed by a specific court to opinion-writing as a manner of disposition. A figure of 68% can be interpreted to mean that 68% of that court's dispositions were resolved by an opinion. Although a lower figure in another court may indicate that court's preference to resolve disputes without opinion, the lower figure may result from a variety of other factors, such as: a higher caseload than the first court; fewer resources that can be devoted to opinion-writing than the first court; or a different set of cases that do not require elaborate explanations of decisions through opinion-writing. In short, this may be more of a workload measure than one which identifies opinion-writing as a method of announcing decisions.

Number of cases disposed of by opinion per judge. This summary statistic can be used as but one component of a general workload measure. A figure of 44 can be interpreted to mean that given that court's definition of an opinion, 44 cases were disposed of by an opinion for each judge assigned to that court.

Limitations on use:

Differences between courts can limit the value of the figures reported in this table. The use of different terminology by different courts to mean the same thing further complicates analysis. A per curiam opinion in one court may be the functional equivalent of a full opinion in another court, or a memorandum opinion in yet another court. An effort has been made to limit the reporting of opinions in this table to full-length opinions, signed or unsigned, but because we are not able to differentiate among ways terms are used in each state, some less than full-length opinions are probably included in these data.

Beyond the problem of distinguishing among types of opinions, full opinions may be of different lengths. Also, courts make varied use of commissioners, law clerks, and other legal staff. Some courts may use staff to draft opinions, while others do not. These figures may also vary depending on appellate court structure and the amount of discretionary jurisdiction. For these reasons, figures such as the number of cases disposed of by opinion per judge, and the number of opinions written per judge are less than perfect indicators of the level of work done by judges in these courts, and they are by no means an all-encompassing measure of a judge's workload. Behaviors other than opinion-writing are important components of a judge's daily activities.

TABLE 11: Time interval (days) data for courts of last resort and intermediate appellate courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization:

Appellate courts in this table have been separated into courts of last resort and intermediate appellate courts. See Table 2 for the number of appellate courts in each state.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Data on this table are apparently for appeals decided on the merits after a full review by the court, although this fact is not usually made explicit in the source documents.

Variations in counting cases:

Some courts count cases as soon as the notice of appeal is filed while others count them at a later event, such as at the filing of the record or the filing of the appellant's record. The latter method will exclude those cases that are withdrawn before the counting point from total dispositions.

Appropriate analyses:

Comparison can be made of time to disposition for courts at the same level that use the same event for the start of the time interval. The time intervals used on this table are designed to divide the entire time a case is pending into the portion of time it is under the control of the court and the portion over which the lawyers have control. Comparisons can be made of the portion of the entire time the case is pending in a particular status with similar cases pending in another court of the same type. Comparisons can also be made of the length of time different types of cases take in the same court.

Limitations on use:

Courts are grouped on this table by type of court (court of last resort or intermediate appellate court) and by the events used to define the start and end of each interval. Comparisons should be restricted to similar types of cases in courts that use the same events for the start and end of the interval of interest.

Although an attempt has been made to divide the entire time a case is pending into the portion over which the lawyers have control and the portion the court has control, these are not the only actors that affect the pace of litigation. The lawyer may have to wait for the court reporter to prepare the necessary transcripts. The court may have to wait for another court to make a decision on a different aspect of the case. This table indicates the average pace of litigation for large groups of not necessarily homogeneous cases. A detailed study of the pace of litigation should be supported by data of far greater detail than are available here.

Note: Times are often given in months, fractions of months, or months and days. For comparability, months were converted to days by using 30.5 days per month. Data on this table are apparently for appeals decided on the merits after a full review by the court, although this fact is not usually made explicit in the source documents. The data for the Washington Supreme Court are only for appeals filed directly with the court, and not for appeals certified or transferred from the Intermediate appellate court. In addition to regular appeals, the New Jersey Supreme Court data include some cases in which the decision on the merits is made pursuant to the argument as to whether the certification should be granted.

All available data are entered in the table. Blank spaces indicate that the data are not available.

†For the time the briefs are filed, the following events were used:

Readiness--Iowa Supreme Court.

Date perfected--Washington Supreme Court, and Washington Court of Appeals.

Appellee's brief--Alabama Court of Civil Appeals.

For time decision announced, the following events were used:

Opinion publication--Alaska Supreme Court

Final decision--Oregon Supreme Court and Oregon Court of Appeals

TABLE 12: Filed cases for appellate courts, 1970-1979.

TABLE 13: Number and percent change in filed cases year to year and for 10-year period for appellate courts, 1970-1979.

Variations in court organization:

Appellate courts in this table have been separated into courts of last resort and intermediate appellate courts. See Table 2 for the number of appellate courts in each state.

Of the 55 courts of last resort in the 50 states, District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico, 40 reported complete trend data on appellate cases filed for at least five years. Of the 33 intermediate appellate courts, 25 reported complete trend data on appellate cases filed for at least five years.

Sources of data:

These are found in the State Court Caseload Statistics: Annual Report series, 1976-1979 and historical data supplied by selected state court administrative offices.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

The jurisdiction of each court is outlined briefly in the court system chart for each state located in Part II of this report. Variations in jurisdiction make caseload comparisons among appellate courts extremely difficult.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

The case classifications used in the Annual Report series are those chosen for inclusion in the State Court Model Annual Report and State Court Model Statistical Dictionary. Differences among states in what they include in even the broad category, appellate case, can make caseload comparisons difficult from state to state. Some courts, for example, include only appeals in their appellate caseload. Some include original appellate proceedings as cases, while others exclude them. Some courts count requests to appeal as separate cases, double-counting those that are granted and become appeals.

Variations in counting cases:

As indicated in Table 11, some courts count cases as soon as the notice of appeal is filed while others count them at a later event. The latter will exclude those cases that are withdrawn before the counting point from total filings.

The other variations in counting noted in Table 11 also apply to Tables 12 and 13.

Appropriate analyses:

The method of counting cases and the data included for each yearly figure were kept constant for each court. As a result, the number and percent changes in caseloads reported in these tables are, except where otherwise noted, due to accrual change (usually growth) in court filings and not to changes in the way the court counted cases. Changes for similar courts or for all courts within a state may be compared for identical time periods.

Limitations on use:

Caseloads normally fluctuate from year to year, so changes from one year to the next may not be representative of the actual underlying trend. The change in the jurisdiction of a court or the creation of an intermediate appellate court will have a dramatic effect on the rate and direction of change of related courts' caseloads. Creation of an intermediate court increases the opportunity to file cases, so states in which these courts were created will probably show faster growth in the total appellate caseload than that found in states that either had an intermediate court for the entire interval or did not have one at all. Once the capacity of the new court is reached, the rate of growth may decrease. The addition of judges to an intermediate court may have a similar though less dramatic effect on historical caseload data growth patterns.

Note: For inclusion on this table a case is defined as any appeal, any original proceeding, or any request to appeal. Requests to appeal are counted when originally filed and are not counted again if granted. The numbers correspond to the numbers not in parentheses in the remainder of the report. All complete data are entered in the table and all appropriate calculations are included. Blank spaces indicate that the data were not available or the calculations were not appropriate.

-- = Not applicable.

*Indicates the year the intermediate appellate court began operation.

^JData are not complete:

New Jersey--Supreme Court--Data do not include all motions for direct certification and motions for leave to appeal.

JExplanation of data included in the category:

Maryland--Court of Appeals and Court of Special Appeals--Requests to appeal granted were double counted in the data reported here for 1975 and 1976--once when the request to appeal was filed and again when the resulting appeal was filed. As a result, the difference between filing volumes in 1967 and 1977 is understated.

kAdditional information:

Kentucky--Supreme Court--Before 1976, the court of last resort was named the Court of Appeals.

Trial court summary statistics

This section contains tables that display the 1979 statistical data from the trial courts. The data cannot be found in published annual reports alone. All published annual reports and other available documents from the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico were used. Unpublished data provided by state court administrators or other officials were also used.

In this 1979 Annual Report the number of states with some trial court data displayed has increased from 44 states and the District of Columbia in 1975, to 49 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico in 1977, 1978 and 1979. The major reason for the increase has been the addition of statistics from limited jurisdiction courts. Court systems that contributed to the 1975 Annual Report have provided more data as state court administrators have become aware of the CSIM data needs. Several states that submitted no data for the 1975 report have since changed or improved their data systems to the extent that they now provide data for the national statistical series.

Trial court data received from states are generally more detailed and easier to interpret than appellate court data. However, some very specific problems prevent comparisons of the data presented in this report. These problems are (1) the lack of uniform case classifications; (2) lack of uniform ways of counting cases; (3) the lack of complete data reported by the courts; (4) questions relating to the validity of data collected, both published and unpublished; and (5) variations in the subject matter jurisdiction of the courts.

The first problem in comparing data available from trial courts is the lack of uniformity in case classification and unit of case count. Both the case categories and the data classified in the case categories vary from state to state. Under the case category of "law," for example, one state may use the term "civil judgment," another "civil complaint," and still another may report the case as "money judgment." This makes consolidation of these categories difficult. The lack of uniformity in unit of case count causes difficulty in comparison of caseload (see Figure C). Units of counting criminal cases may be informations, indictments, or complaints; the number of defendants; or even the number of charges. Civil cases may be counted at the filing of a complaint, at note of issue, or at the time placed on the calendar.

The second problem in comparing data available from trial courts is the lack of complete statistics. Some states report only total caseload. Others report individual case categories, but omit breakdowns within certain categories to show what is included within, for example, domestic relations, estate, or mental health. This omission presents a problem in interstate comparisons. In addition, there are states that are not consistent in their reporting of data. The general jurisdiction court, for example, may give detailed category breakdowns, whereas the limited jurisdiction court may report only total civil, criminal, and juvenile cases, or not report at all.

The third problem relates to questions of validity of the data collected, both published and unpublished. One of the major factors in data validity is the chance of human error. Many elements (hidden data, transposition of figures, double counting of cases, manner used to verify data) contribute to the scope of this problem. Although many verification techniques have been implemented by state court administrators and by the Court Statistics and Information Management Project staff to keep errors to a minimum, the reader should understand that a verification process does not guarantee absolute accuracy.

The final problem is variation in the subject matter jurisdiction of the courts. In 1979, five states, Illinois, Idaho, Iowa, Missouri and South Dakota, the District of Columbia, and Guam, handled all types of cases in general jurisdiction courts. In other states, such as Florida and New Jersey, general jurisdiction courts process only major criminal cases and major civil actions, while other civil and criminal cases are handled by limited jurisdiction courts. Limited jurisdiction courts were added to this series in 1976 in order to present a complete picture of the trial court caseload. The 1979 state statistical profiles in Part II show that the number and types of trial courts vary from state to state. This difference in court structure must be kept in mind while examining the data in these summary tables.

The reader should note two other factors before reviewing the trial court tables. The first: only states reporting data that could be displayed in specific case category tables (i.e., felony, real property rights, status offenses, etc.) were included in such tables. For the sake of clarity, those states that did not report such data were not listed.

The following tables are sequenced from a general overview (national caseload totals for courts) to the more specific caseload detail (civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile case categories and caseload).

TABLE 14: Reported national caseload (civil, criminal, traffic, juvenile, and total) in general jurisdiction, limited jurisdiction, and all trial courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization:

In 1979 the number of different kinds of trial courts in a state ranged from 1 (in states with a single-tier trial court) to 15. Five states (Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, and South Dakota), the District of Columbia, and Guam have no limited jurisdiction courts.

A court organization chart for each state can be found in Part II of this report.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

When comparing trial court statistics, the differences in jurisdiction both within and among states must be examined. For example, general jurisdiction courts in states with single-tier courts handle all cases from felonies to parking violations and from the largest civil actions to small claims. Another state's general jurisdiction courts may have a criminal division that handles only felony matters (after preliminary hearing in a limited jurisdiction court), and a civil division that handles no civil cases involving less than $10,000.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Some states report only total caseload. Others report individual case categories, but omit breakdowns within certain categories to show what is included within, for example, domestic relations, estate, or mental health. This omission presents a problem in interstate comparison.

In addition, there are states that are not consistent in their reporting of data. The general jurisdiction court, for example, may give detailed category breakdowns, whereas the limited jurisdiction court may report only total civil, criminal, and juvenile cases, or not report at all.

Sources of data:

The 1979 state statistical profiles in Part II show how the number and types of courts vary from state to state. Also see Appendix B.

Variations in counting cases:

Figure C displays the existing variation in criminal case units of count. These figures show that the problem of case definition in trial courts is more acute on the criminal side. Most states, Puerto Rico, and Guam count civil cases in all trial courts when the petition or complaint is filed. In criminal cases, however, the two major units of count are almost evenly divided. Paper documents filed are the count unit for some courts, while the number of defendants is the count unit for other courts. In fact, several states have courts using different units of count.

Reported cases:

The reported cases for all trial courts, for general jurisdiction courts, and for limited jurisdiction courts include all complete data by the level of court indicated within the state. For example, for a state with more than one limited jurisdiction court to be included in the reported cases for limited jurisdiction courts, all of its limited jurisdiction courts must have reported complete data.

Number of states reporting complete data:

This figure represents the total number of states whose trial courts, at the indicated level, reported complete data.

Percent of population represented by complete data:

State population figures used are the revised 1979 Bureau of Census estimates and total 227,836,000 for the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam and Puerto Rico. This was the figure used to compute percent of population represented by complete data for all trial courts, and for civil and criminal case types in general jurisdiction courts.

Estimated national totals:

These are the cumulative totals of all reported state total data that were complete, plus the estimated totals for each state for which complete figures were unavailable. The procedure used to estimate incomplete and missing data is discussed in Appendix A.

Appropriate analyses:

The estimates of total trial court volume can be compared to the estimates of the total appellate volume given in Table 1 to indicate the relationship between trial and appellate courts. The estimate of the total volume of each major case type, civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile, shows the relative distribution of the types of cases that are brought to the trial courts.

Limitations on use:

The estimates of case volume are based on complete data from only a portion of the states. It is not possible at this time to gauge the variability of these estimates. They should be viewed only as gross, "ball park" estimates, and not as representing the exact volume of cases in state courts.

To ascertain the states that reported data in any category, refer to Table 15.

TABLE 15: Reported total trial court caseload, 1979.

Variations in court organization:

Fifty states, the District of Columbia, Guam, and Puerto Rico have 1979 trial court data displayed in Table 15.

A court organization chart for each state is in Part II of this report. The wide variation in court organization from state to state can be illustrated by comparing the District of Columbia's single-tier court system with Georgia, which has a number of general jurisdiction and/or limited jurisdiction courts. These differences in court organization determine the proportion of total trial court caseload that will be heard in general jurisdiction and in limited jurisdiction courts in each state.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

The variations in court organization mentioned above will also determine what proportion of civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile case types are heard at each level of court. See the individual court profiles in Part II for the case types handled in each trial court.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Table 15 shows only the very broad breakdown of caseload into civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile cases, and indicates with NHs the case types not handled in each particular court. This table gives a good overview of the way caseload is distributed among the trial courts. The large number of blank spaces indicates from which courts data were unavailable for 1979. No totals appear for a state on the state name line in any of the columns unless complete data (at least 90%) were reported by all courts handling that case type. State totals are left blank if data were missing from any court in the state.

Sources of data are indicated in the individual court profiles in Part II and Appendix B.

Variations in counting civil and criminal cases:

Those states that count criminal cases by charging documents are listed separately from those that count defendants. States that use some other unit of count for criminal cases will have the definition spelled out in the charging document columns, and have the data listed in the defendant columns. Care should be taken to avoid comparing defendant-count states with state data based on other units of count. These definitions in criminal cases are spelled out in the immediately preceding Figure C. An "*" next to a court indicates that the civil unit of count is not the filing of a complaint. Please check the profile to identify the unit of count. Only data from those states that count cases in the same way can be compared.

Appropriate analyses:

Disposed cases as percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases that the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed. This measure was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten.

Filed (disposed) per 100,000 population. The unit of state population used on all court caseload charts is 100,000. This measure compensates for variations in state population and gives a more realistic basis for comparison of caseloads among states of various sizes. If the number of filings was unavailable but the number of dispositions was available, the number of cases disposed per unit of population was entered in this column in place of the number of cases filed per population unit. The use of this alternative quantity is indicated by enclosing it in parentheses. Population figures represent the total state population.

If all other factors (court jurisdiction, case definition, unit of count, etc.) are similar, the filed per unit of population statistic will permit direct comparison among states of the number of filed civil cases, criminal cases, traffic cases, juvenile cases, as well as among state totals.

Limitations on use:

Data that are not at least 90% complete are not included in this table to prevent inappropriate comparisons. The data that are included must account for differences between the way cases are defined and counted in different courts. Where possible, comparisons should be limited to those among state totals for specific types of cases. Before making comparisons between limited jurisdiction courts or among general jurisdiction courts, check the organization charts in Part II of this volume for similarities in jurisdiction.

TABLE 15:
Reported total trial court caseload, 1979.
General and limited jurisdiction courts. Population. Filed and disposed. Disposed as a percentage of filed, and filed per 100,000 population for the civil, criminal, traffic, juvenile, and total state caseload.

NH = This court type is not handled by this court.

— = Not applicable.

¹Data are incomplete:

Arizona—Superior Court—Civil figures do not include adoption data for Maricopa County, or any statewide mental health data.

California—Superior Court—One court reported data for only the first six months of the reporting period.

Delaware—Civil and state totals include 53 civil filings and 175 civil dispositions from the Alderman's Court. These figures were not reported, however, because they were less than 90% complete.

Georgia—State Court and County Court—Filled and disposed figures do not include the State Court in DeKalb County.

Massachusetts—District Court Department—Traffic filings do not include DWI/DUI cases—these are included in criminal filings.

Michigan—Circuit Court—Caseload data were unavailable for Arenac, Jackson and Mason Counties.

District Court—Caseload data were unavailable for courts in Barry, Ecalie, Kentwood, Linton and Newago.

Civil totals include 35,512 civil filings and 33,231 civil dispositions from the Probate Court. These figures were not reported, however, because they were less than 90% complete.

Nebraska—District Court—Civil filings and dispositions do not include civil appeals.

New York—Family Court—Figures do not include case activity in Queens County during December.

North Dakota—County Court with increased jurisdiction—Civil dispositions do not include mental health data from LaMoure, Ramsey and Ransom Counties.

Oregon—County Court—Civil dispositions do not include adoption or mental health cases.

Utah—Circuit Court—Except for criminal dispositions, no data were reported for the court located in American Fork.

Vermont—District Court—Criminal filings do not include sentence review only cases.

Washington—Superior Court—Civil and criminal disposition data were unavailable from one court location.

Municipal and Police Court—Traffic figures do not include parking citations.

JExplanation of data included in the category:

Kentucky—District Court—Juvenile cases include delinquency, status, dependency, neglect, needy, and abuse cases, as well as paternity actions and adult violations of KRS 530.060-.070 (endangering the welfare of or unlawful transaction with a minor).

Massachusetts—District Court Department—Criminal filings include DWI/DUI cases.

Nebraska—District Court—Criminal filings and dispositions include civil appeals.

South Carolina—Circuit Court—Criminal figures include cases that were handled in the County Court and the Civil and Criminal Court.

South Dakota—Circuit Court—Traffic figures include some Class 2 misdemeanors and petty offenses, which includes such things as prostitution, gambling and disorderly conduct.

Utah—Juvenile Court—filings are the number of referrals.

Vermont—Superior Court—Civil data include criminal appeals, and some postconviction remedy cases.

TABLE 16: Civil filed and disposed for general jurisdiction, limited jurisdiction, and all trial courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification:

This table breaks the gross totals of Table 15 into the civil case classification. Because of the variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification, comparisons of general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts from state to state are seldom appropriate.

Lack of complete data (less than 90% complete from an individual court) is responsible for the large number of blanks in the "All trial courts" columns on this table, as well as for states missing from the table. In order for a state to be included in this table, it had to have complete filing or disposition data from all its trial courts.

Courts that do not break their caseload down into specific case types, do generally separate caseload into civil, criminal, and juvenile cases. (Traffic may be reported separately or it may be lumped into criminal caseload.)

Sources of data are found on the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in counting cases do have an impact on total caseloads. If states are not counting cases at the same beginning and ending point, total caseload is not comparable.

Appropriate analyses:

Disposed as a percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases that the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons can be made between courts that count cases in the same way. The method of counting civil cases has the greatest influence over data reported.

Although data have been broken down into general and limited jurisdiction courts, this has been done to provide a flavor for the different workloads of the different levels of trial courts. Interstate comparisons should be restricted to all trial courts' figures.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Vermont--General jurisdiction courts-- Civil appeal data include criminal appeals as well as some habeas corpus and postconviction remedy cases.

TABLE 17: Composition of civil case filings in general jurisdiction courts, 1979.
 TABLE 18: Composition of civil case dispositions in general jurisdiction courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

These two tables deal only with general jurisdiction courts. In states with a single-tier trial court (Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, South Dakota, District of Columbia, and Guam), all case types are heard in the general jurisdiction court. These courts are indicated by a "*" before their state name. In all other states some of the trial court case types are heard in limited jurisdiction courts.

The individual court profiles for each state (found in Part II) must be consulted to determine whether the figures for an individual case type in these tables represent the complete caseload for that case type in the particular state.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classifications and definitions:

Courts that do not break their caseload down into specific case types do generally separate caseload into civil, criminal, and juvenile cases. (Traffic may be reported separately or it may be reported as a part of the criminal caseload.) Consequently, these two tables are easier to aggregate than later tables that show specific case types.

Those states that reported less than 90% of complete "total" data were excluded from these tables.

Appropriate analyses:

Data from these tables may be used to identify courts with similar jurisdiction and courts that handle similar volumes of cases. These data can also be used to compute the distribution of types of civil cases filed in each court. To compute the proportion of the total filings (dispositions) for each case type, divide the number of filings (dispositions) for each case type by the total filings (dispositions) for each court and multiply by 100.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons should not be made between courts in states with a single-tier trial court (marked with an "*") and courts in states with both general and limited jurisdiction courts.

Comparisons can be made only between courts that use the same unit of count for counting civil cases. Since the data contained in these tables are taken from only the general jurisdiction courts, the organization charts for each state should be checked to determine whether or not other courts in the state also handle the specific case types before comparisons of volumes of specific case types are made.

Note: All available data from states that have total filings which are at least 90% complete were entered in this table. Blank spaces indicate that the data were unavailable or less than 90% complete. Other civil also includes extraordinary writ cases.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

NH = This case type is not handled by this court.

*These states have a single-tier trial court. These courts have no limited jurisdiction courts under them, so included in their caseload are cases that would be heard by limited jurisdiction courts elsewhere.

¹Data are incomplete:

Arizona--Superior Court-- Adoption data were unavailable for Maricopa County.

California--Superior Court--One court reported data for only the first six months of the reporting period.

Massachusetts--STATE TOTAL--The Superior Court did not provide case type breakdowns.

Michigan--Circuit Court--Data were unavailable for Arenac, Jackson and Mason Counties.

Nebraska--District Court-- Total civil does not include appeals cases.

Puerto Rico--Superior Court-- Appeal data do not include appeals of trial court cases.

Wisconsin--Circuit Court-- Small claims figure does not include uncontested cases outside of Milwaukee County.

J Explanation of data in the category:

Alabama--Circuit Court-- Other civil includes law, auto tort, and civil appeals cases.

Arizona--Superior Court-- Law includes prayer under $1,000, auto tort, non-auto tort, contract, eminent domain, unclassified civil and appeal cases.

Arkansas--Circuit Court-- Law includes trial de novo appeals.

Delaware--Superior Court-- Other civil includes contract, real property rights, and equity cases.

Hawaii--Circuit Court-- Domestic relations include mental health cases.

Idaho--District Court-- Data may include some juvenile appeals.

Kentucky--Circuit Court-- Mental health data include some competency hearings.

New Hampshire--Superior Court-- Equity includes domestic relations cases.

North Carolina--Superior Court-- Other civil includes real property, adoptions and mental health cases.

Vermont--Superior Court-- Appeal data include some criminal appeals, postconviction remedy and extraordinary writ cases.

Wisconsin--Circuit Court-- Other civil includes torts, real property rights, mental health, and appeals cases.

TABLE 25: Mental health caseload for trial courts, 1979.

TABLE 26: Civil appeals caseload for trial courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

Caseload in these tables is from both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts. The same case types may be handled in very different courts from state to state. Only state totals can be compared. To facilitate comparisons, the states in these tables have been grouped into three categories: those states where a court has exclusive jurisdiction over a case type and where it submitted complete data; those states where more than one court handles a case type and each court submitted complete data; and those states that reported incomplete data from any one of these courts with that case type jurisdiction.

The court organization charts in Part II should be consulted for a brief summary of the jurisdiction of each court.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

The COSCA CSIM Committee has chosen to classify cases according to subject-matter rather than the remedy sought. This makes categories such as "law" and "equity" difficult to reclassify unless the particular court can tell us the kinds of cases included.

Even with use of the Model Statistical Dictionary case definitions, the classifications vary from state to state. Domestic relations, for example, may include all family matters in some states while other states report only divorce actions as domestic relations cases.

Some states count support and custody matters in their juvenile caseload, whereas the classification used here places these matters in domestic relations cases.

Only states reporting data that could be displayed in the specific case type are included in these tables, and then only if the data are 90% complete. Many courts do not break data down beyond the broad civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile categories.

Variations in counting cases:

Caseload cannot be compared among courts that do not count cases at the same beginning and end point. Those states that do not count cases at the filing of the petition or complaint have been separated and placed at the bottom of each large jurisdiction grouping.

Appropriate analyses:

Disposed cases as percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases of which the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed of more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed. This measure was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote in the profiles in Part II) made it inappropriate.

End pending cases as percent of filed. This figure gives the percent of the number of filed cases that were pending at the end of the year. This measure is computed by dividing the number of cases pending at the end of the year by the number of cases filed and then multiplying by one hundred. A value of one hundred percent indicates that the number of cases pending at the end of the year was equal to the number of cases filed during the year. A value higher than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload larger than cases filed, while a value lower than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload smaller than the number of cases filed. We expect this number to be low for case types such as traffic that have relatively quick disposition times, but it will be larger for torts and other case types that usually take longer to process. This percent was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote on the profiles in Part II) made it inappropriate.

Number change in pending caseload. This number gives the net increase or decrease in pending caseload for the court year by subtracting the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year from the number of cases pending at the end of the year. An alternative to this calculation, subtracting the number disposed from the number filed, was used when pending data were unavailable or incomplete. When this alternate formula was used, the resulting number was enclosed in parentheses. A positive number indicates that the pending caseload increased during the year while a negative number indicates that the pending caseload was reduced in size. Thus, a large negative change in pending cases indicates that the court is keeping the caseload current, while a large positive change in pending cases indicates that the court has not kept pace with its filings.

Percent change in pending caseload. This percentage indicates the change in pending cases relative to the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year, and is obtained by dividing the number change in pending caseload by the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year and then multiplying by one hundred. (This figure cannot be calculated if the alternative formula described above was used to calculate the number change in the pending caseload.) A high negative percent indicates that the court reduced its pending caseload significantly, while a high positive percent indicates that the pending caseload increased significantly. This measure was not computed if the number of beginning pending cases was less than ten or if the jurisdiction of the court changed significantly during the year.

jurisdiction, case definition, etc.) are similar, the filed-per-unit-of-population statistic will permit direct comparisons among states of the number of filed cases. For civil cases in trial courts, this measure will indicate, among other things, the propensity to litigate among the citizens in a given state.

Limitations on use:

In these case type tables, only the STATE TOTALS can be compared in those states where more than one court has jurisdiction over the case type.

Comparisons can be made between the data reported for a state where an individual court has exclusive jurisdiction over the type of case and the STATE TOTALS for states where more than one court has jurisdiction. Comparisons can not be made for states reporting incomplete data. Comparisons should be made only between those cases that use the same unit of count for counting civil cases. (See Figure A for a listing of the groups of states that use the same unit of count for civil cases.)

Note: States were included on this table only when at least one court specifically provided data on the number of torts. States were excluded from this table when the number of torts could not be segregated from other civil actions in any of its courts. However, when one state court separated torts from other civil actions, and it was clear that other courts in that state had jurisdiction over civil actions with monetary damages that did not fall under the jurisdiction of a specific small claims structure, then the state was categorized as having incomplete state data.

Blank spaces indicate that either the data were unavailable or less than 90% complete, or that the calculations were inappropriate.

* = These courts do not use filing of a petition as the unit of count. Check the state profile to identify the specific unit of count.

ⁱData are incomplete:

Michigan--Circuit Court--Caseload data were unavailable for Arenac, Jackson and Mason Counties.
Ohio--Court of Common Pleas--Pending data were unavailable for all tort case types.
Washington--Superior Court--One court location did not report disposition data for 1979.

TABLE 27: Civil jury and non-jury trial dispositions by case type, 1979.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:	Appropriate analyses:
Subject matter jurisdictions are visually quite apparent in Tables 27 and 38, where the "+" symbols under the heading "Case type" indicate what case types were reported for each piece of trial data. These breakdowns were made to facilitate comparative analysis among courts and case types. Both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts are included.	Trials as a percent of dispositions. Dividing the number of trials conducted by the total number of cases disposed of for the appropriate case type results in the trial rate for that case type for the court.
Sources of data:	Jury trials as a percent of dispositions. Dividing the number of jury trials conducted by the total number of cases disposed of for the appropriate case type results in the jury trial rate for that case type for the court.
These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.	Jury trials as a percent of trials. Dividing the number of jury trials by the total number of trials conducted for that case type results in the proportion of trials that are trials by jury for that case type for the court.
Variations in case classifications and definitions:	Limitations on use:
Variations in counting both cases and trials:	Care should also be taken to compare only those courts that share similar rules regarding the availability of jury trials. For example, some states make it more difficult for a criminal defendant to waive a jury trial than other states. Similarly, in some states both parties to civil litigation must agree to a jury trial, while in other states one of the parties can demand a jury trial.
Each of these tables has numerical superscripts by each court name, indicating how that court counts cases. Caseload cannot be compared among courts that do not count cases in the same way.
The definitions used by each court to count trials are indicated in the third column in Tables 27 and 38, the second column in Table 42. Comparisons can be made between courts that count trials in the same way.

Note: All available data are entered in the table and all appropriate calculations are included. Blank spaces indicate that the data were unavailable or calculations were inappropriate.

-- = Not applicable.

+ = Data are given for these case types.

¹Data are not complete:

Arizona--Superior Court-- Adoption and domestic relations figures do not include adoption data from Maricopa County.

California--Superior Court--One court reported data for only the first six months of the reporting period.

Connecticut--Superior Court--Data were not available for any cases handled by the Housing Sessions or for civil, small claims, or law cases disposed in the geographic area courts, formerly the Courts of Common Pleas.

Court of Common Pleas--Data are given only for family docket and nonfamily docket cases.

Indiana--Superior Court and Circuit Court--Data do not include redocketed dissolutions.

Kansas--District Court-- Domestic relation cases do not include adoptions.

Maine--Superior Court--Trial data do not include URESA cases, but do include extraordinary writs.

Michigan--Circuit Court--There were no data available for the following counties: Arenac, Jackson, and Mason.

District Court--There were no data available for the following courts: Barry, Eccluse, Kentwood, Livonia, and Newaygo.

New Jersey--Superior Court-- Domestic relations cases include only marriage dissolution and uncontested adoption cases.

Ohio--Court of Common Pleas-- Tort data include only personal injury. Domestic relations trial data do not include adoptions birth records.

Puerto Rico--Superior Court-- Appeal does not include appeals of trial court cases.

South Dakota--Data do not include full-time equivalent Lay Magistrate or Lawyer Magistrate cases.

Texas--Justice of the Peace Court--Data reported represent 9,180 Justice of the Peace Court monthly reports out of a possible 11,640--a reporting rate of 79%.

Utah--Circuit Court--No data were reported for the court located in American Fork.

Washington--Circuit Court--One court location reported incomplete disposition data.

Wisconsin--Circuit Court-- Small claims data are reported for all cases in Milwaukee County, but for contested cases only in the rest of the state.

Wyoming--Figures do not include estate data.

JExplanation of data included in the category:

Connecticut--Superior Court--Data for civil trials are given for domestic relations marriage dissolution cases.

Oklahoma--Other includes extraordinary writs.

Pennsylvania--Court of Common Pleas--Civil trial data include only the subcategory "civil" classified under other civil.

Puerto Rico--Superior Court-- Other civil includes extraordinary writs.

South Carolina--Other category could mean any category. It is not broken down in the state profile.

South Dakota--Circuit Court-- Domestic relations includes only marriage dissolution cases.

Texas--The District Court--Directed verdict cases are included in jury trials.

Utah--District Court-- Other civil includes extraordinary writs.

Washington--Circuit Court--Trial data for civil cases do not include adoption cases.

¹A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

2A civil case is counted when it is placed on the calendar (has reached issue).

³A civil case is counted at the note of issue.

⁵A civil case is not counted in the same way throughout the state.

Trial definition:

A = A trial is counted if tried to judgment, completion, verdict, or decision.

B = A Jury trial is counted when the jury selection begins (first juror is drawn).

C = A Jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn (impaneled).

D = A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.

F = A trial is counted when it has officially begun.

G = A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs. Guilty pleas are not counted as trials.

H = A trial is not counted in the same way throughout the state.

TABLE 28: Criminal filed and disposed in general jurisdiction, limited jurisdiction, and all trial courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification:	Appropriate analyses:
This table breaks the gross totals of Table 15 into criminal case classification. Because of the variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification, comparisons of general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts from state to state are seldom appropriate.	Disposed as a percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases that the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed.
Lack of complete data (less than 90% complete from an individual court) is responsible for the large number of blanks in the "All trial courts" columns on this table, as well as for states missing from the table. In order for a state to be included in this table, it had to have complete filing or disposition data from all its trial courts.	Limitations on use:
Courts that do not break their caseload down into specific case types, do generally separate caseload into civil, criminal, and juvenile cases. (Traffic may be reported separately or it may be lumped into criminal caseload.)	Comparisons can be made between courts that count cases in the same way. The method of counting criminal cases has the greatest influence over data reported. Consult Figure C for a listing of the groups of courts that count criminal cases in the same way.
Sources of data are found on the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.	Although data have been broken down into general and limited jurisdiction courts, this has been done to provide a flavor for the different workloads of the different levels of trial courts. Interstate comparisons should be restricted to all trial courts' data.
Variations in counting cases do have an impact on total caseloads. If states are not counting cases at the same beginning and ending point, total caseload is not comparable. See Figure C.

Note: All courts in Louisiana, Nebraska, New Mexico, Hawaii, and Delaware are displayed in the number of defendants grouping because this is the unit of count for the general jurisdiction court in each of these states. Data for all courts in Maryland are displayed with the number of informations, indictments, or complaints grouping since this is the unit of count for general jurisdiction courts in this state.

State totals were included in this table when all courts with criminal jurisdiction within that state reported either complete filings and/or dispositions. Blank spaces indicate that the data were unavailable or incomplete, or the calculations were inappropriate.

-- = Not applicable.

NH = This case type is not handled in this court.

TABLE 29: Composition of criminal case filings in general jurisdiction courts, 1979.
 TABLE 30: Composition of criminal case dispositions in general jurisdiction courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

These two tables deal only with general jurisdiction courts. In states with a single-tier trial court (Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, South Dakota, District of Columbia, and Guam), all case types are heard in the general jurisdiction court. These courts are indicated by an "*" before their state name. In all other states, some of the trial court case types are heard in limited jurisdiction courts.

The individual court profiles for each state (found in Part II) must be consulted to determine whether the figures for an individual case type in these tables represent the complete caseload for that case type in the particular state.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classifications and definitions:

Courts that do not break their caseload down into specific case types do generally separate caseload into civil, criminal, and juvenile cases. (Traffic may be reported separately or it may be reported as a part of the criminal caseload.) Consequently, these two tables are easier to aggregate than later tables that show specific case types.

Those states that reported less than 90% of complete "total" data were excluded from these tables.

Appropriate analyses:

Data from these tables may be used to identify courts with similar jurisdiction and courts that handle similar volumes of cases. These data can also be used to compute the distribution of types of criminal cases filed in each court. To compute the proportion of the total filings (dispositions) for each case type, divide the number of filings (dispositions) for each case type by the total filings (dispositions) for each court and multiply by 100.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons should not be made between courts in states with a single-tier trial court (marked with an "*") and courts in states with both general and limited jurisdiction courts.

Comparisons can be made only between courts that use the same unit of count for counting criminal cases. Since the data contained in these tables are taken from only the general jurisdiction courts, the organization charts for each state should be checked to determine whether or not other courts in the state also handle the specific case types before comparisons of volumes of specific case types are made.

¹Data are incomplete:

California--Superior Court--One court reported data for only the first six months of the reporting period.
Michigan--Circuit Court--Data were unavailable for Arenac, Jackson and Mason Counties.

Vermont--District Court--Data do not include sentence review only cases, nor data from the Superior Court.

Arkansas--Circuit Court-- Appeals include some original misdemeanors.

Illinois--Circuit Court-- Misdemeanors include ordinance violations and preliminary hearings in the Circuit Court of Cook County.
Lower-District Court-- Felony data include appeals.

Massachusetts--District Court Department--Data include some felonies.

Michigan--Circuit Court--Data include some high misdemeanors.

Nebraska--District Court-- Felony data include some misdemeanors, and Appeal data include some civil appeals.

Pennsylvania--Court of Common Pleas-- Felony/Misdemeanor figure includes some trial de novo for appeal cases.

South Carolina--Circuit Court--Data include cases from the County Court, and the Civil and Criminal Court.

Composition of criminal case dispositions in general jurisdiction courts, 1979. (continued)

Note: All available data from states that had total dispositions which were at least 90% complete are entered in the table. Blank spaces indicate that the data were unavailable or less than 90% complete. Other criminal also includes extraordinary writ, postconviction remedy and sentence review only cases. The felony/misdemeanor category in this table does not represent the sum of all felonies and misdemeanors, but deals only with those figures which could not be broken down into those respective categories.

NH = This case type is known not to be handled by the court.

*These states have a single-tier trial court. These courts have no limited jurisdiction courts under them, so included in their caseload are cases that would be heard by limited jurisdiction courts elsewhere.

¹Data are incomplete:

California--Superior Court--One court reported data for only the first six months of the reporting period.
Massachusetts--Superior Court Department--These are not state totals--they do not include data from any of the other departments.
Michigan--Circuit Court--Data were unavailable for Arenac, Jackson and Mason Counties.
New Hampshire--Superior Court--Data for individual case types are missing for Strafford County.
Vermont--District Court--Figures do not include data from the Superior Court due to substantially incomplete total disposition figures from the Superior Court.
Washington--Superior Court--One court location failed to provide data for the indicated case types.

JExplanation of data included in the category:

Arkansas--Circuit Court-- Appeals include some original misdemeanors.
Delaware--Superior Court-- Felony/misdemeanor includes appeals.
Illinois--Circuit Court-- Misdemeanors include ordinance violations and preliminary hearings in the Circuit Court of Cook County.
Iowa--District Court-- Felony data include appeals.
Kansas--District Court-- Misdemeanors include appeals.
Michigan--Circuit Court--Data include some high misdemeanors.
Nebraska--District Court-- Felony data include some misdemeanors, and appeal data include some civil appeals.
Pennsylvania--Court of Common Pleas-- Felony/misdemeanor figure includes some trial de novo for appeal cases.
South Carolina--Circuit Court--Data include cases from the County Court, and the Civil and Criminal Court.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

Caseload in these tables is from both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts. The same case types may be handled in different courts from state to state. Only state totals can be compared among these states using the same unit of count. To facilitate comparisons, the states in these tables have been grouped into three categories: those states where a court has exclusive jurisdiction over a case type and where it reported complete data; those states where more than one court handles a case type and each court submitted complete data; and those states where data from any one of the courts with that casetype jurisdiction are incomplete. The court organization charts in Part II should be consulted for a brief summary of the jurisdiction of each court.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Both the case categories and the data classified in the case categories vary from state to state.

Because such problems exist for these and all other case categories, the case types used in this report are those chosen for inclusion in the State Court Model Annual Report and State Court Model Statistical Dictionary.

Even with use of the model case types, however, caseloads are not comparable if state statutes vary as to the types of criminal cases classified as felonies or misdemeanors. Certain drug offenses, for example, may be serious felonies in one state but only misdemeanors in another.

Only states reporting data that could be displayed in the specific case types are included in the tables, and then only if the data are at least 90% complete. Many courts do not break data down beyond the broad civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile categories.

Variations in counting cases:

Each of these tables has numerical superscripts by each court name, indicating how that court counts cases. This distinction is highlighted further by dotted lines separating the states by unit of count.

Appropriate analysis:

Disposed cases as percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases of which the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed of and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed of more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed.

This measure was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote) made it inappropriate.

End pending cases as percent of filed. This figure gives the percent of the number of filed cases that were pending at the end of the year. This measure is computed by dividing the number of cases pending at the end of the year by the number of cases filed and then multiplying by one hundred. A value of one hundred percent indicates that the number of cases pending at the end of the year was equal to the number of cases filed during the year. A value higher than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload larger than cases filed, while a value lower than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload smaller than the number of cases filed. This percent was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote in the profiles in Part II) made it inappropriate.

Number change in pending caseload. This number gives the net increase or decrease in pending caseload for the court year by subtracting the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year from the number of cases pending at the end of the year. An alternative to this calculation, subtracting the number disposed of from the number filed, was used when pending data were unavailable or incomplete. When this alternate formula was used, the resulting number was enclosed in parentheses. A positive number indicates that the pending caseload increased during the year while a negative number indicates that the pending caseload was reduced in size. Thus, a large negative change in pending cases indicates that the court is keeping the caseload current, while a large positive change in pending cases would indicate that the court has not kept pace with its filings.

Percent change in pending caseload. This percentage indicates the change in pending cases relative to the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year, and is obtained by dividing the number change in pending caseload by the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year and then multiplying by one hundred. (This figure cannot be calculated if the alternative formula described above was used to calculate the number change in the pending caseload.) A high negative percent indicates that the court reduced its pending caseload significantly, while a high positive percent indicates that the pending caseload increased significantly. This measure was not computed if the number of beginning pending cases was less than ten or if the jurisdiction of the court changed significantly during the year.

Filed (disposed) per 100,000 population. The unit of state population used on all court caseload charts is 100,000. This measure compensates for variations in state population and gives a more realistic basis for comparison of caseloads among states of various sizes. If the number of filings was not available or was not complete (indicated by an "i" footnote on the profiles in Part II) but the number of dispositions was available, the number of cases disposed per unit of population was entered in this column in place of the number of cases filed per population unit, and the use of this alternative quantity was indicated by enclosing it in parentheses. Population figures used in the criminal tables represent the 18-year-old-plus state population. If all other factors (court jurisdiction, case definition, etc.) are similar, the filed-per-unit-of-population statistic will permit direct comparisons among states of the number of filed cases.

Limitations on use:

In these criminal case type tables, only STATE TOTALS can be compared in those states where more than one court has jurisdiction over the case.

type. Comparisons can be made between the data reported for a state with an individual court that has exclusive jurisdiction over the type of case, and the STATE TOTALS for states where more than one court has jurisdiction. Comparisons should be avoided for states not reporting data for one or more courts that have jurisdiction over the case type.

Comparisons should be made only between those cases that use the same unit of count for counting criminal cases.

It should also be noted that any change(s) in the caseload of a court may not indicate a change in the actual "offense-rate" within a state, but may merely reflect changes in the criminal code, law enforcement policies and/or citizen reporting rates--among other things. These data should only be used for court management measures.

TABLE 37: Criminal disposition types for trial courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

These tables display data for the general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts that report manner-of-disposition data. In Table 37 the states are grouped according to the unit used in counting criminal cases.

Sources of data are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in definitions:

Table 37 indicates the various units used in counting cases from state to state. Only a few states report sufficiently complete data to make between-state comparisons of the proportion of total caseload disposed by each manner of disposition.

Appropriate analyses:

Number and percent of total dispositions for each manner of disposition. Dividing the number of cases for each manner of disposition by the total number of similar cases results in the proportions of cases disposed by each manner of disposition. These figures can be compared between courts that count cases in the same way (i.e., the same unit of count).

Limitations on use:

The distribution of the proportions of cases by different manners of disposition is affected by the method used for counting cases in the court. Dismissals will make up a higher percentage of dispositions in those courts that use a paper-based or charge-based count. Before making comparisons between states and courts, be sure that they both use the same unit of count.

The distribution is also affected by the order with which procedures are carried out by the court and the prosecutor. The proportion of dismissals will be lower in courts that screen cases before filing them than in courts that screen cases after they are filed.

In addition, care should be taken to ensure that a dismissal in one state means the same as a dismissal in another state. For example, some states may distinguish between dismissals by prosecutors and by judges, while others may treat them as the same.

bParticular court or reporting system information:

The numbers of dispositions reported for Georgia courts in this table are different from those reported in the rest of this report. Georgia defines a case differently when counting types of dispositions than it does when counting filings or total dispositions. The total disposition figures used here are the sums of the numbers of cases given under each type of disposition.

dCase definition or unit of count:

Hawaii--District Court--The unit of count is the number of charges.

fData are not complete:

Alaska--Superior Court--Data are given for felony cases only.
 California--Superior Court--One court reported data for only the first six months of the reporting period.
 Connecticut--Superior Court--Data are given for felony and misdemeanor cases only.
 District of Columbia--Data include felony, misdemeanor, and ordinance violation cases only.
 Florida--Circuit Court--Data are given for felony cases only.
 Georgia--Superior Court--Data are given for cases filed after June 30, 1970 only.
 Hawaii--District Court--Data do not include preliminary hearing cases.
 Illinois--Circuit Court--Data are given for felony cases only.
 Michigan--Circuit Court--Data were unavailable from three counties.
 District Court--Data were unavailable from five locations.
 North Carolina--Superior Court--Data are given for felony cases only.
 Ohio--County Court and Municipal Court--Data given do not include preliminary hearing cases.
 Pennsylvania--Court of Common Pleas--Data include felony/misdemeanor cases only.
 Philadelphia Municipal Court--Data are given for misdemeanor "criminal" cases only.

Puerto Rico--District Court--All data include misdemeanor and felony cases only. The total trials figure was estimated by adding the trial convictions and trial acquittals. Grand total does not include ordinance violations.

Texas--Municipal Court and Justice of the Peace Court--Data contained in this table are based on an incomplete number of monthly reports received. The reporting rates for the various courts were: Municipal Court--eighty-nine percent; Justice of the Peace Court--seventy-nine percent.

District Court and Criminal District Court--Data include felony/misdemeanor cases only.

Utah--District Court--Data include felony/misdemeanor cases only.

Vermont--Superior Court--Data include felony, misdemeanor, sentence review only, and appeal cases only.

JExplanation of data included in the category:

Arizona--Nolle prosequi data include some dismissals.

Florida--Some dismissals are included with acquittals.

Georgia--Dismissal data are included with the nolle prosequi data.

Illinois--The dismissal figure includes cases reduced to misdemeanor. The total dispositions figure does not include defendants who were convicted of misdemeanors.

Montana--The dismissal figure included nolle prosequi.

New York--The total trials data are based on a defendant count, not the trial count reported in the state profile. This reporting makes the trial data comparable with the other data presented in this table.

South Carolina--The total trials figure was estimated by adding the trial convictions and trial acquittals.

Tennessee--The number of dispositions and the number of trials are estimated from the criminal disposition breakdown data.

TABLE 38: Criminal jury and non-jury trial dispositions by case type, 1979.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:	Appropriate analyses:
Subject matter jurisdictions are visually quite apparent in Tables 27 and 38, where the "+" symbols under the heading "Case type" indicate what case types were reported for each piece of trial data. These breakdowns were made to facilitate comparative analysis among courts and case types. Both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts are included.	Trials as a percent of dispositions. Dividing the number of trials conducted by the total number of cases disposed of for the appropriate case type results in the trial rate for that case type for the court.
Sources of data:	Jury trials as a percent of dispositions. Dividing the number of Jury trials conducted by the total number of cases disposed of for the appropriate case type results in the jury trial rate for that case type for the court.
These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.	Jury trials as a percent of trials. Dividing the number of Jury trials by the total number of trials conducted for that case type results in the proportion of trials that are trials by jury for that case type for the court.
Variations in case classifications and definitions:	Limitations on use:
Variations in counting both cases and trials:	Care should also be taken to compare only those courts that share similar rules regarding the availability of jury trials. For example, some states make it more difficult for a criminal defendant to waive a jury trial than other states. Similarly, in some states both parties to civil litigation must agree to a jury trial, while in other states one of the parties can demand a jury trial.
Each of these tables has numerical superscripts by each court name, indicating how that court counts cases. Caseload cannot be compared among courts that do not count cases in the same way.
The definitions used by each court to count trials are indicated in the third column in Tables 27 and 38, the second column in Table 42. Comparisons can be made between courts that count trials in the same way.

State, Court Title and Unit of

TABLE 39: Traffic filed and disposed in general jurisdiction, limited jurisdiction, and all trial courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification:	Appropriate analyses:
This table breaks the gross totals of Table 15 into the broad case traffic classification. Because of the variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification, comparisons of general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts from state to state are seldom appropriate.	Disposed as a percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases that the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed.
Courts that do not break their caseload down into specific case types do generally separate caseload into civil, criminal, and juvenile cases. (Traffic may be reported separately or it may be lumped into criminal caseload.)	Although data have been broken down into general and limited jurisdiction courts, this has been done to provide a flavor for the different workloads of the different levels of trial courts. Interstate comparisons should be restricted to all trial courts' figures.
Sources of data are found on the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.	Also, comparisons should not be made between states that handle traffic, and in particular, parking cases differently. Courts that include parking cases in their reported data, indicated by a footnote "s" should not be compared to those that do not, indicated by a footnote "r." In addition, states with neither an "s" or "r" footnote should not be compared with any other state or themselves. For these states, we simply do not know if they do, or do not include parking cases.

Variations in counting cases do have an impact on total caseloads. If states are not counting cases at the same beginning and ending point, total caseload is not comparable.

NH = This case type is not handled in this court.

-- = Not applicable.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

South Dakota--All courts--Data for DWI/DUI and other traffic are included in the class 1 misdemeanor data in the state profile.

District of Columbia--All courts--Data include new filings and reinstated cases.

rData reported are known to not include parking cases.

sData reported are known to include parking cases.

TABLE 40: DWI/DUI caseload for trial courts, 1979.

Variations in court jurisdiction and subject matter jurisdiction.

Caseload in these tables is from both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts. DWIs may be handled in different courts from state to state. The court organization charts in Part II should be consulted for a brief summary of the jurisdiction of each court.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Both the case categories and the data classification within case categories vary from state to state. Because such problems exist for these and all other case categories, the case types used in this report are those chosen for inclusion in the State Court Model Annual Report and State Court Model Statistical Dictionary.

Only states reporting data that could be displayed in the specific case type are included in the tables, and then only if the data are at least 90% complete. Many courts do not break down data beyond the broad civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile categories.

Parking violations, which many states report in their traffic caseload, are not included in this table.

In addition, some states include DWI/DUI in their criminal categories. Beginning with our 1981 Annual Report, we will also be including DWI/DUI in our criminal category.

Appropriate analyses:

Disposed cases as percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases of which the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed of and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed of more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed. This measure was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote) made it inappropriate.

End pending cases as percent of filed. This figure gives the percent of the number of filed cases that were pending at the end of the year. This measure is computed by dividing the number of cases pending at the end of the year by the number of cases filed and then multiplying by one hundred. A value of one hundred percent indicates that the number of cases pending at the end of the year was equal to the number of cases filed during the year. Assuming that the number of dispositions is a close estimate of the number of filings, this could be interpreted to mean that if the court received no new filings the following year, it would take that whole year to eliminate its backlog. A value higher than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload larger than cases filed, while a value lower than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload smaller than the number of cases filed. We expect this number to be low for case types such as traffic that have relatively quick disposition times. This percent was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote on the profiles in Part II) made it inappropriate.

Number change in pending cases. This number gives the net increase or decrease in pending caseload for the court year by subtracting the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year from the number of cases pending at the end of the year. An alternative to this calculation, subtracting the number disposed from the number filed, was used when pending data were unavailable or incomplete. When this alternate formula was used, the resulting number was enclosed in parentheses. A positive number indicates that the pending caseload increased during the year while a negative number indicates that the pending caseload was reduced in size. Thus, a large negative change in pending indicates that the court is keeping the caseload current, while a large positive change in pending would indicate that the court has not kept pace with its filings.

Percent change in pending cases. This percentage indicates the change in pending cases relative to the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year. It is obtained by dividing the number change in pending caseload by the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year, and then multiplying by one hundred. (This figure cannot be calculated if the alternate formula described above was used to calculate the number change in the pending caseload.) A high negative percent indicates that the court reduced its pending caseload significantly, while a high positive percent indicates that the pending caseload increased significantly. This measure was not computed if the number of beginning pending cases was less than ten or if the jurisdiction of the court changed significantly during the year.

Limitations on use:

The unit of count for traffic cases is not included in this report. Nevertheless, these cases are probably counted differently in many of these courts. Some courts may report data for all traffic cases; others only for contested cases. Comparisons should be made using only STATE TOTAL data or data from a court that has exclusive jurisdiction over these types of cases. Comparisons should be avoided between individual courts that do not have exclusive jurisdiction in their states.

It should also be noted that large increases in the DWI caseload may not indicate increased drunk driving but may merely reflect changes in drunk driving legislation as well as other law enforcement policies.

TABLE 41: Traffic disposition types for trial courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

These tables display data for the general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts that report manner-of-disposition data. In Table 41 the states are grouped according to the unit used in counting traffic cases.

Sources of data are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in definitions:

Table 41 indicates the various units used in counting cases from state to state. Only a few states report sufficiently complete data to make between-state comparisons of the proportion of total caseload disposed by each manner of disposition.

Appropriate analyses:

Number and percent of total dispositions for each manner of disposition. Dividing the number of cases for each manner of disposition by the total number of similar cases results in the proportions of cases disposed by each manner of disposition. These figures can be compared between courts that count cases in the same way (i.e., the same unit of count).

Limitations on use:

The distribution of the proportions of cases by different manners of disposition is affected by the method used for counting cases in the court. Dismissals will make up a higher percentage of dispositions in those courts that use a paper-based or charge-based count. Before making comparisons between states and courts, be sure that they both use the same unit of count.

The distribution is also affected by the order with which procedures are carried out by the court and the prosecutor. The proportion of dismissals will be lower in courts that screen cases before filing them than in courts that screen cases after they are filed.

In addition, care should be taken to ensure that a dismissal in one state means the same as a dismissal in another state. For example, some states may distinguish between dismissals by prosecutors and by judges, while others may treat them as the same.

*Violations Bureau dispositions: These cases were disposed by a Violations Bureau, usually with just the payment of a fine. In the Texas Justice of the Peace Court and Municipal Court these are called payment of fine dispositions.

^bParticular court or reporting system information:

The numbers of dispositions reported for Georgia courts in this table are different from those reported in the rest of this report. Georgia defines a case differently when counting types of dispositions than it does when counting filings or total dispositions. The total disposition figures used here are the sums of the number of cases given under each type of disposition.

TABLE 42: Traffic jury and non-jury trial dispositions, 1979.

Variations in court organization and subject matter jurisdiction:

Subject matter jurisdictions are visually quite apparent in Tables 27 and 38, where the "+" symbols under the heading "Case type" indicate what case types were reported for each piece of trial data. These breakdowns were made to facilitate comparative analysis among courts and case types. In this table, however, data include all available traffic data. Both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts are included.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classifications and definitions:

Both the case categories and the data classified in each case category vary from state to state.

Variations in counting both cases and trials:

Each of these tables has numerical superscripts by each court name, indicating how that court counts cases. Caseload cannot be compared among courts that do not count cases in the same way.

The definitions used by each court to count trials are indicated in the third column in Tables 27 and 38, the second column in Table 42. Comparisons can be made between courts that count trials in the same way.

Appropriate analyses:

Trials as a percent of dispositions. Dividing the number of trials conducted by the total number of cases disposed of for the appropriate case type results in the trial rate for that case type for the court.

Jury trials as a percent of dispositions. Dividing the number of jury trials conducted by the total number of cases disposed of for the appropriate case type results in the jury trial rate for that case type for the court.

Jury trials as a percent of trials. Dividing the number of jury trials by the total number of trials conducted for that case type results in the proportion of trials that are trials by jury for that case type for the court.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons on these tables must be restricted to the court level, and must be controlled for case type, unit of count, and trial definitions. State totals have not been computed in order to avoid any temptation to compare "apples and oranges."

Care should also be taken to compare only those courts that share similar rules regarding the availability of jury trials. For example, some states make it more difficult for a criminal defendant to waive a jury trial than other states. Similarly, in some states both parties to civil litigation must agree to a jury trial, while in other states one of the parties can demand a jury trial.

TABLE 42:
Traffic jury and non-jury trial dispositions, 1979. (continued)

Note: All available data are entered in the table and all appropriate calculations are included. Blank spaces indicate that the data were unavailable or calculations were inappropriate.

-- = Not applicable.

ⁱData are incomplete:

Alaska--District Court--Data only include other traffic, a category which represents 92 percent of the traffic filings.
Kansas--Data do not include juvenile traffic cases.
Michigan--District Court--Data were not given for five locations.
Oregon--Only partial reports were received from 3 municipalities.
Texas--The Municipal Court reported 89% of their monthly reports, while the Justice of the Peace Court reported 79%.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Texas--Municipal Court--Does not include parking violations.--The County Court of Law, Constitutional County Court, and Probate Court are the only courts in the state that handle DWI/DUI cases.

Trial definitions:

A = A trial is counted if tried to judgment, completion, verdict, or decision.
B = A jury trial is counted when the jury selection begins (first juror is drawn).
C = A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn (impaneled).
D = A non-jury trial is counted when the first witness is sworn.
E = A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.
F = A trial is counted when it has officially begun.

TABLE 44: Criminal-type offense caseload for trial courts, 1979.

TABLE 46: Non-offense caseload for trial courts, 1979.

Variations in court jurisdiction and subject matter jurisdiction:

Caseload in these tables is from both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts, and represents the total caseload reported for each case type from each state. The same case type may be handled in different courts from state to state. The court organization charts in Part II should be consulted for a brief summary of the jurisdiction of each court.

Sources of data:

These are found in the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

Both the case categories and the data classification in the case categories vary from state to state.

Because such problems exist for these and all other case categories, the case types used in this report are those chosen for inclusion in the State Court Model Annual Report and State Court Model Statistical Dictionary.

Only states reporting data that could be displayed in the specific case type are included in the tables, and then only if the data are at least 90% complete. Many courts do not break data down beyond the broad civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile categories.

The volume of juvenile cases cannot be compared across all state courts because the statutory age when a juvenile becomes an adult varies from state to state. This variation affects the volume of both juvenile filings and adult criminal filings.

Appropriate analyses:

Disposed cases as percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases of which the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed of and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed of more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed. This measure was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote) made it inappropriate.

End pending cases as percent of filed. This figure gives the percent of the number of filed cases that were pending at the end of the year. This measure is computed by dividing the number of cases pending at the end of the year by the number of cases filed and then multiplying by one hundred. A value of one hundred percent indicates that the number of cases pending at the end of the year was equal to the number of cases filed during the year. A value higher than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload larger than cases filed, while a value lower than one hundred percent indicates a pending caseload smaller than the number of cases filed. This percent was not computed if the number of cases filed was less than ten or if the quantity of missing data (indicated by an "i" footnote in the profiles in Part II) made it inappropriate.

Number change in pending cases. This number gives the net increase or decrease in pending caseload for the court year by subtracting the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year from the number of cases pending at the end of the year. An alternative to this calculation, subtracting the number disposed of from the number filed, was used when pending data were unavailable or incomplete. When this alternate formula was used, the resulting number was enclosed in parentheses. A positive number indicates that the pending caseload increased during the year while a negative number indicates that the pending caseload was reduced in size. Thus, a large negative change in pending indicates that the court is keeping the caseload current, while a large positive change in pending indicates that the court has not kept pace with its filings.

Percent change in pending cases. This percentage indicates the change in pending cases relative to the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year, and is obtained by dividing the number change in pending caseload by the number of cases pending at the beginning of the year and then multiplying by one hundred. (This figure cannot be calculated if the alternative formula described above was used to calculate the number change in the pending caseload.) A high negative percent indicates that the court reduced its pending caseload significantly, while a high positive percent indicates that the pending caseload increased significantly. This measure was not computed if the number of beginning pending cases was less than ten or if the jurisdiction of the court changed significantly during the year.

Filed (disposed) per 100,000 population. The unit of state population used on all court caseload charts is 100,000. This measure compensates for variations in state population and gives a more realistic basis for comparison of caseloads among states of various sizes. If the number of filings was unavailable or was not complete (indicated by an "i" footnote on the profiles in Part II) but the number of dispositions was available, the number of cases disposed per unit of population was entered in this column in place of the number of cases filed per population unit, and the use of this alternative quantity was indicated by enclosing it in parentheses.

Population figures used in the juvenile tables represent the state population under 18 years of age. If all other factors (court jurisdiction, case definition, etc.) are similar, the filed-per-unit-of-population statistic will permit direct comparisons among states of the number of filed cases.

Limitations on use:

Although juvenile courts employ different units of counting when an event becomes a case, these tables do not use such a classification scheme. An effort will be directed at such a scheme in future reports.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Kentucky--All courts-- Juvenile data include delinquency, status, dependency, neglect, needy, and abuse cases, as well as paternity and adult violations of KRS 530.060-.070 (endangering the welfare of or unlawful transactions with a minor).

Utah--Limited jurisdiction--Filed figures are the number of referrals.

TABLE 43: Juvenile filed and disposed for general jurisdiction, limited jurisdiction, and all trial courts, 1979.

Variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification:

This table breaks the gross totals of Table 15 into the broad case juvenile classification. Because of the variations in court organization, subject matter jurisdiction, and case classification, comparisons of general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts from state to state are seldom appropriate.

Lack of complete data (less than 90% complete from an individual court) is responsible for the large number of blanks in the "All trial courts" columns on this table, as well as for states missing from the table. In order for a state to be included in this table, it had to have complete filing or disposition data from all its trial courts.

Courts that do not break their caseload down into specific case types do generally separate caseload into civil, criminal, and juvenile cases. (Traffic may be reported separately or it may be lumped into criminal caseload.)

Sources of data are found on the individual court profiles in Part II and in Appendix B.

Variations in counting cases do have an impact on total caseloads. If states are not counting cases at the same beginning and ending point, total caseload is not comparable.

Appropriate analyses:

Disposed as a percent of filed. This measure represents the percent of the number of filed cases that the court was able to dispose. The percent is computed by dividing the number of cases filed by the number disposed and then multiplying by one hundred. A percent over one hundred indicates that the court disposed more cases than were filed, thus reducing pending caseload. A percent significantly less than one hundred indicates that the court is not keeping up with the volume of cases being filed.

Limitations on use:

Comparisons can be made between courts that count cases in the same way. The method of counting juvenile cases has the greatest influence over data reported.

Although data have been broken down into general and limited jurisdiction courts, this has been done to provide a flavor for the different workloads of the different levels of trial courts. Interstate comparisons should be restricted to all trial courts' figures.

California--Superior Court--One court reported data for only the first six months of the reporting period.

New York--Family Court--Data reported do not include case activity in Queens County during December.

- TABLE 47: Filed cases (total, civil, criminal, and juvenile cases) for trial courts, 1970-1979.
- TABLE 48: Number and percent change in filed cases (total, civil, criminal, and juvenile cases) year to year and for 10-year period for trial courts, 1970-1979. Trial courts reporting five or more years of cases filed data.

Variations in court organization:

These tables include data from both general jurisdiction and limited jurisdiction courts, although data were unavailable from all courts in each state (as indicated by the footnote "p" in the profiles in Part II).

Sources of data for each court are the State Court Caseload Statistics: Annual Report series, 1975-1979 and historical data supplied by selected state court administrative offices.

Variations in subject matter jurisdiction:

The jurisdiction of each court is outlined briefly in the court system chart for each state located in Part II of this report. Variations in jurisdiction make caseload comparisons among trial courts extremely difficult.

Variations in case classification and definitions:

The case classifications used in the Annual Report series are those chosen for inclusion in the State Court Model Annual Report and State Court Model Statistical Dictionary. Differences among states in the way even the broad categories civil, criminal, and juvenile are defined can make caseload comparisons difficult from state to state. For example, some states include support and custody cases in their juvenile caseload, but the classification scheme used here places them in civil (domestic relations) caseload.

Variations in counting cases:

Figures A and B indicate the various units used in counting cases in the various states. Caseload cannot be compared that is not counted at the same beginning and ending point.

Appropriate analyses:

The method of counting cases and the data included for each yearly figure were kept constant for each court. As a result, the number and percent changes in caseloads reported in these tables are, except where otherwise noted, are due to the actual change (usually growth) in filings in the court and not to changes in the way the court counted cases. Changes for similar courts or for all courts within a state may be compared for identical time periods.

Limitations on use:

Caseloads normally fluctuate from year to year, so changes from one year to the next may not be representative of the actual underlying trend. The change in the jurisdiction of a court, or the consolidation of two or more courts, will have an effect on the caseload of the related courts' caseloads.

TABLE 47:
Filed cases (total, civil, criminal, and juvenile cases) for trial courts, 1970-1979. (continued)

Note: All available data are included in the table. Blank spaces indicate that data were not available. The courts listed in this table represent those courts which reported five or more years of cases filed data.

-- = Not applicable.

* The missing data for Utah in 1974 was a result of a change from fiscal to calendar year reporting.

^aCourt Jurisdiction:

Connecticut--In 1979, the Court of Common Pleas and the Juvenile Court were abolished and their jurisdiction was transferred to the Superior Court.

Kansas--District Court--In the middle of the 1977 court year, all the trial courts in Kansas except the Municipal Court were consolidated. The full impact of the consolidation is reflected in the data given for 1978.

Missouri--Circuit Court--In 1979, all seven trial courts in Missouri were combined into the Circuit Court.

^bData are not complete:

Arizona--Superior Court--civil --Data footnoted contained incomplete figures for mental health cases in 1976 and adoption in 1978 and 1979.

Total cases--in addition to the civil data missing as explained above, incomplete data were reported for juvenile cases for two court locations in all years but 1975.

Arkansas--Court of Common Pleas--Total cases and civil --No data were reported for two court locations in 1977 or one location in 1978.

California--Superior Court--One court location did not report data for six months of 1979.

Colorado--Denver Probate Court--Total cases and civil cases-- No estate data were available for three months of 1977.

Delaware--Court of Common Pleas--(1978 only)--Other civil miscellaneous cases are missing from the court located in New Castle County for six months.

Kansas--District Court--(1978 only)--Figures do not include other estate cases.

Maryland--Circuit Court--Figures for total cases do not include sentence review only cases. Criminal cases do not include sentence review only cases or adult offenses against juveniles.

Michigan--Circuit Court--(1978 only)--No data were available for one court; six other courts reported total cases filed only. (1979 only)--Three courts reported no data.

Minnesota--District Court--No data were available for juvenile cases filed in this court.

New Mexico--District Court--Total cases--No juvenile data were available for 1977.

New York--Family Court--No data were reported for one court location in 1978. In 1979, no data were reported for December by one court.

North Dakota--Circuit Court-- juvenile --Figure given for 1978 does not include other juvenile cases filed and therefore is not comparable to other juvenile data given for this court on the table.

South Dakota--Circuit Court-- juvenile --Figure given for 1978 does not include other juvenile cases filed and therefore is not comparable to the other juvenile data given for this court on the table.

Vermont--Superior Court and District Court--Total cases and criminal --Figures for 1979 for criminal cases for these courts do not include sentence review only cases, jurisdiction recently added to these courts.

Explanation of data included in the category:

Colorado--District Court and Denver Superior and Juvenile Courts--Post judgment actions on civil adoption, paternity, and support cases are included in the juvenile caseload figures.

Rhode Island--District Court-- criminal --Also included in these figures are the traffic cases handled by the court.

Additional Information:

Alabama--Circuit Court--Total cases--This court was given jurisdiction over juvenile cases in 1978.

Connecticut--Superior Court--No data are included for cases disposed by the Appellate Session of Superior Court.

District of Columbia--Superior Court--Total cases--Between 1978 and 1979, most of the traffic jurisdiction of this court was transferred to an administrative agency.

Illinois--Circuit Court--Total cases--In 1978, the court started to include the number of parking tickets filed in Cook County in its caseload.

New York--Supreme Court and County Court--Total cases and civil --Starting in 1978, the court did not include uncontested matrimonial cases as a part of the data it reported.

Rhode Island--District Court--Total cases--These figures include only those traffic cases handled in the court. The remainder are handled by the Administrative Adjudication Division of the State Department of Transportation.

Wisconsin--The County Court was abolished and its jurisdiction was transferred to the Circuit Court in 1979.

TABLE 48:
Number and percent change in filed cases (total, civil, criminal, and juvenile cases) year to year and for 10-year period for trial courts, 1970-1979
Trial courts reporting five or more years of cases filed data. (continued)

Note: All available data are included in the table. Blank spaces indicate that data were not available. The courts listed in this table represent those courts which reported five or more years of cases filed data.

-- = Not applicable.

The missing data for Utah in 1974 was a result of a change from fiscal to calendar year reporting.

cCourt jurisdiction:

Connecticut--In 1979, the Court of Common Pleas and the Juvenile Court were abolished and their jurisdiction was transferred to the Superior Court.
Kansas--District Court--In the middle of the 1977 court year, all the trial courts in Kansas except the Municipal Court were consolidated. The full impact of the consolidation is reflected in the data given in 1978.
Missouri--Circuit Court--In 1979, all seven trial courts in Missouri were combined into the Circuit Court.

iData are not complete:

Arizona--Superior Court-- Civil --Data footnoted contained incomplete figures for mental health cases in 1976 and adoption in 1978 and 1979.
Total cases--In addition to the civil data missing as explained above, incomplete data were reported for juvenile cases for two court locations in all years but 1975.
Arkansas--Court of Common Pleas--Total cases and civil --No data were reported for two court locations in 1977 or one location in 1978.
California--Superior Court--One court location did not report data for six months of 1979.
Colorado--Denver Probate Court--Total cases and civil cases--No estate data were available for three months of 1977.
Delaware--Court of Common Pleas--(1978 only)--Other civil miscellaneous cases are missing from the data reported by the court located in New Castle County for six months.
Kansas--District Court--(1978 only)--Figures do not include other estate cases.
Maryland--Circuit Court--Figures for total cases do not include sentence review only cases.
Criminal cases do not include sentence review only cases or adult offenses against juveniles.
Michigan--Circuit Court--In 1978 no data were available for one court, six other courts reported total cases filed only. Three courts reported no data for 1979.
Minnesota--District Court--No data were available for juvenile cases filed in this court.
New Mexico--District Court--Total cases--No juvenile data were available for 1977.
New York--Family Court--No data were reported for one court location in 1978. In 1979, no data were reported for December by one court.
North Dakota--Circuit Court-- juvenile --Figure given for 1978 does not include other juvenile cases filed and therefore is not comparable to the other juvenile data given for this court on the table.
South Dakota--Circuit Court-- juvenile --Figure given for 1978 does not include other juvenile cases filed and therefore is not comparable to the other juvenile data given this court on this table.
Vermont--Superior Court and District Court--Total cases and criminal --Figures for 1979 for criminal cases for these courts do not include sentence review only cases, jurisdiction recently added to these courts.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Colorado--District Court and Denver Superior and Juvenile Courts--Post Judgment actions on civil adoption, paternity, and support cases are included in the juvenile caseload figures.
Rhode Island--District Court-- criminal --Also included in these figures are the traffic cases handled by the court.

kAdditional information:

Alabama--Circuit Court--Total cases--This court was given jurisdiction over juvenile cases in 1978.
Connecticut--Superior Court--No data are included for cases disposed by the Appellate Session of Superior Court.
District of Columbia--Superior Court--Total cases--Between 1978 and 1979, most of the traffic jurisdiction of this court was transferred to an administrative agency.
Illinois--Circuit Court--Total cases--In 1978, the court started to include the number of parking tickets filed in Cook County in its caseload.
New York--Supreme Court and County Court--Total cases and civil --Starting in 1978, the court did not include uncontested matrimonial cases as a part of the data it reported.
Rhode Island--District Court--Total cases--These figures include only those traffic cases handled in the court. The remainder are handled by the Administrative Adjudication Division of the State Department of Transportation.
Wisconsin--The County Court was abolished and its jurisdiction was transferred to the Circuit Court in 1979.

Part II State court statistical profiles

The following section begins with blank prototypes of the three different types of tables that make up the profile of the court system of each state. The first prototype is a diagram depicting the organization of the courts within a state, including number of judges and number of courts, their jurisdictions and routes of appeal. The second and third prototype tables provide the reader with an outline of the case categories into which actual data from appellate and trial courts have been classified.

Following the blank prototypes are the state statistical profiles, which contain the actual court caseload statistics. State profiles are arranged in alphabetical order by state name with the organization chart for the state court system presented first, followed by the statistical profiles for the court(s) of last resort, intermediate appellate court(s) (if any), general jurisdiction court(s), and limited or special jurisdiction court(s) (if any).

The statistical profile for each court is the basic source document used in compiling the summary tables in Part I. Along with the name of the court, the level of the court, the number of court divisions, the number of judges, and the time span covered by the data, each profile shows the actual caseload data reported by that court.

Data are classified into the general categories chosen by the NCSP as being most representative of the kinds of data reported by the states. For example, a divorce action reported by a trial court is displayed as a "marriage dissolution" case under the general heading of "domestic relations" for "civil" caseload. CSIM classifications are shown in the prototypes and appear in boldface on the statistical profiles.

Footnotes are used in these statistical profiles to explain any peculiarities regarding the data as reported by each court and to qualify data, as necessary, when transferred from the statistical profiles to the summary tables in Part I. Standard footnote headings, as indicated on the prototypes, have been adopted for use in this report and will continue to be used in the annual report series. These standard headings give the subject matter of the footnote. If further explanation is needed, informational statements are provided on the profiles under the standard footnote heading.

In Part II the source of data is indicated at the bottom of each state court profile. A complete listing of sources is included in Appendix B.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Petitions for writ of certiorari granted are not counted as disposed until the resulting appeal is disposed; a filing is not counted for the resulting appeal. These numbers of granted petitions for writ of certiorari are the figures appearing in the parentheses.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

The figure given for the number of appeals disposed represents the number of opinions written during the year.

Miscellaneous matters include prisoner petitions and requests to take the Bar Exam.

^kAdditional information:

Data are given on this profile only for cases already under submission. All cases submitted to the court are decided within the term year.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.
-- = Not applicable.

gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

During the year, a number of cases are reclassified, for example, a criminal appeal may become a sentence review only case, and other cases, originally improperly classified, are corrected. The transfers between case categories account for the discrepancies in caseload.

hFigure was computed:

"Publication date to mandate" mean figure equals "notice of appeal to mandate" minus "notice of appeal to opinion publication."

"Hearing or submission to opinion publication" mean figure for time interval data equals the "hearing or submission to circulating draft opinion" plus "circulating draft opinion to opinion publication."

"Notice of appeal to opinion publication" is the sum of four major subcategories.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Filed figures include cases filed and reinstated.

The number of civil and criminal appeals filed includes cross appeals filed.

Juvenile appeals relating to dependency are included with the civil appeals.

Juvenile appeals relating to criminal-type offenses are included with the criminal appeals category.

nInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:

The analysis of time periods for disposition of appeals was done for 139 civil appeals, 107 criminal appeals, and 38 sentence review only cases, which together comprised all cases closed by opinion and mandate during 1979.

Source: Administrative Director of the Courts, Alaska Court System, 1979 Annual Report (Anchorage, Alaska: 1980); and the Annual Statistical Report of the clerk of the Supreme Court entitled "Annual Statistical Report 1979." N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

-- = Not applicable.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of indictments or complaints. Some occur after preliminary hearings in District Court.

A trial is counted if tried to judgment.

gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Figures are as given in the annual report.

hFigure was computed:

Filing data for civil case categories were estimated, based on the total probate filing figures and the percentages of the totals that each case category represented given in the annual report.

The juvenile filing figure for each category was calculated by multiplying the percent of formal petitions for each category by the total number of formal petitions.

iData are not complete:

Criminal total pending figures include only felony cases.

Grand total pending figures include only civil and felony cases.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

The state annual report indicates that a majority of the domestic relations "other" cases are reciprocal support cases.

kSpecial source or revision in the data:

The number of other criminal cases disposed was supplied by the administrative office of the court during data verification.

mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

Civil jury trial and civil disposition data are for all civil categories except domestic relations and probate. Civil non-jury trials also include domestic relations (divorce, reciprocal support) cases.

The "domestic relations" category does not include adoption cases.

The "probate" category includes all estate, mental health, and adoption cases.

The "other civil" category includes tort, contract, real property rights, appeal, and other civil cases.

nInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:

Age at disposition and age of pending data are given for the following categories as listed in the annual report:

Domestic relations -- divorce, dissolution of marriage, and other.

Probate -- estates, guardianship, probate waiver, protective, other, adoption, and sanity.

Other civil -- civil damage; debts, contracts, and notes; housing, real estate; administrative review; and other.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of indictments or complaints.

A trial is counted if tried to judgment.

gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Figures are as reported in the annual report. The end pending figure for preliminary hearings does not include those cases out on warrants.

hFigure was computed:

Misdemeanor and "misdemeanor traffic" filing figures were estimated using the total filing figures given for the two case categories together and the percentage of the total each represented given in the annual report. There were 19,241 misdemeanor and misdemeanor traffic filings.

There were 18,827 misdemeanor and misdemeanor traffic dispositions.

iData are not complete:

Grand total pending figures include all data except other criminal, other criminal--traffic informal complaint, and other traffic cases.

jSpecial source or revision in the data:

The number of other criminal cases disposed was provided by the administrative office of the court during data verification.

mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

Civil type of disposition data do not include dispositions of small claims cases.

Misdemeanor type of disposition data include misdemeanor traffic cases.

Traffic trial and type of disposition data only include "other traffic" cases.

nInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:

Misdemeanor age at disposition is measured from first appearance to dismissal, acquittal, or sentencing. The misdemeanor category for time interval and age of pending data includes misdemeanor traffic cases.

Traffic time interval data only include "other traffic" cases.

Age of pending caseload data were not available for "all other civil" cases in the same time period breakdowns as were available for all other case categories.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Appeals (civil, criminal, and delayed) filed include cases transferred in from the Arizona Court of Appeals. Ninety-three appeals were transferred from the Court of Appeals during 1979. Special actions include mandamus, prohibition, and quo warranto cases from Division One of the Court of Appeals. The Supreme Court has handled these cases for Division One since 1975 in order to help it catch up with its backlog. Petitions for review are requests for review of Court of Appeals cases (or portions thereof) that are heard as a matter of right. They are not necessarily processed as a regular appeal. Miscellaneous special actions are instituted by indigent prisoners for redress of grievances arising out of their convictions or restraint. There is no constitutional or statutory provision which prescribes this type of case.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court but the data are unavailable.

-- = Not applicable.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or indictment.

A jury trial is counted when the voir dire examination of the panel begins.

A non-jury trial is counted when the first witness is sworn.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year.

A caseload inventory was conducted in the Superior Court during January, 1979. Adjustments, based on the findings of the inventory, were made to the beginning pending figures reported for the 1979 court year.

iData are not complete:

Adoption total domestic relations, total civil, and grand total figures do not include adoption data for Maricopa County.

Juvenile filing, dispositions, and pending data do not include data from Maricopa or Yuma Counties.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Filings include cases transferred in.

Dispositions include cases transferred out.

Civil cases include prayer under $1,000, auto tort, non-auto tort, contract, eminent domain, unclassified civil, and appeal cases.

Mental health cases disposed are the number of civil (549) and criminal (512) mental health hearings held.

Civil appeals are included with data classified in the law category.

Unclassified criminal cases are offenses which do not come under any of the other criminal case categories listed, for example, peace bond complaints.

mInformation on type of disposition or trial data:

Figures given for criminal cases disposed while a jury or non-jury trial was in process are also included in the courts of the number of criminal jury and non-jury trials held. Trials are counted at their beginning, but not all continue to verdict.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Petitions for hearings granted are not counted as a disposed petition until the resulting appeal or original proceeding is disposed; a filing is not counted for the appeal or original proceeding. These granted petitions are the numbers appearing in parentheses.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

 Direct criminal appeals are capital (death penalty) cases only.

 When an attorney files a petition for a writ of review in the Supreme Court, the disciplinary matter is docketed as a civil original proceeding, and the case is reflected both in the filings and, when decided, in the dispositions. Petitions for a writ of review were filed in 2 of the 90 disciplinary matters and petitions to set aside or stay suspension were filed in 11 of the cases.

 Requests to appeal are petitions for hearing cases previously decided by the Courts of Appeal.

lSpecial source or revision in the data;

 Figures for civil and criminal original jurisdiction cases disposed and the number of executive clemency applications filed were supplied by the administrative office of the court during data verification.

mInformation on disposition type or trial data;

 Disposition of appeals data include only criminal appeals terminated by written opinion.

^aCourt jurisdiction:

The Appellate Session of Superior Court was established by statute in 1974. In previous editions of this State Court Caseload Statistics: Annual Report series it was classified as part of the general jurisdiction trial court and its caseload data were given on that court's statistical profile. Starting in 1979, it has been reclassified as an intermediate appellate court and its caseload data presented on a separate court profile.

b Particular court or reporting system information:
 On July 1, 1978, the Court of Common Pleas and the Juvenile Court were unified with the Superior Court. As a result, data reported for 1979 for this court are not comparable to those reported from previous years.

Starting with this profile, data from the Appellate Session of Superior Court are given in a separate profile as an intermediate appellate court. These data were included in the Superior Court profile in previous years.

d Case definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or indictment.

A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.

A non-jury trial is counted when the first witness is sworn.

f Beginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:

Figures reported were affected by the consolidation of the courts that occurred during 1979.

Figures are given as in the reports.

g Change in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Pending figures are given for active cases only. There was no information available on the number of cases transferred from active to inactive status or from inactive to active status during the year, resulting in the imbalance.

Civil cases include corporate cases, equity, real property disputes (boundaries and title), commercial matters, contractual matters, Delaware's "Sunshine Law," etc. Corporate matters take up most of the time.

kAdditional information:

This profile does not include referrals to the Public Guardian. The Public Guardian refers cases to the Court of Chancery if he thinks a guardianship may be necessary. In the fiscal year 1978-79 there were 79 beginning pending, 119 filed, 110 disposed, and 88 end pending cases for the Public Guardian. The 119 filed cases were 8 guardianships and 111 investigations.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information, indictment, transfer, appeal, or reinstatement. A defendant with a consecutively numbered series of information, appeals, or transfers filed on the same day is counted as one defendant.

A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.

A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Involuntary commitment proceedings are held only in New Castle County.

Criminal case figures include appeals that are tried de novo except for filings, which can be separated into new filings and appeals.

kAdditional information:

The number of pending criminal defendants displayed includes those which are triable and not triable.

In addition to the criminal case dispositions listed there were also 257 unindicted criminal cases disposed by nolle prosequi. These cases were not counted with the other criminal dispositions because these cases were never actually before the Superior Court. The cases had been bound over to Superior Court either because probable cause was found at the preliminary hearing, or because the preliminary hearing was waived, but either the Attorney General then decided not to seek indictment, or the grand jury ignored the indictment.

The trial information counts the number of trials held. More than one defendant's case may be disposed of by a single trial. There were 280 defendants whose cases were disposed of by jury trial, and 50 whose cases were disposed of by non-jury trial.

mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

Only law and real property rights cases are tried in this court.

nInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:

Arrest to disposition times include all defendants.

Indictment to disposition times include indicted defendants only.

Median time values were calculated using the grouped medians method.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

^cJudge information:

In addition to the aldermen and mayor serving this court, there are also 1 deputy, 3 assistant, and positions for 2 alternate aldermen, one of which was vacant during 1979.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of charges.

^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Difference is due to the various sources of missing data listed below.

ⁱData are not complete:

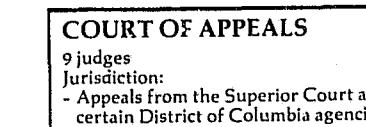

No filing or pending data were available for the courts in Newport, Harrington, Bridgeville, and Ocean View. The court in Newark did not report any pending data.

Civil disposed and grand total disposed figures do not include data from August 1978 through December 1978 for the Harrington Alderman's Court.

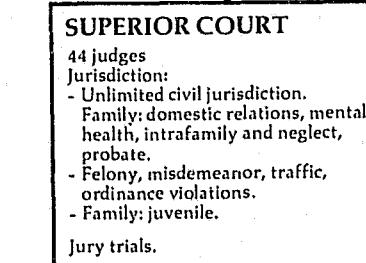

No data were available for criminal and traffic dispositions for November and December 1978 and March 1979 for the Blades Alderman's Court. Pending and filed figures for the court in Rehoboth Beach were not divided into criminal and traffic cases. These cases were included in the grand total figures reported (17 beginning pending, 1,514 filed, and 29 end pending) but are not included in either the criminal or traffic totals.

jData are not complete:

The total original proceedings disposed figure does not include special proceedings cases.

Disciplinary cases are not included in the total cases pending figures.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Total appeals figures include appeals and petitions for review cases.

"Special proceedings" include mandamus, prohibition, extradition, habeas corpus, contempt, and mental health cases. Formerly the majority of these cases were categorized under criminal appeals.

lSpecial source or revision in the data:

Beginning and end pending figures for total cases and other figures as footnoted were provided by the administrative office of the court during data verification.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.
N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.
-- = Not applicable.

aCourt jurisdiction:

Superior Court data are displayed according to case types, not court divisions as they exist in the Superior Court. Civil Division handles civil jury, civil non-jury, small claims, and landlord and tenant cases. Family Division handles divorce, adoption, paternity, support, reciprocal support, intrafamily, judicial petitions, habeas corpus, delinquency, neglect, and person in need of supervision cases. Probate Division handles decedent's estates and minor's estates cases. Tax Division handles civil tax and criminal tax cases. Criminal Division handles all criminal and traffic cases.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted when it is placed on the calendar (has reached issue).
The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information, indictment, or complaint.
A jury trial is counted if tried to verdict.
A non-jury trial is counted if tried to decision.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year.
The difference is due to adjustments made by the administrative office of the court.gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

There was a correction of -8 cases made to the juvenile criminal-type offense caseload data during the year.

hFigure was computed:

iData are not complete:

No data were available for the number of nonjury trials conducted for small claims cases. As a result, nonjury and total trial figures for total civil and total cases are not complete.
No breakdown was available for the outcome of non-jury trials for criminal ordinance violations cases. The total breakdown of the result of criminal non-jury trials is therefore not complete.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

The business of the auditor-master division includes fiduciary accounts, orders of reference, and inventories.
Special proceedings include fugitive from justice complaints, writs of habeas corpus, extradition of out of state witnesses, adversary hearings, and show cause of contempt proceedings.

Criminal and traffic cases filed include new filings and reinstated cases.

kAdditional information:

Information on the beginning pending figure for landlord and tenant cases reflects a change in administrative policy. Beginning in 1978, pending cases reported include all undisposed cases. Prior to 1978, practice was to reflect as pending only those cases for which trial had been set.

Starting in 1979, most minor traffic violations were transferred to the Department of Transportation.

lSpecial source or revision in the data:

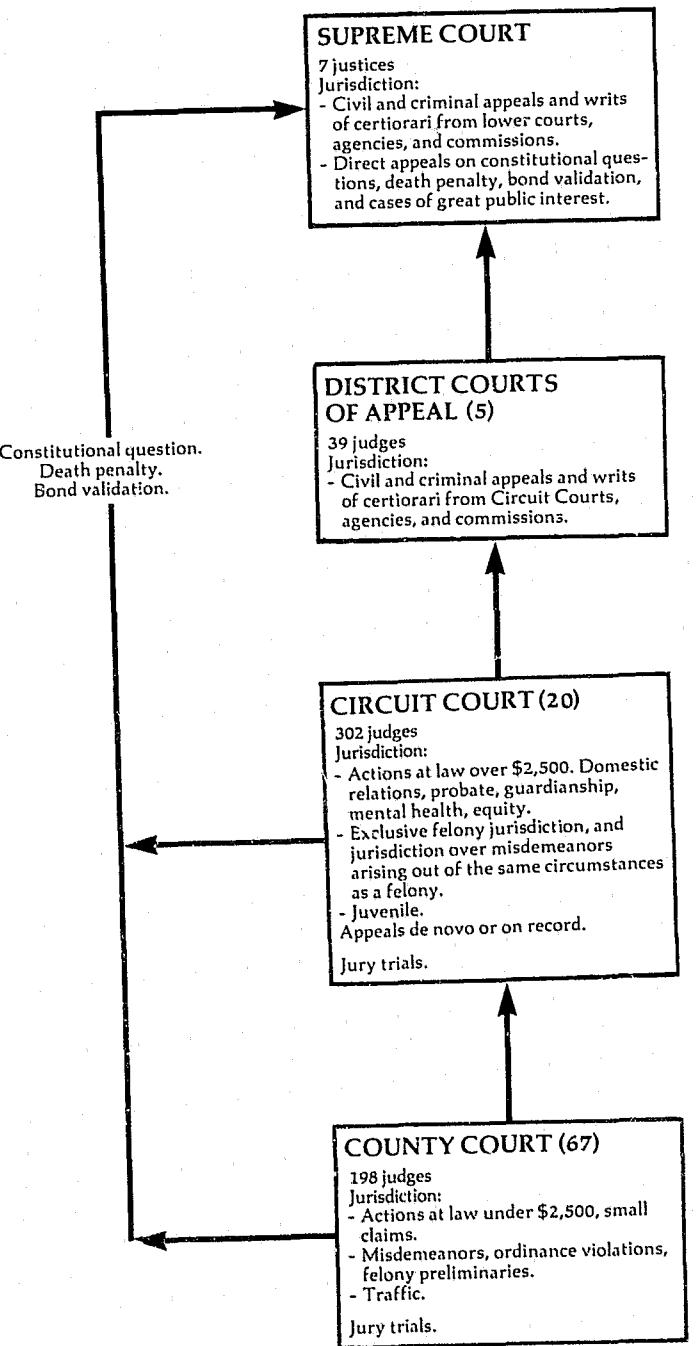

These figures were provided by the staff of the Executive Officer during data verification.

mDisposition type or trial data:

Other traffic dispositions are defendants whose cases are in the traffic summons stage in accordance with procedures outlined in the Traffic Violation Notice System.

Source: Joint Committee on Judicial Administration in the District of Columbia and Executive Officer, 1979 Annual Report (Washington, D.C.). Statistics are from the annual report except that totals have been computed where necessary, and additional information was provided by the staff of the Executive Officer during data verification.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.

eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Requests to appeal granted are not counted as disposed until the resulting appeals are disposed; similarly the resulting appeals are not counted as new filing. These granted requests to appeal are the numbers appearing in parentheses in the profile.

mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

These 646 opinions were written during the 1979 court year which ran from September 1978 to August 1979. The remaining data on this profile covers the fiscal year. Since more than one case may be decided by one opinion, the number of cases decided may be somewhat greater than the number of opinions.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.

cJudge information:

Superior Court judges handle juvenile cases in those counties without independent Juvenile Court judges. These cases are included on the Juvenile Court statistical profile.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of dockets per the indictment or accusation.

A jury trial is counted if tried to verdict.

A non-jury trial is counted if tried to decision.

gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Figures are as given by the annual report and the administrative office of the court.

lSpecial source or revision in data:

End pending figures, and other civil dispositions were obtained from the AOC during verification.

mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

"Dead docket" refers to criminal or traffic cases which were placed on inactive status.

Trial and disposition category figures do not equal total dispositions for criminal and traffic cases as a result of the use of differing counting units. Figures for trials and types of dispositions for criminal and traffic cases are given by the number of counts involved.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted by docket entries (suits, petitions, complaints, motions, etc.).
The criminal case unit of count is the number of indictments or accusations.

A jury trial is counted if tried to verdict.

A non-jury trial is counted if tried to decision.

iData are not complete:

Filed and disposed figures do not include the State Court located in DeKalb County.

mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

"Dead docket" refers to criminal or traffic cases which were put on inactive status.

Trial and disposition category figures do not equal total dispositions for civil, criminal, and traffic cases as a result of the use of differing counting methods. Figures for criminal trials and type of disposition are given by the number of counts involved.

^aCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Petitions for leave to appeal, Rule 302(b) motions, and original action motions are counted as requests to appeal or original proceedings filings; when denied, a disposition is counted; when granted, the case becomes an appeal or original proceeding, but a new filing is not counted. When the appeal or original proceeding is concluded, a disposition is counted. The granted petitions and motions are the numbers appearing in parentheses.

cJudge information:

Associate judges may hear all matters except criminal trials in which the defendant is charged with an offense punishable by more than one year imprisonment.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count for caseload data is the number of informations, indictments, or complaints. The criminal unit of count for trial and type of disposition data is the number of defendants.

fBeginning figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:

Figures are as given in the annual report.

gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Figures were adjusted by reason of a physical inventory.

hFigure was computed:

The beginning pending figure for probate was calculated from filed, disposed, and end pending figures given in the annual report.

iData are not complete:

Misdemeanors and grand total pending figures do not include data for non-suburban Cook County, or any conservation violations. The end pending figures do include misdemeanors pending in the City of Chicago.

Criminal total pendings do not include pending cases for conservation violations, or ordinance violations. The beginning pending figure does not include misdemeanors pending in the City of Chicago.

Grand total pendings do not include pending cases for conservation violations, ordinance violations, and traffic cases.

jExplanation of data in the category:
 Filed includes cases that have been reinstated and transferred in and transferred out of the court's jurisdiction. Cases reinstated or transferred in are added to the original filings, while cases transferred out are subtracted. Postjudgment and posttermination matters are not included.

Misdemeanor cases include ordinance violations, conservation violations and preliminary hearings in felony cases in the Circuit Court of Cook County.

mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

Criminal trials and criminal dispositions are for felony cases only. Trials in which the defendant was found guilty of a reduced charge were not included in the trial data, but are included in the total "convicted of included misdemeanor" figure.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations, indictments, or complaints.

A trial is counted if tried to verdict or decision.

^fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:

Figures are given as calculated from data contained in the annual report.

^gFigure was computed:

Beginning pending figure was computed from filings, dispositions, and end pending data.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

"Other" category includes all matters adjudicated in the court that have not been specifically listed. These include probable cause hearings, petitions for writs of habeas corpus, commitment proceedings, and waiver hearings. It was determined from the data that many of these were probable cause cases in the County Courts.

^kAdditional information:

Three-hundred-one of the filed cases were "venued in."

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

"Other" trials include data for trials in traffic and preliminary hearing cases.

ⁱData are not complete:

Total appeals pending data do not include civil appeals, postconviction remedy, or appeal of administrative agency cases.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Civil appeals disposed and pending figures include direct civil appeals, original proceedings, and requests to appeal arising out of civil cases. Disciplinary cases are included in civil appeals under filed and pending.

Criminal appeals disposed and pending figures include both direct criminal appeals and original proceedings arising out of criminal cases.

^kAdditional information:

Cases transferred to the Court of Appeals by the Supreme Court are not included in cases listed as disposed prior to formal submission to the court.

Boldface headings indicate the classifications used by the CSIM project.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court but the data are unavailable.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

-- = Not applicable.

cJudge information:

Data include cases handled by 92 district and 13 district associate judges, 17 regular full-time, 9 substitute full-time, and 166 part-time magistrates.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations or indictments.

A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.

A non-jury trial (contested) is counted when the first witness is sworn.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:

The disparity between these figures is due to inventory corrections.

gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Figures are as reported in the annual report.

hFigure was computed:

Beginning pending figure was computed from filed, disposed, and end pending data.

Time interval data were estimated from percentages given in the annual report.

iData are not complete:

Estate, total civil, and grand total disposed figures do not include guardianship and conservatorship, or trusteeship.

Total civil pending does not include estate data.

Grand total pending does not include estate or juvenile data.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Small claims total includes cases handled by the clerk. The cases are not listed as filed or pending in the "by clerk" category because the cases are filed as regular cases and not as cases to be specifically disposed by the clerk.

Regular criminal cases handled by the district judges include felonies and appeals.

Felony pending is the total for all regular criminal categories (felony, appeal, indictable misdemeanor).

Misdemeanor (regular criminal) pending cases are included in the felony (regular criminal) data.

kAdditional information:

Other domestic relations and juvenile cases disposed represent the number of cases closed by formal hearing.

Estate, guardianship and conservatorship, trusteeship, and regular criminal (felony) cases are handled by district judges only.

Formal hearings were held in 239 of the 13,027 preliminary hearing cases disposed by associate judges and regular magistrates.

Nonindictable state and nonindictable ordinance cases are handled by district associate judges, regular full-time, substitute full-time, and part-time magistrates.

In addition to the total criminal cases disposed, there were 685 search warrants, 607 seized property hearings, and 129 miscellaneous actions handled by district associate judges, regular full-time magistrates and substitute full-time magistrates, and 587 search warrants, and 351 seized property hearings and 422 miscellaneous actions handled by part-time magistrates.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

-- = Not applicable.

^aCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted at the filing of a petition or complaint. Appeals are filed in categories according to the nature of the case. The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations, indictments, or complaints.

A jury trial is counted when the jury is impaneled.

A non-jury trial is counted if the case is contested (an attorney appears in opposition).

^bBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:

Figures are as given in the annual report.

^cData are not complete:

Domestic relations pending and disposed figures do not include adoption cases.

Total estate, total civil, and grand total filed figures do not include other estate cases.

Total civil pending figures do not include small claims, adoptions, mental health, or estate cases.

Total civil and grand total disposed figures do not include small claims, adoption, or mental health cases.

Grand total pending figures do not include small claims, adoption, mental health, estate, traffic, or juvenile cases.

^dExplanation of data included in the category:

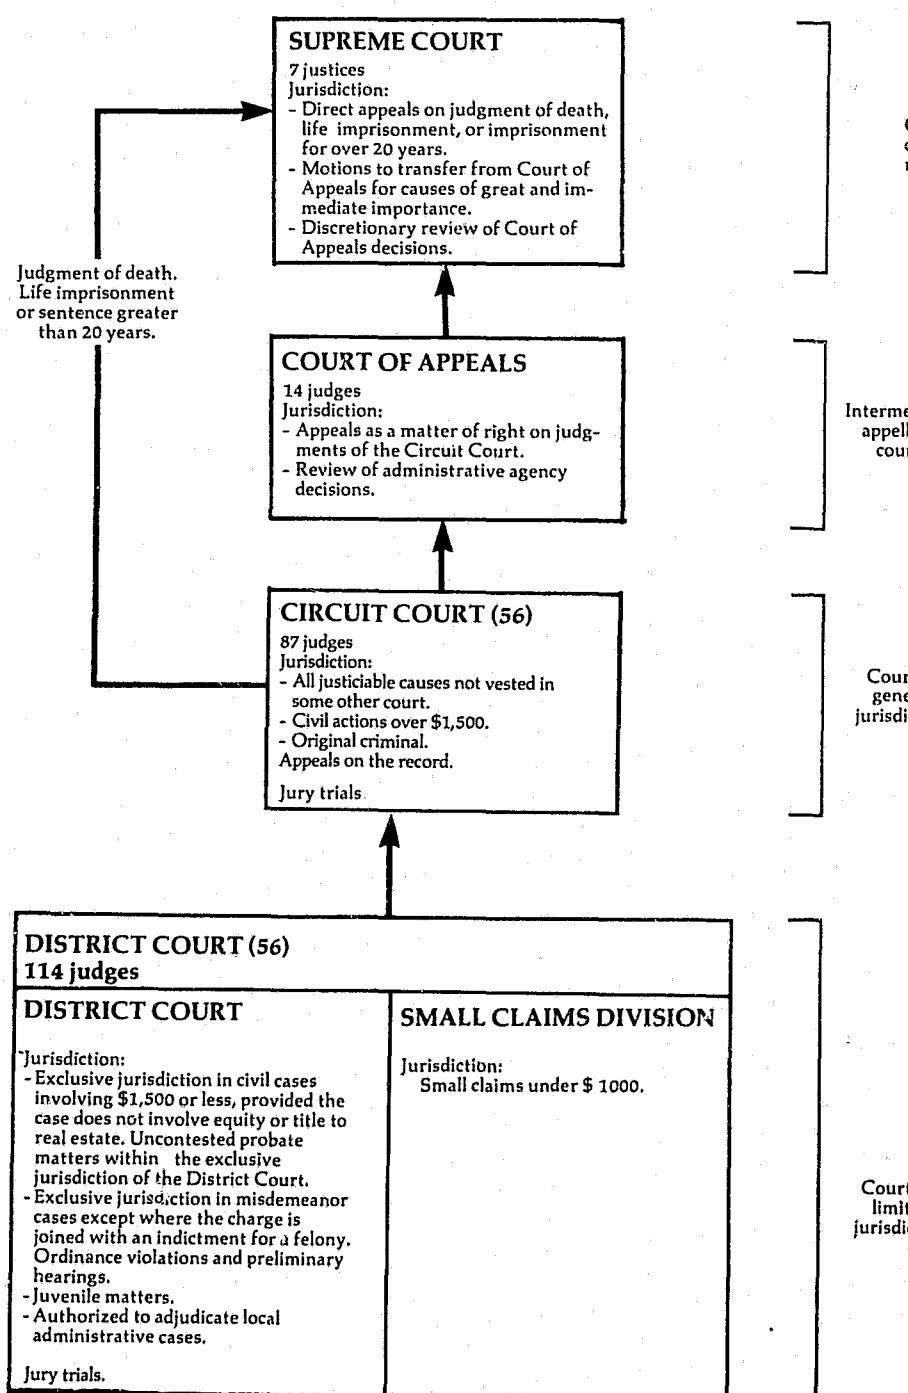

Pending and disposed misdemeanors include criminal appeals.

Fileings include original actions and retrials/reinstatements.

Civil cases are divided into three major groupings in the Kansas Annual Report: domestic relations, regular actions, and limited actions (Chapter 61 cases). Regular and limited actions cases include contract, tort, real property rights, civil appeals, extraordinary writs, and other civil cases. They are distinguished from each other by the amount demanded in the suit. There were 17,156 regular civil cases filed and 15,282 disposed during the 1979 court year. The same elements for limited actions were 33,956 and 30,518.

bParticular court or reporting system information:

The court changed its reporting period from the calendar year to the fiscal year, starting with this report. As a result, there is a six month overlap between data reported here and those contained in the 1978 edition of this report.

eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Motions for transfer and motions for discretionary review granted are not counted as disposed until the appeal is disposed; a filing is not counted for the resulting appeal. These granted petitions are the numbers appearing in parentheses.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:
Between 1978 and 1979 the court changed its reporting period from the calendar year to the fiscal year. As a result, the beginning pending data reported here do not match the end pending data contained in the 1978 edition of this report.

iData are not complete:

Figures for total other cases pending do not include original action cases.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Pending original actions are included with the pending appeal cases.

kAdditional information:

Bar Association filings included 37 disciplinary actions and 53 other matters; dispositions included 28 disciplinary actions and 44 other matters.

lSpecial source or revision in the data:

Footnote figures were provided by the Clerk of the Court, who also furnishes these data to the Kentucky Administrative Office of the Courts.

aCourt jurisdiction:

The court hears civil appeals only.

cJudge information:

One retired judge was also assigned to hear cases in the Fourth Circuit of the Courts of Appeal.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year.

Figures are as given in the annual report.

gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Figures are as given in the annual report.

hFigure was computed:

Time interval data for total civil cases were computed by weighting the average for law and for equity cases by the number of cases tried or disposed of each type.

iData are not complete:

Criminal and grand total pending do not include sentence review only cases.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Pending figures for adult offenses against juveniles are included in the total pending for juvenile cases.

mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

The equity category for trial data includes domestic relations, equity, and foreclosure. The law category includes all other civil categories.

nInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:

The equity category for time interval data includes domestic relations, equity, and foreclosure. The law category includes all other civil categories.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information, indictment, or complaint.

A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:hFigure was computed:

The total number of traffic cases disposed was computed by adding the number of traffic cases disposed by non-jury trial and the number of cases paid.

iData are not complete:

Criminal dispositions include adult offenses against juveniles cases only.

Total disposed and pending data do not include civil or misdemeanor criminal cases.

No information was available on the number of criminal or juvenile trials conducted.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

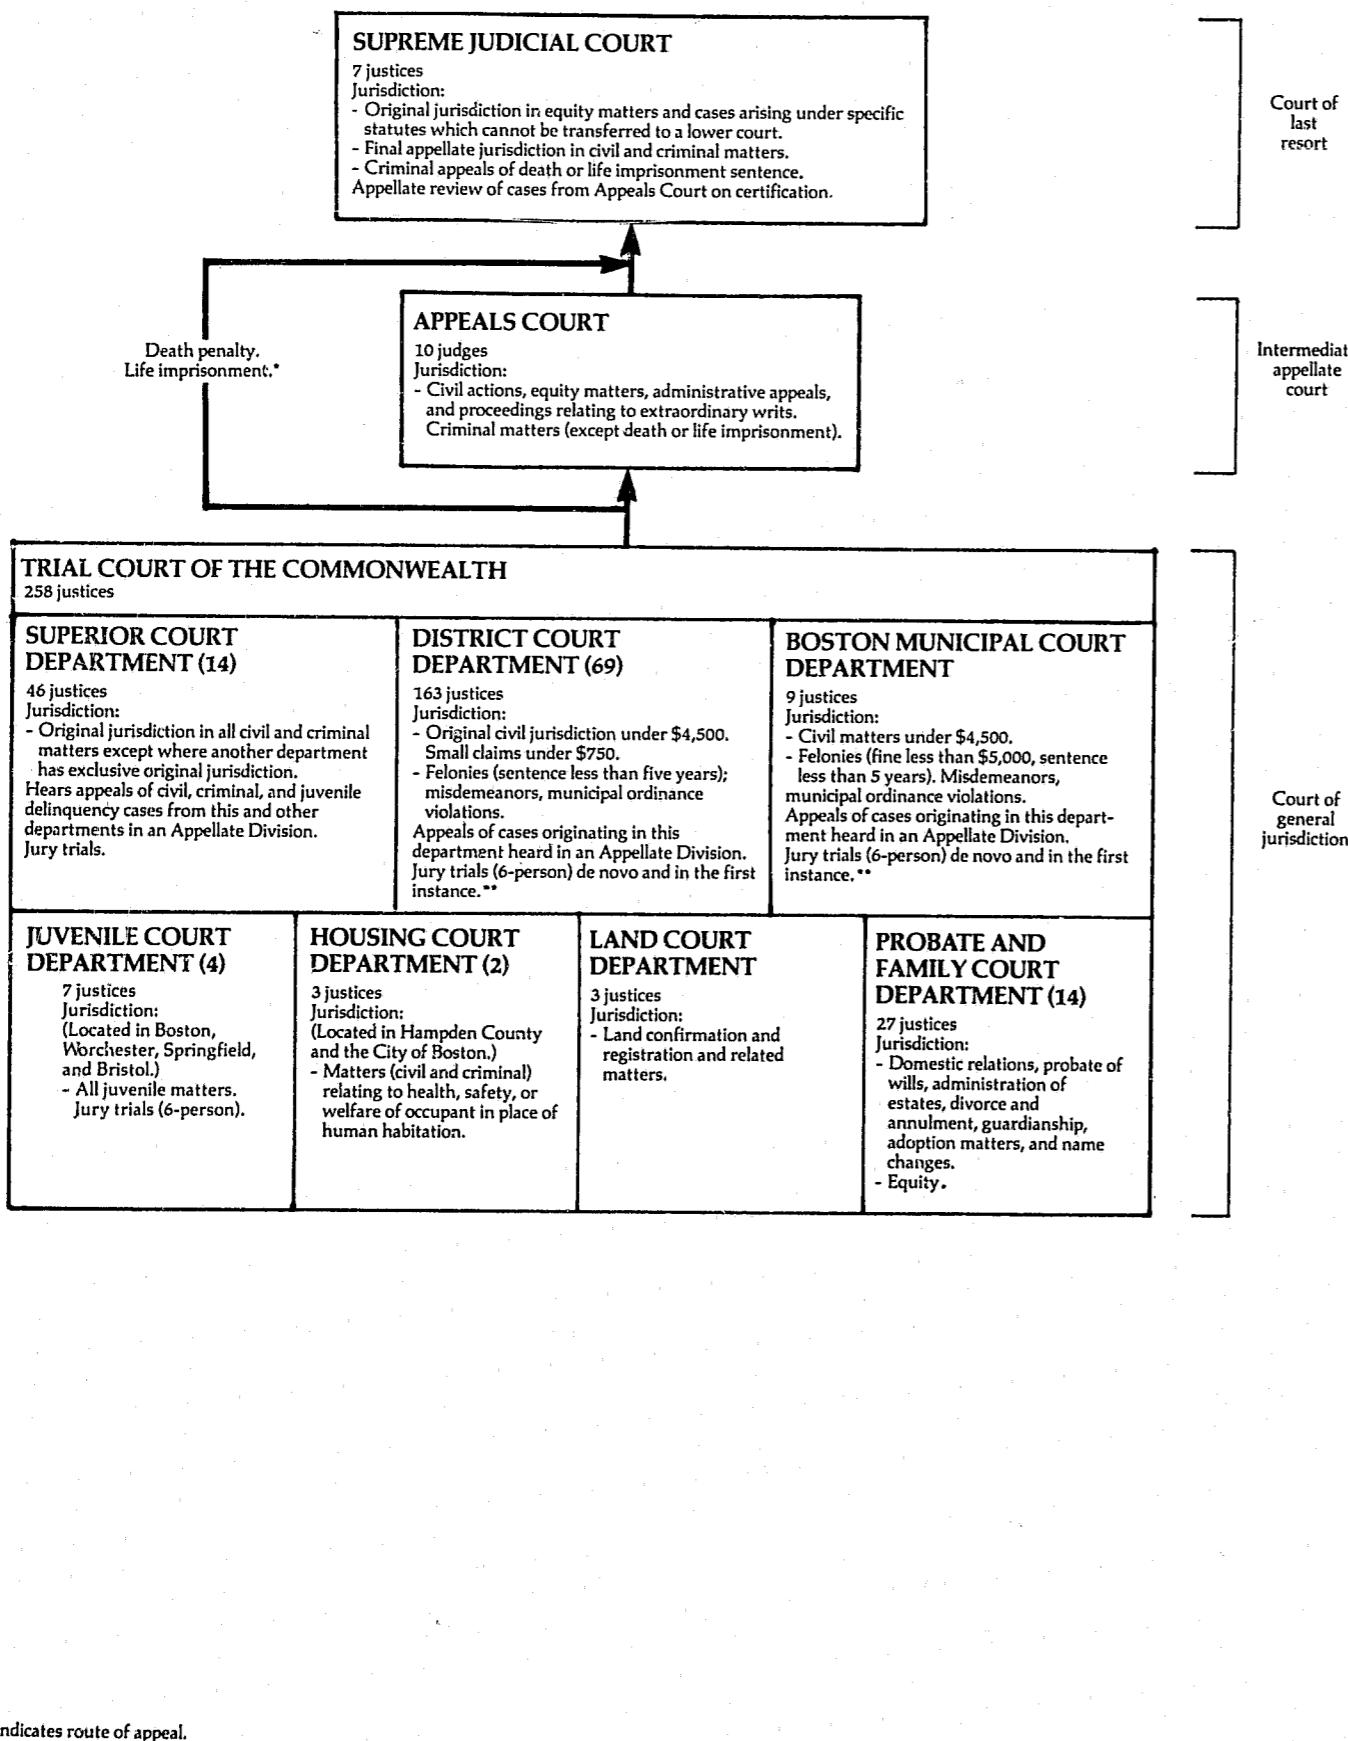

Juvenile data are cases heard in the District Court in Montgomery County only. In the remainder of the state, juvenile cases are heard in the Circuit Court. Data for juvenile cases outside Montgomery County are included on the Circuit Court profile.

dCase definition or unit of court:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information, indictment, or complaint.

A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.

A non-jury trial is counted when the first witness is sworn.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year.

In 1979, data were available for some counties that did not report in 1978. This caused the data reported as pending at the beginning of the 1979 court year to be different from those reported as pending at the end of the 1978 court year.

iData are not complete:

No caseload data available for Arenac, Jackson, or Mason Counties.

No time to disposition data were available for Arenac, Jackson, Mason, or Wayne Counties.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Criminal includes some high misdemeanors that are punishable by more than 1 year in prison.

kAdditional information:

Of tort trials, 662 trials were conducted for auto tort, 30 for products liability tort and 163 for other tort. Of domestic relations trials, 2,436 trials were conducted for marriage dissolution, 22 for support/custody and 191 for other domestic relations. Of trials of appeals, 7 trials were conducted for administrative agency appeals, 14 for appeals of trial court cases.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Figures are as given in the annual report.

hFigure was computed:

Disposition data for mental health cases were computed from pending and filing data given in the annual report. Although the annual report says no mental health cases were completely disposed of, these computed figures may be interpreted as the number of cases which went from an active to an inactive status during the year.

iData are not complete:

Numerous court locations reported incomplete data for one or more case categories as a result, no comparisons should be made among these data or between these data and data from other courts.

Total civil figures do not include any estate cases.

Grand total beginning pending figure does not include criminal-type offense or status offense cases.

Grand total end pending and disposed figures do not contain any estate, juvenile, or traffic data.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

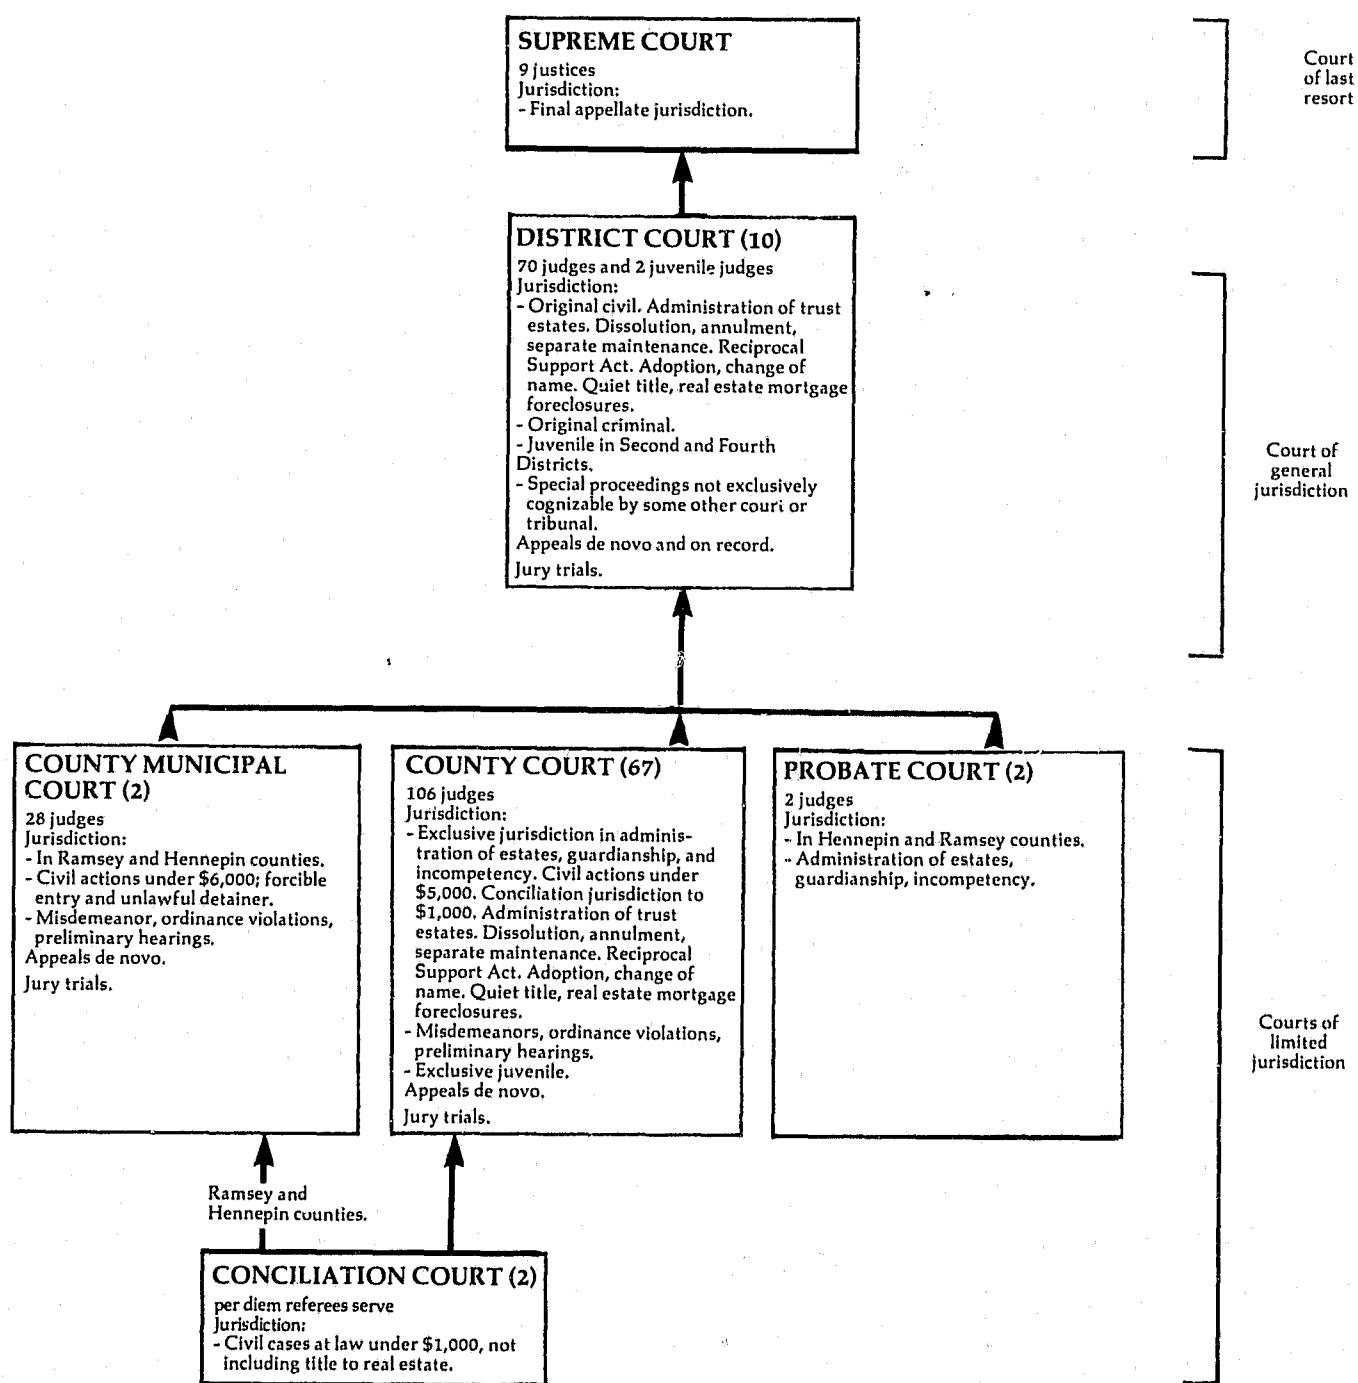

Miscellaneous civil cases include safe deposits, escheats, and delayed births.

kAdditional information:

An addition to the case categories included here, the court also issues marriage licenses and conducts marriage ceremonies.

Blank space = Not enough information is known. The case category may or may not be handled by the court.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

-- = Not applicable.

^bParticular court or reporting system information:

The court sits in 3 divisions of 3 judges each, with judges alternating among the divisions.

^hFigure was computed:

The filing figures were computed from disposed and pending data.

The number of motions disposed was computed by subtracting the number of dismissed appeals from the total number of motions given as disposed in the annual report.

ⁱData are not complete:

Civil and criminal appeal disposition figures do not include dismissals of unspecified cases.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Data for motions disposed in the manner of disposition table includes 119 unspecified appeals cases which were dismissed.

^kAdditional information:

Cases disposed by dismissal are included in the civil and criminal appeals filings, but a civil/criminal breakdown for cases dismissed is not available.

^lSpecial source or revision in the data:

Beginning pending figures for cases other than appeals were taken from the 1978 annual report where they are given as end pending figures for the 1978 court year.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

Of the 396 majority opinions deciding cases on the merits, 289 were published and 107 were unpublished. There were also 34 concurring or dissenting opinions written.

The difference is due to a continued refinement of the recordkeeping procedures in the Western District of this court.

^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

During the year, this court counted dispositions in terms of opinions written, and, since one opinion may dispose of more than one case, these figures do not balance.

^aCourt jurisdiction:

The new judicial article, implemented on January 2, 1979, provided for unification of all the trial courts (the former Court of Common Pleas, Magistrate Court, Probate Court, St. Louis Court of Criminal Correction, and Municipal Court) into the Circuit Court.

^bCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations or indictments. A filing may involve multiple defendants.

A jury or non-jury trial is counted when those cases with contested issues of fact are disposed after the presentation of evidence on the merits has started.

^cData are not complete:

No data were available for cases handled by municipal judges. Their caseloads consist primarily of ordinance violations.

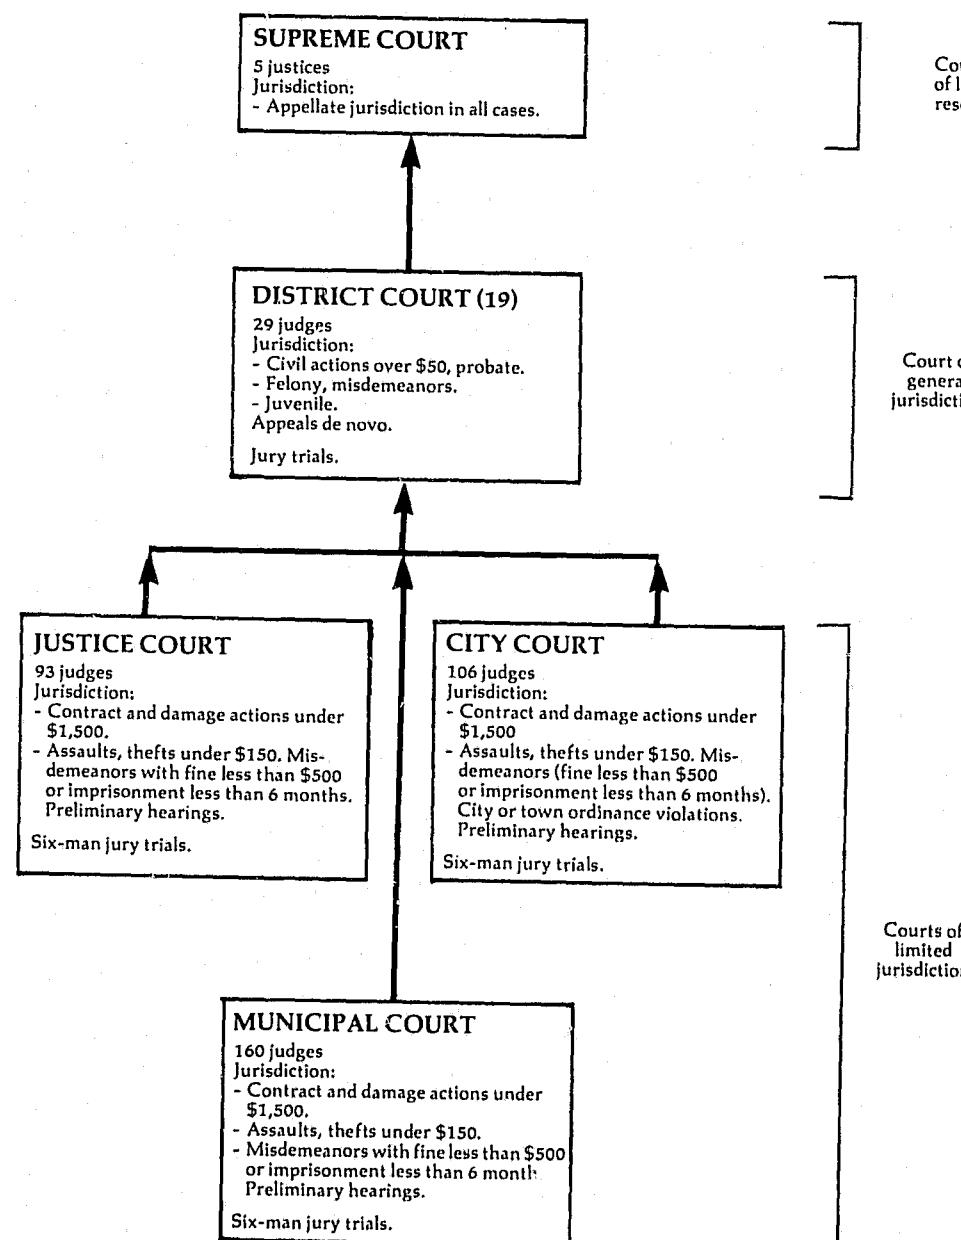

^dExplanation of data included in the category:

Felony/misdemeanor figures include municipal appeals.

Preliminary hearing disposition figures include dismissals, bind-overs, trials, and acceptance to pleas of reduced charges.

^fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:
Figures are as given in the unpublished data.

ⁱData are not complete:

 Requests to appeal are not counted statistically by the Supreme Court; the figures presented for appeals are cases docketed. There are a number of cases that the court refuses to hear. These discretionary cases, when leave to docket is denied, could be considered processed by the court, but they are not docketed or reported statistically. As a result, request to appeal cases are not included in the total cases figures given in the chart.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

 Original proceedings are included with the appeals data. There are a minimal number of original proceedings handled by the court.

A civil case is not counted in the same way throughout the state.

The criminal case unit of count is not consistent statewide.

A trial is not counted in the same way throughout the state.

Figures are as given in or as calculated from the data given in the biennial report.

^hFigure was computed:

The number of civil law cases disposed in Strafford was estimated, using data given in the biennial report.

Beginning pending figures were calculated from filing, disposition, and end pending figures given in the annual report.

The number of criminal cases pending at the end of the year was calculated by subtracting the number of civil cases pending from the total number of cases pending at the end of the year given in the biennial report.

ⁱData are not complete:

Criminal disposition data provided by the court in Strafford County were not separated into case types. Data reported for the individual criminal case types are incomplete. However, the total number of criminal cases disposed are complete.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Requests to appeal when granted are not counted as disposed until the resulting appeal is disposed; a new filing is not counted for the resulting appeal. These granted requests to appeal are the numbers appearing in parentheses.

^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Figures are given in the annual report.

^hData are not complete:

Filing and pending data for motions for direct certification and motions for leave to appeal could not be separated from other motions and other petitions data. These numbers are not included in total requests to appeal, total other cases, or total cases filed or pending figures.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Filing and pending figures for total other proceedings include motions for direct certification and motions for leave to appeal. Disposition data for these two categories are available separately and are listed on the appropriate lines under the requests to appeal heading above.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

The 93 written opinions and 35 per curiam opinions disposed of 141 appeals and 14 disciplinary matters. There were also 26 concurring, 31 dissenting, and 8 concurring in part, dissenting in part opinions written.

Blank space = Not enough information is known. The case category may or may not be handled by the court.
X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

cJudge information:

There are 22 judges authorized in this court, but 1 judge served as the acting administrative director of the courts.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:
Figures are as given in the annual report. Difference is due to adjustments made by the clerk of the court to the computerized docketing control system.

hFigure was computed:

Civil appeals filed were computed by subtracting the number of criminal appeals and appeals of administrative agency cases filed from the number of total appeals filed.

kAdditional information:

Appeals of administrative agency cases include 43 criminal appeals from state administrative agencies that are not included under criminal appeals.

Total appeals filed and disposed include 12 certifications by the Supreme Court before calendaring by the Appellate Division.

lSpecial source or revision in the data:

Age of pending caseload data were provided by the administrative office of the courts during data verification.

mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

There were also 5 concurring and 15 dissenting opinions filed.

Transfers are cases transferred to the Supreme Court by certification.

The 3,198 opinions disposed of 3,427 cases.

N/A = This casetype is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

-- = Not applicable.

^aCourt information:

The County Court was merged with the Superior Court on December 7, 1978 during this court year.

^bCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted when it is placed on the calendar (has reached issue).

The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations or indictments.

A jury trial is counted when the first juror is drawn.

A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.

This is because of recounts by the counties resulting from their periodic physical inventories and the discovery of other reporting errors by the counties during the course of the year.

ⁱData are not complete:

Total pending figures for domestic relations include pending matrimonial and uncontested adoption cases. They do not include pending contested adoption cases.

Total disposed for domestic relations includes matrimonial and uncontested adoption cases, but not contested adoption cases.

Total civil and grand total trial data do not include estate cases.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Matrimonial includes divorce, maintenance, nullity, adoption, custody, matrimonial injunctions, and miscellaneous matrimonial.

Total civil figures include data for adoption (contested) and estate cases which could not be separated into the proper categories. There were 262 of these cases pending at the beginning of the court year, 562 disposed, and 247 pending at the end of the court year.

^kAdditional information:

Of the 22,198 felony cases filed, 387 were reopened cases.

Of the 29,392 felony cases pending at the end of the court year, 6,156 were listed on inactive status, untriable for reasons beyond the control of the court or prosecutor. These include fugitives, John Does, and defendants incarcerated in another state.

^mCategories for disposition type or trial data:

Civil trials do not include uncontested matrimonial cases.

ⁿInformation on time interval or age of pending caseload data:

Time interval data are for cases in which trials commenced in the Law Division of the Superior Court during March 1979.

Age of pending data reflect active and inactive cases for equity, marriage dissolution, estate, and felony cases.

Age of pending cases data for auto tort and other tort cases are for active cases only. There were, in addition, 695 inactive other tort and 252 inactive auto tort cases.

The number of estate cases pending over 18 months is included in the 12+ to 18 months category.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Certiorari cases granted are not counted as disposed until the resulting appeals are disposed; new filings are not counted for the resulting appeals. These granted certiorari cases are the numbers appearing in parentheses.

JExplanation of data included in the category:

Habeas corpus filed includes 10 original habeas corpus cases and 84 cases from habeas corpus dockets. Habeas corpus disposed includes 12 original habeas corpus cases and 84 from the habeas corpus docket.

Rule 37 motions are prosecutors' motions for extension of time in District Court.

Rule 41 of the Rules of Criminal Procedure for Magistrates Court is a motion for extension of time.

Rule 46 motions are respondent's motions for time limits on adjudicatory hearings.

Rule 60 motions are children's court matters to expand the time limit for commencement of adjudicatory hearings.

ⁿInformation on time interval or age of pending data:
No table was prepared on notice of appeal to docketing since counsel only has 30 days to file a skeleton transcript after filing of the notice of appeal.

dCase definition or unit of count:

The criminal case unit of count for casflow is the number of defendants on the indictment or complaint. Trial data are based on the number of trials, conducted, any one of which may include more than one defendant.

A trial is counted if tried to verdict or decision.

ⁱData are not complete:

Total ordinance violation cases, total criminal, and grand total cases filed figures do not include violations cases.
 Total criminal and grand total disposed cases and type of disposition data include only misdemeanor, felony preliminary hearing, and other criminal cases.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Non-traffic summons includes all "nonarrest cases and arrest cases of peddling" where a desk appearance ticket was issued.

kAdditional information:

Criminal breakdowns for case categories given in the annual report are estimates of the volume of cases filed during the court year. The total number of cases filed is based on the actual count of cases. There was difference of 109 cases between the estimates for each case type and the actual total volume which could not be identified by case type.

There were also 68,969 warrants filed and 58,937 warrants executed by the court during the year.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year.

Figures are calculated from data given in the annual report.

gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

The sum of cases listed in the annual report as disposed and end pending was smaller than the number of cases listed as filed. Therefore 0 was entered as the beginning pending figure for this category.

hFigure was computed:

Beginning pending figure was computed from filing, disposed, and end pending data.

iData are not complete:

Data reported do not include case activity in Queens County during December. This effects the number of cases reported as filed, disposed, the type of dispositions pending at the end of the period, and the time interval data, but does not effect the beginning pending figures.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

The end pending figures include only petitions actively pending at the end of the period.

kAdditional information:

There were cases involving 95 boys and 135 girls in which no initial fact-finding hearing was held.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Petitions for discretionary review granted are not counted as disposed until the appeal is disposed; a filing is not counted for the appeal. These granted petitions are the numbers appearing in parentheses. The number of granted petitions appearing in the filed column will usually differ from the number appearing in the disposed column because petitions allowed during one term may not be docketed as appeals until the following term.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year.

The difference is due to a change in the reporting period from the calendar year to the fiscal year of September to September.

gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Pending figures are incomplete. All data are as given in the unpublished reports.

iData are not complete:

Pending data for total cases do not include requests to appeal.

jSpecial source or revision in the data:

The end pending figure was taken from the 1979-80 Annual Report where it is given us the number of cases brought forward from the Spring 1979 term.

eFigure not included in the total to avoid double counting:

The number of petitions that were granted are not counted as disposed until the resulting appeal is disposed; a new filing is not counted for the resulting appeal. The number of petitions granted are the figures appearing in parentheses in the court profile.

ⁱData are not complete:

Figures given for the number of opinions that affirmed, reversed, or affirmed in part/reversed in part do not include the opinion issued in on request to appeal petition.

Civil and criminal appeals filed include only cases from the Superior Court. Cases from the District Court could not be divided into these categories.

Total other cases disposed does not include State Bar cases.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Civil appeals figures include appeals from the Insurance Commissioner, the Industrial Commission, and the Utilities Commission, as well as civil appeals.

The number of State Bar cases disposed is included in the number of appeals disposed.

^kAdditional information:

Eight hundred-eighteen of the motions were allowed; three were remanded.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

^aCourt jurisdiction:

Estate and special proceedings cases were disposed by the clerks of the Superior Court.

^bCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is not consistent statewide. Cases are counted according to what the courts have in fact treated as cases. A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.

A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.

^cBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year.

The difference is due to a change in reporting period from calendar year to fiscal year for the court.

^dExplanation of data included in the category:

Special proceedings include such matters as petitions in foreclosure, involuntary commitments to mental hospitals, adoptions, condemnations of real property for public purposes, and incompetency of persons to manage their personal financial affairs.

^eAdditional information:

In addition to the judges serving this court, there are also 100 clerks who have the authority to dispose of estate and special proceedings cases that are handled by judges in other states. Data for cases disposed by the clerks of court are included in this profile.

^fInformation on type of disposition or trial data:

Data reported for civil voluntary dismissals were available for the last half of the reporting period only.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

--- = Not applicable.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is not consistent statewide. Cases are counted according to what the courts have in fact treated as cases. A juvenile filing is an allegation contained in a juvenile petition. Juvenile dispositions are the number of adjudicatory hearings on juvenile petitions.

A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.

A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.

fBeginning pending figures for the 1979 court year do not equal end pending figures for the 1978 court year:

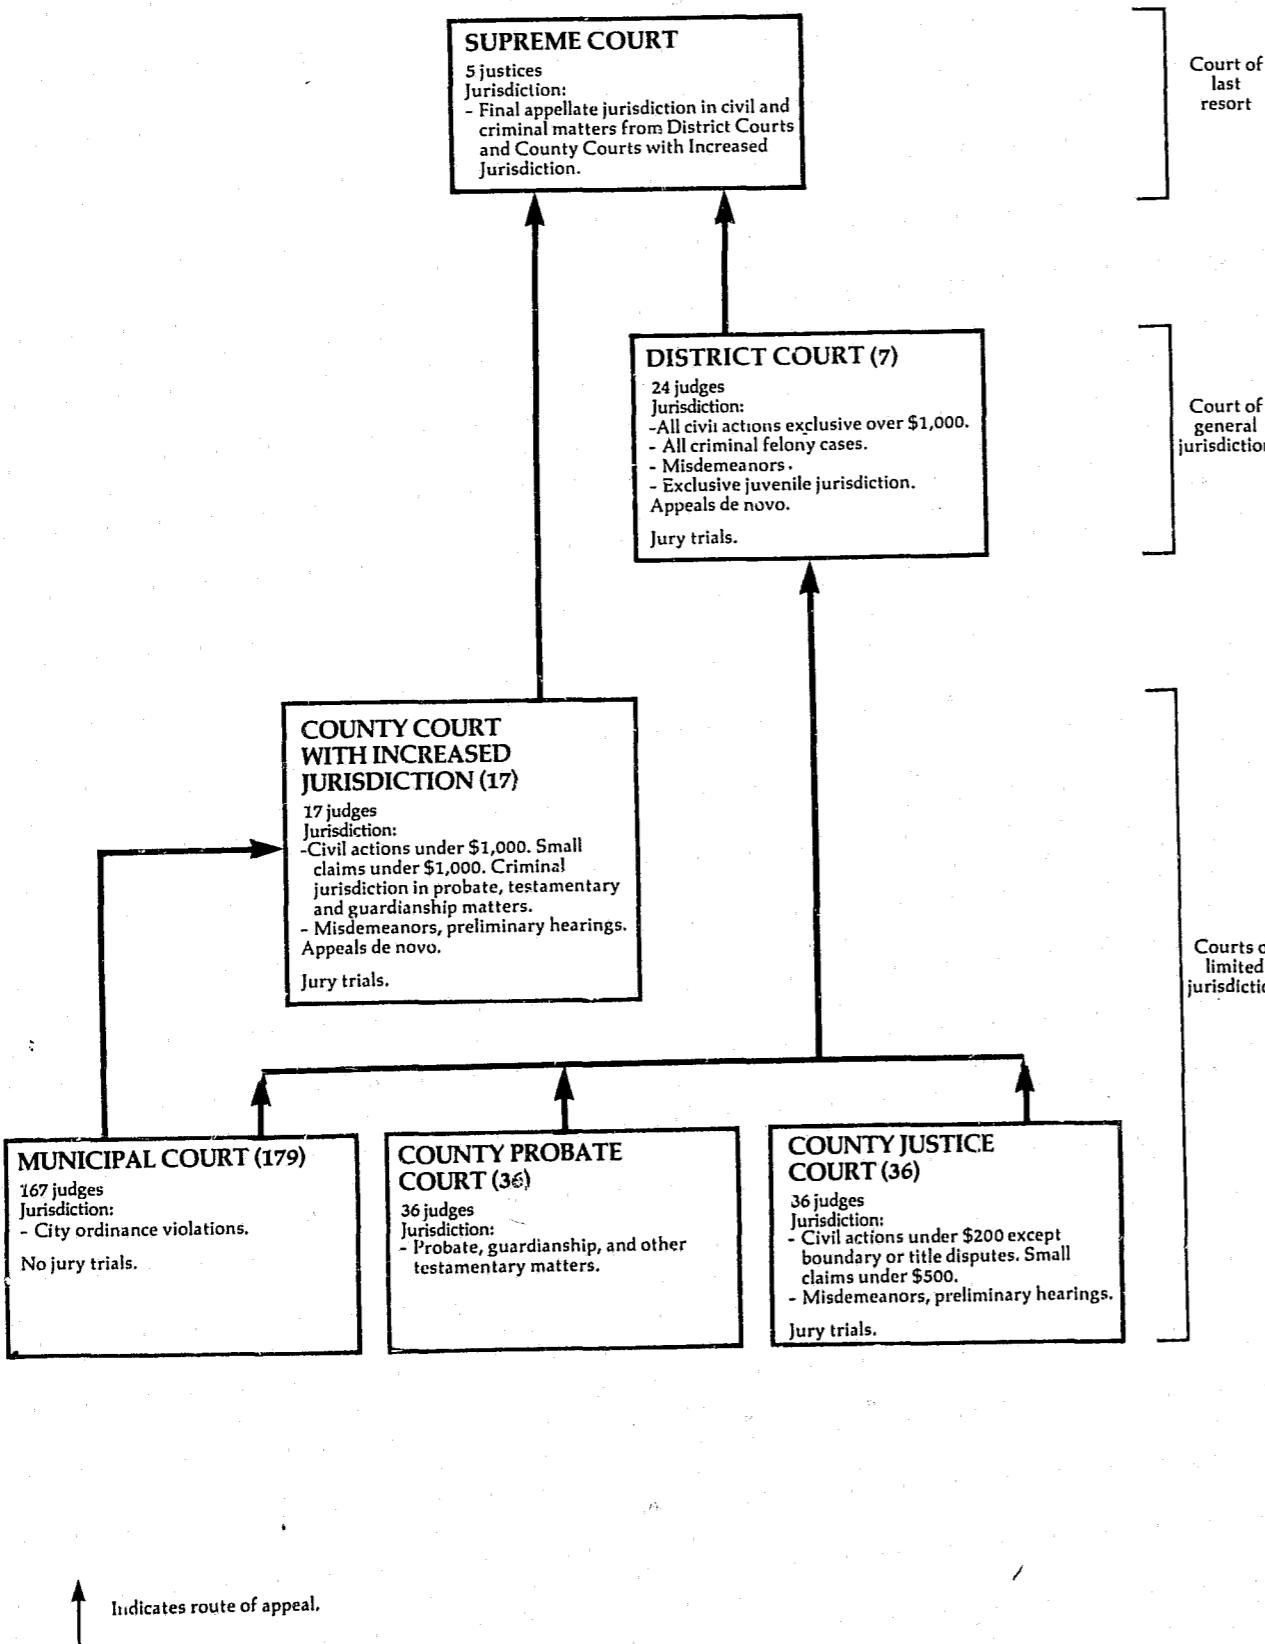

The difference is due to the change from the calendar to the fiscal year for the reporting period of the court.

iData are not complete:

Grand total pending figures do not include juvenile cases. Grand total filed and disposed include all categories.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A filing in North Dakota is not reported (for statistical purposes) until the case has been argued before the court; therefore, figures reported are lower than actual court workload.

^hFigure was computed:

Time interval from notice of appeal to decision data were calculated by adding the five categories included in the chart.

ⁱSpecial source or revision in data:

Figures footnoted were provided by the clerk of court during data verification.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

Supreme Court opinions in North Dakota are regarded as issued when the opinion is signed and filed with the clerk.

In addition to the 171 majority opinions, there were 23 special concurring or dissenting opinions.

Source: Unpublished data supplied by the clerk of the court and North Dakota Judicial Council, Annual Report, 1979, 1980 (Bismarck, North Dakota). Statistics are from the unpublished data and the annual report except that totals have been computed where necessary.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted at the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the case number assigned to the information or indictment.

The juvenile case unit of count is the number of referrals.

A jury trial is counted if tried to verdict.

A non-jury trial is counted when contested.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:

Figure is as calculated from data given in the annual report and supplied by the administrative office of the court.

hFigure was computed:

Beginning pending data were computed from filing and dispositions given in the annual report and end pending data supplied by the administrative office of the court during data verification.

iData are not complete:

Pending figures for total civil cases do not include other domestic relations or estate cases data.

Grand total pending figures do not include other domestic relations estate, juvenile traffic offenses, or juvenile data.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

Figures given for other criminal cases also include criminal infractions.

kAdditional information:

Included under other civil are 172 foreign judgment cases filed and 173 disposed.

Of the 6,814 juvenile, juvenile traffic, and termination of parental rights cases disposed, 1,066 were disposed formally, 3,377 informally, and 2,371 were disposed by counselling or adjustment. Included in cases reported under the juvenile heading on the profile are civil termination of parental rights and juvenile traffic violations.

lSpecial source or revision in the data:

These figures were provided by the administrative office of the court during data verification.

mInformation on time interval or age of pending data:

Trust cases pending are not included in the civil age of pending cases data.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court but the data are unavailable.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total, but were not available by category.

^aCourt jurisdiction:

The Supreme Court is the court of last resort for civil cases.

^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Petitions for certiorari that have been granted are not counted as disposed until the appeal is disposed; a filing is not counted for the resulting appeal. These granted petitions are the numbers appearing in parentheses.

Figures are as given in the annual report.

^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

The imbalance is caused by certiorari data not being included in the pending figures. Figures are as given in the annual report.

ⁱData are not complete:

Total other cases and total cases pending figures do not include certiorari cases pending.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

All civil appeals are originally filed in the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court then assigns some of these cases to the Court of Appeals for disposition. Therefore, cases assigned, disposed, and pending in the Court of Appeals have been deducted from the Supreme Court's appeals category and utilized as caseload figures for the Court of Appeals. There were 482 cases transferred to the Court of Appeals in 1979.

^kAdditional information:

Rehearing requests were denied in 81 of the cases.

^lSpecial source or revision in the data:

The number of rehearing requests disposed was provided by the administrative office of the courts during data verification.

CJudge information:

Three of the district judgeships were vacant at the beginning of 1979; there were 66 judges actually serving.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations or indictments.

A trial or contest is counted if tried to completion.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:

Figures are as given in the annual report.

iData are not complete:

Total criminal and grand total pending figures do not include pending figures for felony postconviction appeals. This category is included in the filing and disposition totals.

mCategories for disposition type or trial data:

On demurrer, abatement, or motion to dismiss, and pretrial are dispositions for auto tort, non-auto tort, property rights, contract, administrative, extraordinary writs, and other civil cases only. Dismissal, decree or approved settlement, decree or order after trial, decree or guilty plea, and by order or settlement are dispositions for domestic relations cases only.

Bond forfeitures are not included in the disposed figures of the previous page.

^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or indictment.

A trial is counted if tried to verdict or sentence, if adjudged guilty.

^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Figures are as given in the annual report.

ⁱData are not complete:

Civil trial and civil disposition data include only civil cases in the other civil category.

No trial figures were available for juvenile cases.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Civil under other civil includes trespass, assumpsit, equity, and miscellaneous civil cases that are counted when the case is placed at issue as ready for trial.

Criminal under felony/misdemeanor includes felonies, misdemeanors, and trial de novo for appeal.

Miscellaneous appeals include criminal appeals from District Justice Courts and other miscellaneous court actions.

d Case definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.
The criminal case unit of count is the number of charges.

The juvenile case unit of count is the number of charges filed.

A trial is counted if tried to verdict or decision.

f The beginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:

Figures are given in the annual report.

i Data are not complete:

Civil appeals total figures do not include appeals of trial court cases. Appeals of trial court cases data are included by category with other civil data for caseload inventory, trial, and disposition data.

j Explanation of data included in the category:

Filed figures include original filings, transfers, and reopened cases.

Appeals of trial court cases are included according to the case type for caseload inventories, trial, and disposition data.

The number of appeals filed in each category was given, but the number of dispositions and pendings could not be separated. There were civil appeals and criminal appeals filed.

Other special proceedings include declaration of heir, confiscation, permission of law, and recovery.

Other actions include declaration of private title, nullity of fraudulent trespass, and supplementary orders issued to impugn the document.

dCASE DEFINITION OR UNIT OF COUNT:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of indictments, arrest warrants, or summons.

A jury trial is counted if the case is concluded by jury, and judgment on the verdict has been rendered and filed. A non-jury trial is counted if the case is concluded without a jury.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:

Figures are as given in the annual report.

gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

This is caused by the missing data for preliminary hearing cases.

kADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

The Magistrate Court also issued 106,347 arrest and 1,685 search warrants.

In 1979, the court changed from the calendar year to the fiscal year as its reporting period. As a result the beginning pending figures for the 1979 fiscal year do not match those given as pending at the end of 1978.

^hFigure was computed:

The beginning pending figure was calculated from filed, disposed, and end pending figures given in the annual report.
^jExplanation of data included in the category:
Appeals filed figure includes reinstated appeals.

^mCategories for disposition type or trial data:
These 204 opinions disposed of 233 cases.
There were 89 cases disposed of by the 87 orders of dismissal or denial.

CJudge information:

This court is also served by 7 full-time and 16 part-time lawyer magistrates (11.7 FTE), 26 lay magistrates, and 61 lay magistrates/clerks (6.5 FTE).

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint. The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations or indictments. The juvenile case unit of count is the number of referrals. A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn. A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs.

iData are not complete:

Total misdemeanor and criminal cases filed and disposed and trial data do not include criminal Class 2 misdemeanor cases. These cases are included in the grand total filed and disposed figures.

Trial data do not include Class 2 misdemeanors, or any traffic or juvenile data. Total civil disposed figure does not include adoption, probate, or mental health cases.

Source: State Court Administrator's Office, Benchmark: A Biennial Report of the South Dakota Unified Judicial System, FY 1978 and 1979 (Pierre, South Dakota: December 1979). Statistics are from the biennial report except that totals have been computed where necessary, and additional information was supplied by the administrative office of the court during data verification.

The grand total disposed figure does not include civil adoption, probate, mental health, or juvenile cases.

jExplanation of data included in the category:
Offenses included in Class 1 misdemeanors are reckless driving, simple assault, and driving while intoxicated.

Offenses included in Class 2 misdemeanors are approximately 80% traffic cases. The remaining 20% are criminal cases and include disorderly conduct, prostitution, and gambling. Petty offenses are defined as vehicle equipment violations.

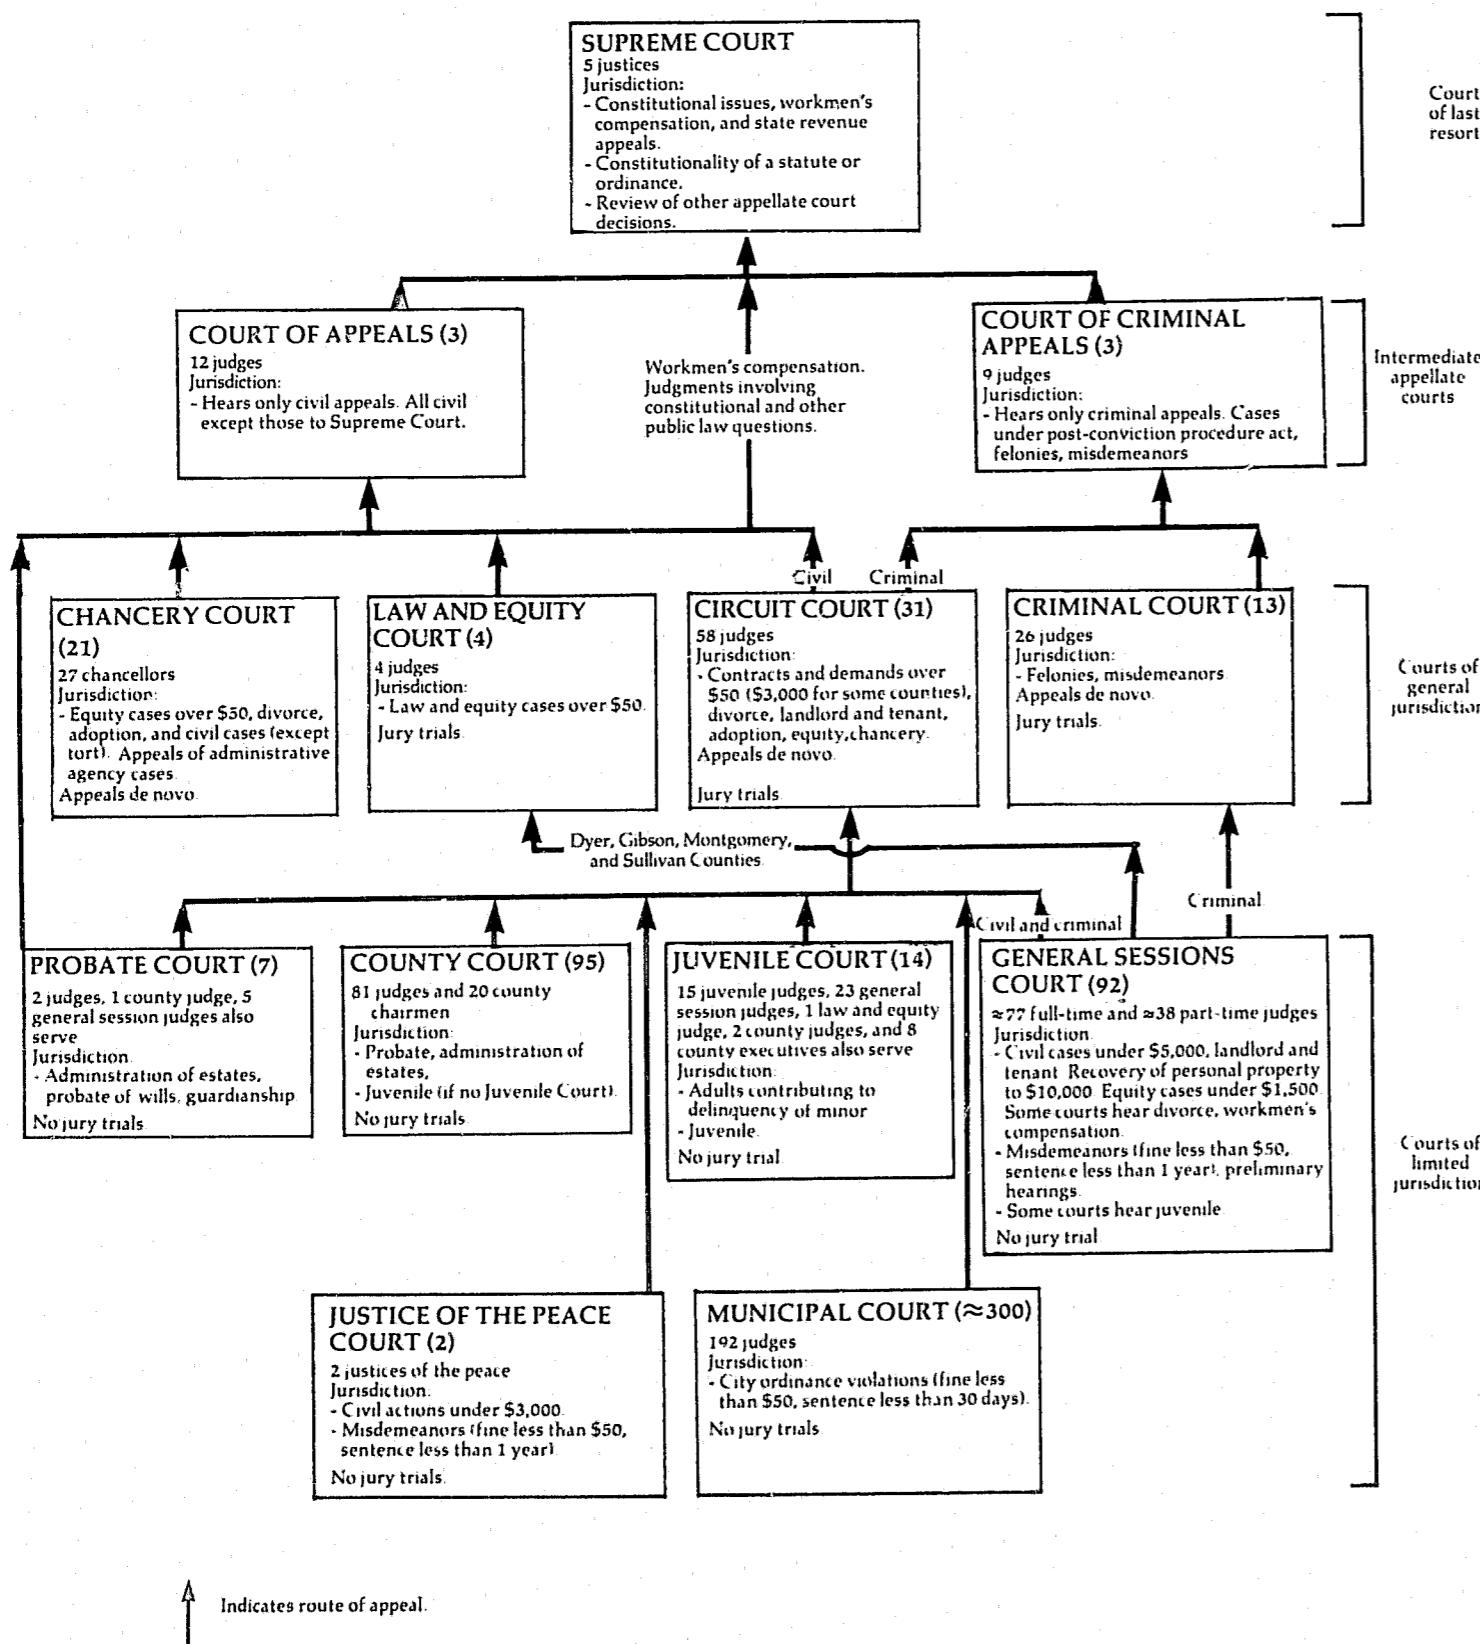

The total number of these cases filed and disposed are given in the traffic category since traffic is the majority of these cases.

Traffic data for DWI/DUI cases are included in with the Class 1 misdemeanor data on the court profile.

kAdditional information:
The juvenile caseload is handled by the court services department. There were 46.5 full-time equivalent court service officers during 1979.

lSpecial source or revision in the data:
Filing figures for criminal and traffic cases were supplied by the administrative office of the court during data verification.

-- = Not applicable.

^aCourt jurisdiction:

The Supreme Court is the court of last resort for civil cases only.

^bCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Motions for leave to file petitions for writs of mandamus, habeas corpus, or prohibition, and applications for writs of error when granted are not counted as disposed cases until the associated original jurisdiction cases or appeals are disposed. Similarly, a filing is not counted for the resulting original jurisdiction case or appeal. These granted petitions and applications are the numbers appearing in parentheses.

^cChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions.

Figures are as given in the annual report or as calculated from data given in the annual report or supplied by the clerk of the court.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

-- = Not applicable.

^aCourt jurisdiction:

The Court of Criminal Appeals is the court of last resort for criminal cases only. It has no original jurisdiction.

Cases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Applications for writ of habeas corpus, etc., when granted, are not counted as disposed until the associated habeas corpus appeal is disposed; a new filing is not counted for the resulting appeal. The applications granted are the figures appearing in parentheses.

^bBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:

Figures are as given in the annual report.

^cFigure was computed:

End pending figure was computed from filing, disposition, and beginning pending data. There were 91 of the 227 habeas corpus petitions under consideration at year end.

^dInformation on disposition type or trial data:

The court also filed 118 dissenting opinions, 41 concurring opinions, and 3 opinions dissenting in part, concurring in part.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.
-- = Not applicable.^dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or indictment.

A jury trial is counted when the jury is sworn.

A non-jury trial is counted at the point when an opening statement or the introduction of any evidence occurs. Guilty pleas in criminal cases after the start of a non-jury trial are not counted as trials.

Figures are as given in the annual report.

^gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Figures are as given in the annual report.

ⁱData are not complete:

Disposition and trial data for the civil category do not include dispositions and trials of extraordinary writs.

^jExplanation of data included in the category:

Filings include new cases filed and other cases reaching docket.

Domestic relations "nonadversary" category includes adoptions, change of name, occupational drivers' licenses, dependent and neglected children decisions, and removal of disability of minority.

^mInformation on disposition type or trial data:

Directed verdict cases are counted as jury trials on the tables in Part I of this report.

N/A = This case type is handled by the court, but the data are unavailable.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

bParticular court or reporting system information:

In the calendar year 1978, clerks in all counties reported data for all 12 months, a reporting rate of 100 percent.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of defendants on the information or complaint.

A trial is counted if tried to verdict or decision.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1978 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1977 court year:

The number of cases pending is adjusted by computer to reflect transfers and other year-end input.

gChange in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Criminal appeals pending and disposed figures are reported in the misdemeanor categories. Criminal appeals filed are reported separately.

As a result, neither misdemeanor or criminal appeals figures balance.

iData are not complete:

Total civil and grand total disposition and pending figures do not include estate cases. Filings are for all categories.

jExplanation of data included in the category:

"Other civil" includes all of Harris County (Houston) activity which was not reported in the four detailed civil categories.

Misdemeanor totals include appeal dispositions and pending cases. Appeal filings are separated from the misdemeanor cases.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total but were not available by category.

-- = Not applicable.

eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Petitions to appeal granted are not counted as disposed until the appeal is disposed; a filing is not counted for the appeal. The number of granted petitions to appeal appear in parentheses.

¹Change in pending does not equal the difference between filings and dispositions:

Figures are as reported in the annual report.

kAdditional information:

One mandamus and 31 habeas corpus cases were awarded; no prohibition cases were. The remaining original jurisdiction cases were refused: 221 habeas corpus, 57 mandamus, and 2 prohibition. In addition, four other cases were also refused that could not be identified by case type.

X = The data for this case type are known to be included in the total, but were not available by category.^eCases not included in the total to avoid double counting:

Requests to appeal that have been granted are not counted as disposed until the appeal is disposed; a filing is not counted for the resulting appeal. These granted requests to appeal are the numbers appearing in parentheses.

^kAdditional information:West Virginia does not have an automatic appeal in either civil or criminal cases. Case accounting provided by the court consists of accounting for petitions for appeal filed and acted upon. Data are not maintained regarding appeals as a separate category.
Original proceedings are heard on a discretionary basis.

dCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of indictments or warrants issued.

fBeginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal end pending figure for the 1978 court year:

These figures represent the number of cases awaiting service on December 1, 1978, a different data than the figures given as pending at the end of the 1978 court year.

hFigure was computed:

Beginning pending figures were calculated from filed, disposed, and end pending figures given in the unpublished data.

f Beginning pending figure for the 1979 court year does not equal the end pending figure for the 1978 court year:
Between 1978 and 1979, the court changed its reporting period from the fiscal year to the calendar year and also made some changes in its jurisdiction. As a result the numbers are not the same.

i Data are not complete:
Beginning pending total cases figure does not include the number of appeals pending at the beginning of the court year.
Total original jurisdiction, original proceedings, total other cases, and total cases pending and disposition data do not include miscellaneous cases.

Total other matters and total other proceedings filed do not include foreign bar admissions, bar exam, and diploma matters.

j Explanation of data included in the category:
The Supreme Court hears cases described as "review, bypass, and certification." It can review decisions of the Court of Appeals, hear cases on bypass of the Court of Appeals (on litigant's petition), or hear a case on certification from the Court of Appeals. To correspond with data reported from other states in this report, these cases are classified as appeals on this profile.

Statistics are collected separately by Milwaukee County, which is not a part of the otherwise statewide information system.

cCase definition or unit of count:

A civil case is counted with the filing of a petition or complaint.

The criminal case unit of count is the number of informations or indictments.

A Juvenile disposition is counted with the disposition of a formal petition.

A trial is counted when any testimony is taken.

fData are not complete:

Small claims data are reported for all cases in Milwaukee County, but for contested cases only in the rest of the state.

Juvenile data were available for Milwaukee County only.

Total trial figures do not include trials conducted for juvenile cases.

Appendices

Appendix A: Technical discussion of estimation procedures

A. Calculation of Missing and Incomplete Data

Least squares regression was used to estimate the total volume of filings and dispositions in trial and appellate courts for 1979. The procedure followed is similar to the one that was used to estimate the national totals for the 1978 edition of the Annual Report. The same or a reduced number of independent variables in each regression equation were used to predict 1979 filings and dispositions as were identified by the extended study conducted for the 1976 and 1977 Annual Reports. The coefficients of each regression equation were estimated, using all complete state-level caseload data. Unlike the 1978 Report, Puerto Rico and Guam were included in the estimation procedure.

The criterion used to identify which variables best predicted the caseload figures was the coefficient of determination (R^2) which tells what percent of the variation in the variable being predicted (i.e., the dependent variable), is explained by variation in the independent variable. The coefficient of determination can have any value between 0% and 100%. The combination of independent variables and variable transformations that produced the highest R^2 for each dependent variable was used in the estimating equation. The equations that were developed to estimate the 1979 national totals are discussed below.

Appellate Courts

Courts of last resort:

$$(1) \text{ Filings} = -53.98 + 1.10 \text{ (1979 court of last resort dispositions)}$$

$$(2) \text{ Dispositions} = 62 + .90 \text{ (1979 actual or estimated court of last resort filings)}$$

The number of missing data points that it was necessary to estimate with this pair of equations was small. Complete filing data were supplied by 48 of the 52 possible states and dispositions were given for 46. Only four states were unable to supply complete data for both filings and dispositions.

In previous years, appellate filings were found to be closely related to population figures. The coefficient of determination between estimates of 1976 population and filings in the court of last resort in 1976 was 81%; in 1977 it dropped to 54%; but for 1978 it dropped even lower, to 35%. This unacceptably low value continued in 1979, with an R^2 of 56%. Therefore, as in 1978, we looked for another variable to predict current year appellate filings. Judicial expenditures and numbers of appellate judges also yielded low R^2 's of 44% and 52% respectively. Although a multiple regression using these three independent variables improved the R^2 to 76%, current year appellate filings were found to be closely related to appellate dispositions in courts of last resort to predict 1979 filings, we calculated an R^2 value of 99%. When 1979 dispositions were unavailable, 1978 actual or estimated dispositions were used. The new predictive equation for filings in courts of last resort is given as equation (1) and was used to estimate filing figures for the four states that provided incomplete data. Dispositions were estimated from current year filing figures. For those states with incomplete filing data, the estimate of the filing figure from equation (1) was used as the independent variable in equation (2).

Intermediate Appellate Courts:

$$(3) \text{ Filings} = 56.3 + 1.01 \text{ (1979 intermediate appellate court dispositions)}$$

$$(4) \text{ Dispositions} = -8.6 + .97 \text{ (1979 intermediate appellate court actual or estimated filings)}$$

As was the case with the court of last resort, almost all states reported complete data for filings and dispositions in their intermediate appellate courts. The previously described method used to estimate the filing and disposition volume for courts of last resort was used here. Of the 30 states with intermediate appellate courts in 1979, only two did not report complete filing data and three did not report complete disposition data. Population, judicial expenditures and the number of intermediate appellate court judges were not sufficiently powerful explanations to justify inclusion in an estimating equation with R^2 's of 65%, 71% and 59% respectively. Current year dispositions were found to be good predictors of current year filings (R^2 value of 98%) for intermediate appellate courts. The new predictive equation (3) was calculated using data from 27 states. Dispositions were estimated in the same way as they were for the courts of last resort using equation (4).

Estimates for those states who failed to provide complete filing or disposition data can be found in Table A.

Note: Figures in this table are estimates. The District of Columbia, Florida, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, North Carolina and Virginia were excluded from this table because they had complete data for all four of the major categories.

-- = Represents complete reported data.

Trial Courts

Data for trial courts were estimated by case category: civil, criminal, traffic, and juvenile. Far fewer states reported complete trial data than for appellate data. As a result, the estimates of the national totals of cases filed and disposed in trial courts are less accurate than those given for appellate courts.

Civil:

$$(5) \text{ Filings} = -23,683 + 60.43 \text{ (total state expenditures)}$$

$$(6) \text{ Dispositions} = -5,547 + .97 \text{ (trial court civil filings)}$$

Equation (5) is based on data from 24 states, while equation (6) is based on data from only 19. The R² for equations 5 and 6 were 88% and 99% respectively.

The estimates of the volume of civil filings and dispositions in trial courts in all states are given in Table B.

Criminal:

$$(7) \text{ Filings} = -12,238 + 49.9 \text{ (total state population)}$$

$$(8) \text{ Dispositions} = -876 + .94 \text{ (trial court criminal filings)}$$

Equation (7) was based on data from 21 states, while equation (8) was based on data from 16 states. The R² were 86% and 99% respectively.

The estimates of criminal filings and dispositions for all states are given in Table B.

Traffic:

$$(9) \text{ Filings} = 22,762 + 40.9 \text{ (number of sworn police personnel)}$$

$$(10) \text{ Dispositions} = -4,965 + .98 \text{ (1979 trial court traffic filings)}$$

The procedure used to estimate the number of traffic cases filed and disposed during 1979 represents a radical departure from that used in previous years. A few states include parking cases as a part of their traffic caseload; most do not. In order to prevent those few states that include parking cases from inflating the estimates for states that do not include parking cases in their caseload, states reporting traffic data which include parking cases that were eliminated from the data were California, Hawaii, Illinois, Massachusetts and New Jersey. Equation (9) was estimated with complete traffic filing data (minus parking cases) from 22 states, while equation (10) was estimated with complete dispositions minus parking cases from 21. The R² for equations (9) and (10) were 44% and 99% respectively. Several states had disposition data but no filing data, and the following equation was used to estimate filings for those states:

$$\text{Filings} = 6,682 + 1.01 \text{ (1979 dispositions).}$$

This equation had an R² of 99%.

Juvenile:

$$(11) \text{ Filings} = 2,124 + .58 \text{ (1979 judicial expenditures)}$$

$$(12) \text{ Dispositions} = -309 + .98 \text{ (1979 trial court juvenile filings)}$$

Complete juvenile data were reported by more states than were data for any other category of trial court cases. Filing estimates were based on data from 39 states; disposition estimates were based on data from 29. However, the R² value (i.e., 38%) for measuring the adequacy of the estimation equation was lower for juvenile filings than it was for any of the other equations. This is probably a reflection of the different way each state counts juvenile cases. Although the R² was so low that very little confidence can be afforded estimates based on equation (11), it was the highest R² available for inclusion in the equation. Although the R² for equation (12) was very high (i.e., 99%) the estimates resulting from equation (12) were based upon juvenile filings yielded by the poor estimates of equation (11).

B. Calculation of the Estimates of National Totals

For each of the twelve categories of data represented above by an estimation equation, an estimate of the national total volume was calculated. Actual figures or estimates for all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam and Puerto Rico were added together to estimate the national totals. Finally, the estimates of total filings were added together by level of court to produce estimates of the total number of cases filed in all appellate courts and in all trial courts. Total dispositions for appellate and trial courts were produced in a similar manner. The estimates of caseload volume for appellate courts is given in Table 1 and for trial courts in Table 14 in Part I of this volume.

The estimates reported in Tables 1 and 14 should be considered as "ballpark" estimates of the actual data.
